SHOULD WALK SLOWLY

Premier-elect Mitchell F. Hepburn has announced that he intends to do away with the Hydro Electric Commission, and with the three men of that Commission would go Mr. F. A. Gaby, chief engineer of the Hydro. The reason given for the dismissal of the commission is that it is not needed, as one man could do the work and he would be responsible to the government, while the reason given for the firing of Mr. Gaby is that he condoned some of the hydro deals entered into by the retiring Conservative government and also that he dared to talk back to Mr. Hepburn and attempt to explain and reveal some of the attacks made against Ontario's great public institutions. We think that Mr. Hepburn should go slowly in his dismissals. Mr. Gaby is a man highly qualified for his position and if he condoned some of the acts of political interference he would only be doing his duty in carrying out demands and instructions of those who hire him. Without any doubt the head office expenses of the hydro are enormous, but the premier-elect could take some other measure, in reducing expenses, equally effectiye without dismissing the man who has been with the hydro from its infancy.

BENNETT—McLAUCHLAN

A house wedding was solemnized last Thursday at 140 Sunnyside Ave., Toronto, when Victoria Madeline, daughter of Mrs. McLauchlan and the late Rev. J. A. McLauchlan, was united in marriage to Rev. M. Melvyn Bennett, B.A. The ceremony was performed against a background of palms and pink and white peonies by Rev. Amos J. Thomas. Miss Cecelia Tourgis, pupil of the bride, played the wedding music. The bride, given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Emerson McLachlan, of Hamilton, wore a gown of ashes of roses suede lace, made on long fitted lines. After the ceremony a wedding luncheon was served. Later Mr. and Mrs. Bennett left on a motor trip.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bennett attended the wedding. Congratulations are extended by the people of Flesherton to Rev. and Mrs. Bennett.

Clydesdale Stallion
Warrix Ambition
IMPORTED

If you have mares you want to breed,
The Clydesdale horse takes the lead,
Then come and see this famous sire,
And when you see him you will admire,
That Murray picked a real good sire.
This horse from Scotland Murray did import;
A real good Clydesdale Murray thought,
His sire a real good Clydesdale sort,
His dam the best that could be got,
One of the finest of the sort.
This horse is large and smooth and round,
His limbs the best that could be found;
His movement graceful and refined,
His disposition always kind.
Thirteen dollars is our price
To use a horse that looks so nice,
With silky hair and good flat bone,
That always stays in good show form.
If you part with mare before her time
The insurance money you must find,
Or if returning you neglect
The insurance money we collect.
And if the farmers take advice
And use a horse that looks so nice
And with experience and good care
We risk our horse, but not your mare.

Flesherton Won 11-3

Flesherton defeated Markdale 11-3 on the local diamond Thursday afernoon, to make the second win of the season with one loss. The high wind and cold air caused numb fingers, making good ball playing impossible, Markdale making nine errors and Flesherton six.

Betts, McTavish and Best were consistent with the bat, the former gathering three hits from four trips to the plate, while McTavish had two from four times at bat and Best was up five times for two hits. Brown for Markdale was Markdale's best, while Berry and White came next. Phillips pitched the entire game for Flesherton and struck out ten Markdale batters, the same number of Flesherton players fanning the air at White's shoots. White allowed four free trips and Phillips one, while Flesherton had eight men stranded on the paths to Markdale's six.

While Flesherton won the game so decisively it was only through walks and errors and a couple of good healthy wallops at the ball at critical moments that enabled them to win. Three of the players collected seven of the nine hits registered and the three scored eight of the eleven runs, so the other players will need to brush up on their batting practice for Flesherton to travel very far in the League race.

SMITH—McMULLEN

At Buckingham church, Feversham, Ontario, attractively arranged with peonies, snow-balls and ferns, was the charming wedding at 2 p.m., Saturday afternoon, June 16, when Lillian Jeanette, daughter of Mrs. and the late Mr. David McMullen of Feversham Ontario, was united in marriage to Roscoe Isaac, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Smith of Flesherton. Rev. L. Pickering of Barrie officiated and Mrs. L. McMullen played the wedding music. During the signing of the register Mr. L. McMullen, brother of the bride sang, "O' Promise Me."

The bride given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Stewart McMullen was dressed in a graceful gown of white satin with long tight button sleeves and her veil of silk net was arranged in bonnet style and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and lily of the valley. Miss Winnifred McMullen, sister of the bride, was attendant, wore a gown of flowered chiffon with white hat and white accessories and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses. Mr. Stanley Menzies of Flesherton was groomsman.

A reception was later held for the immediate relatives at the home of the bride's mother, after which the young couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes for a motor trip to Northern Ontario, the bride wearing a blue swagger suit with grey hat and accessories. On their return the young couple will reside in Flesherton.

Wonderful Instinct Of Dog Displayed

Mr. Sam Stauffer relates the following story which occurred last week while he was in the hospital at Markdale:

Mr. William Stafford, employed in a garage at Berkeley, was in the hospital from burns received when gas from the hose of a gasoline pump spilled over his clothes and ignited from the exhause of the car. He was taken in a car and carried into the hospital at Markdale where he received medical attention. Two days later at 11.30 p.m., as Dr. Carefoot was entering the hospital he noticed a police dog sitting on the verandah. He chased it away and went on into the building where he went the rounds of the patients and remarked to Mr. Stafford and Mr. Stauffer that a strange police dog was out on the verandah and related his experience with it. Two hours later the dog barked and Stafford exclaimed that it was his dog. He called "Rex" and the dog answered with a sharp bark. The night nurse went down to let the animal in. It raced upstairs and into the sick room, jumping on the bed and was overjoyed at finding its master. No amount of coaxing could make it leave the sick room and it was still there the next day at noon. When Mr. Stafford left for the hospital the dog was not around the garage, where it usually stays, and how it found its way to the hospital and to its owner is one of those instinct of dog nature that cannot be explained.

POSTURE

No one would question the desirability of good posture, or deny that it is a social asset. Good posture expresses alertness, self-confidence, and a capacity to do things, and, for these reasons, it is an essential characteristic for the business man or woman.

By good posture, we mean the unconscious habit of sitting and standing erect and walking with a free and easy carriage. In good posture, the ear, shoulder, hip, knee and ankle are in a straight line when the individual is standing erect.

The relationship between posture and health is not definite. In general, we may say that good posture reflects good health, but good posture does not necessarily imply good health, nor does poor posture always result in lack of heaith. Good posture enables the body to function well mechanically, while faulty posture may lead to the displacement of important organs, thus interfering with their proper functioning, which, in turn, may cause pain or other symptoms.

An understanding of the causes of poor posture enables us to prevent or correct the condition. An important cause is fatigue, because when the muscles are relaxed, as a result of fatigue, there occurs loss of the support which the muscles normally provide, and the result is poor pasture. The afternoon rest for children up to school age is one practical means of avoiding fatigue and, in this way, securing good posture.

When the young child is lifted or carried adequate support should be given him, as otherwise, a stress is placed upon the muscles, which they are unable to meet because they are not sufficiently developed. The mattress of a child's bed should be firm and even, with no sagging. The child who has never been giyen a pillow does not miss it and, in fact, is better without it.

Good posture cannot be hoped for unless the body is properly nourished by a balanced diet. Poor posture is one symptom of malnutrition which, in turn, is often associated with fatigue. An adequate supply of vitamins and minerals is essential for good nutrition, and that is why cod liver oil and orange juice are introduced early into the child's diet.

Poor posture may be largely a matter of habit, growing out of a slouching position while reading or sitting at a desk. Clothing which constricts the body or restricts its free and comfortable movement interferes with good posture and may cause stooping shoulders.

The securing of good posture depends, in large measure, upon the points mentioned. Without making the child self-conscious, he should be encouraged to sit and stand erect, and to develop his muscles through play.

—HAVE YOU RENEWED?

The Ottawa Letter

The result of the elections could have been guessed by the behaviour of the members of the House of Commons. The night of the election the Liberals were in such a rollicking mood, marching up and down the corridors to the music of Tom Reid's pipes, shouting and singing, that the Prime Minister thought it best to adjourn the House at 10 o'clock. But the celebration went on with a jubilant hang-over that made the House turbulent eyery day in the week.

The day after the election a beautiful basket of red roses, tied with lots or red, red ribbon, adorned the desk formerly occupied by the Premier-elect of Ontario, Mitchell F. Hepburn. The entrance of Mr. King into the Chamber of the House of Commons gave the Liberals a chance to express their surfeit of joy and on the Orders of the Day, Mr. King asked the Prime Minister if he did not think, in view of the result of the elections, that he should dissolve the House and appeal to the country. Mr. Bennett, supported vigorously by his party's applause, rose with great dignity to reply: "The Government will advise His Excellency as to the dissolution when in the opinion of the Government dissolution is desirable in the interests of the country."

The Liberals are exhibiting a new energy in debate and have been this week converted to the principle of public ownership of the Central Bank. Previously, Hon. W. D. Euler, Ian MacKenzie, and Chubby Power were voices crying in the wilderness of the Liberal party. Now I suppose the official Opposition believes it necessary to take a position opposite to that of the Government and so they become the proponents of public ownership of the Central Bank.

I am delighted that the new public works program of forty million dollars, announced in the House of Commons this week, is to be financed with new money. It is true the Prime Minister gave an elaborate explanation of it connecting it with gold, which is simply camouflage. At the world conference in London the principle was laid down that a 25 per cent. anchorage of gold was sufficient for the larger part of currency. We have been using only 25 per cent. gold coverage up to 50 million dollars, and dollar for dollar after that for all note issue (not bank loans.) Under the new plan 25 per cent. is found to be adequate coverage up to 120 millions, with dollar for dollar above that figure. The difference makes it possible to issue 53 million dollars of new money against the same amount of gold, 40 of which are to be used for the public works program. But after all is said and done, we have 53 million dollars new paper money on wihch the people do not need to pay interest, and which will be as effective in securing goods and services for the people into whose pockets it finds its way as if it were solid gold. It is national credit put to the use of the nation, without paying tribute to the banks.

The Mackenzie King Government, before the last election appointed permanent returning officers in the various constituencies but this week the Government of the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett changed the Act in such a way that the returning officers for the coming Federal election will be the appointments of this Government. $600,000 has been voted to prepare a basic list for the approaching Federal election. Should the election come this year this first compilation will be "the" list, but in case of a delay until next year a revision would be necessary. It is significant that the election machinery is all being got ready. However the Government has a large and disciplined majority and need not go to the country unless it wishes. As Charles Bishop says in the Ottawa Citizen, it can be goaded and taunted, but it cannot be budged.

Distressing details of sweat-shop conditions in eight shoe factories in Quebec were among the last evidence submitted to the Stevens Committee this week. One plant which made substantial profits in four years paid an average weekly wage to men of $9.39 and to women of $8.75. Eighty-two of the men received less than $5.00 a week and fifty per cent. of the men and boys in the plant last October received less than the minimum wage set for inexperienced women. When an investigator asked a man how he existed on his wages, he replied that four families lived in one house, and that he ate only one piece of bread for lunch.

In one department of fifty-five girls, only two made the minimum wage and boys received $2.50 and $3.00 for a week of 52 hours.

According to the evidence, labor costs of $2 or $3 may go into a man's suit which department stores sell for $25 or $30. The auditors told of men, women and children working in their homes, stitching clothes at rates netting the whole family less than 50c a day, and of contractors offering 35c, 40c or 50c for making a dozen pairs of boys trousers. Members of the Committee were shocked anew by the material submitted. One plant farmed out an order of men's suits at the following rates; coats, 90c; trousers 35c; vests 32c. In some cases workers would be lucky if they netted $1.25 for the labor on a suit.

The facts submitted make it clear that the farmer and fishermen each receive but a fraction of the consumer's dollar. It was shown that while fishermen sell haddock at 1c a lb., the man who puts it in cold storage and packs it, called the distributor by the trade, sells it to the wholesaler for 4¼c; the wholesaler sells the same fish at 7c lb. and the retailer charges the consumer 11c lb. for it. The fisherman gets 1c out of every 11c a lb. paid by the consumer.

It is rumored that the Committee will be converted into a Royal Commission and continue its sittings after the House rises, which, with the new energy displayed by the Liberal party, may not be until after July 1st.

I enjoyed my week at home in Southeast Grey, even though it was in the whirlwind finish of an election campaign, except for the day of the picnic, which found me so ill I could hardly keep going. F. R. Oliver, with his majority of 2,689, had so little need of my help that I could quite handily have done no work at all. However I will soon be home again and I am going, this summer, to rest more assiduously than is my custom.

Today at noon I address the International Convention of Zonta Clubs at the Seigneury Club, Quebec, on "Money Matters." We all know it matters, don't we? The less we have the more it matters.

County Road Work

The 60 degree curve on the Kimberely-Eugenia section of the County highway system is just about completed and will make a great change for the better on this curve. Work is almost completed on the hill at Cherry Grove on the 11th of Euphrasia, which is being considerably reduced. Mr. Harold Weaver of Walters Falls has the contract for the erection of the bridge over the Saugeen River at that point and will commence shortly on the construction. Gravelling on the County Road in Osprey is almost completed, the gravel being taken from the pit on the farm of John Hargrave, east of Rock Mills.

The father of the five girls at Corbeil should be careful before starting to walk the floor with any of them. If they all get the desire for such entertainment father may become exhausted.
