Pass At Normal

Four out of seven former pupils of Flesherton high school were successful in securing their first year examinations at Toronto Normal school. These were: Elda Frook, Marion Shaw, Jackson Stewart and Mervyn Little. Another former pupil, Mr. Sam McDonald of Eugenia was successful in securing his second term Normal examinations. Congratulations are extended to these young people on their success.

PLAYS LARGEST HORN

A former Dundalk boy, Joe Park of Chicago, plays the largest sousaphone ever used in concert work. Joe is a member of Palmer Clark's Orchestra, playing at the World's Fair in Chicago. The bell of this massive horn is 36 inches in diameter, 12 inches larger than the average one, and it weighs twice as much, 75 pounds. The horn in question is plated with 22-carat gold, and the history of music is engraved over the entire horn in white gold. The horn is loaned to the orchestra by C. G. Conn Limited, the makers and owners and is valued at $5,700.

Improving Ontario Bacon For The Export Market

The department has been making strenuous efforts to get better prices for its bacon hogs on the British market. About the first move in this direction was made last summer when the department purchased a carlot of the Canadian National Exhibition prize carlot hogs of the proper type to make up a shipment of highest grade Wiltshire sides for the British market. The hogs were killed, cured, and shipped overseas under government supervision at every point and the special co-operation of Ontario House in London.

The Ontario Marketing Board has been studying the situation and several meetings of packers have resulted in the suggestion of forming an Ontario Bacon Export Association with the idea of creating in England a demand for Ontario bacon of the best type as distinguished from the ordinary run of Canadian bacon. As Ontario has done with apples and honey, the province plans to establish and control a super grade of bacon which will place Ontario bacon in a price range class equal to the highest now on the British markets. This will mean many thousands of dollars additional to the hog raisers whose price ranges are fixed by the lower export prices now unfairly applied against the better type of bacon because there is no way of distinguishing it from the ordinary Canadian bacon. A second experimental carload of bacon, this time shipped under the super quality Big "O" Brand, is to be sent over to Great Britain shortly.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture has announced a future policy of bacon grading and inspection for export which will check the present tendency of the manufacturers to spoil our British markets with low grade shipments. Whatever grades may be established at Ottawa the Ontario brand will have higher grade requirements and it is the aim to place Ontario bacon at a premium and only license the use of this brand to packers fully meeting its requirements.

The Boys At Camp

The following report of the boys' camp held last week near Clarksburg is supplied The Advance by one of those in attendance, Robert Bellamy:

To understand the program of Blue Mountain Camp, one must first understand its aim. The controlling power is the Boys' Work Board, aided by a committee of local men who are interested in boys' work. The purpose of the Work Board and its representative, Gordon Lapp, the camp director is to help the development of boys in the four phases of life—intellectual, physical, devotional and social. Another purpose is to give the boys a good, yet harmless, time. The whole plan is summed up by the verse "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man," Luke 2:52. Notice how each event on the program is placed so as to force this purpose into the development of the boys without their feeling any pain or even discontent.

The first thing in the morning was a short, snappy period of physical culture, then a "morning dip" and wash. The flag was raised when the boys were dressed and "morning watch" period was started. This was usually considered by the boys as the most effective part of the camp Each boy takes his "morning watch" booklet and Bible and goes away by himself for a few minutes of meditation. Afterwards comes one of the important events of the day—breakfast. A half hour period is then used to clean up tents, and a period of Bible study followed and two periods of proficiency badge work. After this it is time for a swim and dinner, which is followed by a rest period of one hour.

In the afternoon there is a special feature—a hike, or treasure hunt—and on one occasion a trip was made to Wasaga Beach. The afternoon swim came at five o'clock and supper followed. Games including volley ball and softball. came after supper and at sunset the boys lined up and walked quietly to a hillside for vesper service. When darkness came the campfire was lit and dramatizations were given of indian dances. songs and stories. Shortly after ten p.m. was bedtime. One does not necessarily follow this time table. If he is sick a boy may do what he feels like doing. If he is lazy he may do the same and come under the contempt of the rest of the camp — but at camp boys are not lazy.

A writer aptly describes an infant as "A stomach completely surrounded by curiosity."
