A PROVIDENTIAL DISCOVERY.

IT POINTED OUT HOW A NEW LIFE COULD BE OBTAINED.

A Lady Accidentally Picks up a Book While Going Through the Hamilton Market—The Golden Advice Was Observed and Almost Miraculous Results Followed.

Mrs. W. M. Potter, of 121 John street, North, Hamilton, Ont., will remember till the end of life, her discovery of a little book, while passing through the Hamilton market.

To many men and women, such a find would not have been considered important or worthy of any thought. Hundreds would have thought it a lowering of dignity to stoop for the purpose of picking up an ordinary looking book in magazine form; others would have passed and re-passed without even seeing it.

Mrs. Potter was a sufferer, she was physically broken-down, and was also suffering great mental agonies. Still, she was being led by the good and unerring hand of providence. She had evidently been directed to the crowded and noisy market-place by some strong and mysterious agency, which she did not know, or could not describe.

MRS. W. M. POTTER.

We can imagine the looks of astonishment and wonder that were directed towards the suffering and almost helpless woman by the crowds on that particular day.

Her pale and pinched face, sunken eyes, her nervous and irresolute walk and weak frame, must have drawn expressions of sympathy from friends and strangers who passed her.

Heedless and unmindful of the uttered or unexpressed sentiments of men and women, Mrs. Potter passed onward, guided by an unseen power.

Hope and strong faith made her pick up the book in which was a message of life. She tremblingly laid hold of it and took it home. With great earnestness she commenced to read the various stories of wonderful cures.

Suddenly her hope brightens and she is filled with joy!

She reads of one who was afflicted and tortured with the same death-dealing troubles which now bore so heavily on her. She reads how a new life—a joyous and happy existence was found.

The story of the wonderful cure was related in such a truthful, simple and convincing manner, that Mrs. Potter was convinced that she had now found the true cure. She could not rest until she procured the great medicine. There was no hesitation or vain reasoning on her part; no "putting off" until a more convenient season. She was a firm believer in prompt and vigorous action; and, notwithstanding her weak condition, she hurried over to her druggist and procured a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound.

The great remedy was faithfully taken from day to day, until six bottles were used, and a glorious and complete cure effected.

Mrs. Potter's letter of testimony sent to the proprietors of Paine's Celery Compound, will do more in the way of convincing sufferers of the nature of that wonderful preparation, than thousands of newspaper arguments could do. Under date of Sept. 5th, Mrs. Potter writes as follows:—

"For the benefit of other sufferers, I consider it my duty to let you know what Paine's Celery Compound has done for me. I was affected with nervousness, sleeplessness, and loss of appetite, and became so bad that I was obliged to give up housekeeping, and take a room on McNab street last March. I happened one day to go through the market, and I picked up a book, "Our Album," which I took home and read. I could see just what I wanted to cure me, and went to G. W. Spackman & Co., on market square, and bought a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, and commenced to take the medicine four times a day. I used the great Compound regularly until I had taken six bottles; and, I now thank God for such a wonderful remedy. It will be my aim to recommend it to all my friends who are suffering from any trouble. If there are doubters, let them write to me, and I will convince them.

I have commenced housekeeping again; I can eat well, sleep well, work well, and am in good health, thanks to Paine's Celery Compound.

MRS W. M. POTTER,
121 John St. North, Hamilton, Ont.

The proprietors of the world-famed Paine's Celery Compound, wish to be distinctly understood that their mission and work is not altogether one of "money-making." They desire to offer a helping hand to all in distress; pain and suffering, and particularly to those who have exhausted their means with physicians, and in the purchasing of remedies which have failed to cure.

The Wells & Richardson Co., of Montreal, will forward a supply of their medicine to any individual who is not in a position to purchase it, provided a letter accompanies the application signed by some clergyman, mayor, reeve, justice of the peace or postmaster, testifying that the applicant is worthy of such aid and assistance.

A skilled physician is employed by the proprietors of Paine's Celery Compound, whose work is to prescribe and give advice to all sufferers in Canada.

All correspondence with "Consulting Physician's" department is strictly confidential.

Loaned by the Vatican.

The exhibition to be opened in honor of Christopher Columbus at Madrid has just received two of the most interesting exhibits, and the lender has been the Vatican. They are geographical maps of very early date, and of extreme rarity. One drawn in the lifetime of Alexander VI. shows the chart of the world as it was believed to exist at the commencement of the sixteenth century. A line, the drawing of which is traditionally ascribed to Alexander himself defines the limits of the Spanish possessions in America, and separates them from those of Portugal. The second map—less ancient than the first—has a greater historical value, as the precise date is not left to conjecture. An inscription in Spanish announce that it is the handiwork of the cosmographer of the King of Spain, who prepared it by command of the king at Seville in the year 1529, and under it is the rather naive announcement, not that it is a map of the world, but a map of so much of the world as had been discovered up to that date. These documents are the more interesting as their provenance and pedigree are above all doubt. They come from the famous museum originally founded by Cardinal Borgia when he was Perfect of the Propaganda. No European institution is so rich in ethnographic treasures, which have poured into it from all parts of the Christian world in answer to eloquent and pressing appeals.

Lately the deputy reeve of Camden, Wm. A. Martin, and a friend were duck hunting on Napanee lake. They had shot five birds and wounded another, when the dog they had in with them jumped out and upset the boat. The water was about eight feet deep, and besides losing their guns and outfit, Mr. Martin, who had just recovered from a serious illness, was nearly drowned. The guns sank into the mud and could not be recovered.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brown Valley, Ind., says: "I had been in a distressed condition for three years from nervousness, weakness of the stomach, dyspepsia and indigestion until my health was gone. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than $50 worth of doctoring I ever had in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world." A trial bottle will convince. Warranted by Polson & Co.

Ku-Klux Klan Nomenclature.

The Ku-Klux Klan had the most terrifying system of nomenclature ever known in the history of the English language. A local lodge was called a Den, the members called themselves Ghouls and the master a Cyclops. A county was a province, which was governed by a Grand Giant and four Goblins. A Congressional district was called a Dominion and governed by a Grand Titan and six Furies. A State was a realm, presided over by a Grand Dragon and eight Hydras, while the whole South was an Empire, ruled by a Grand Wizard and ten Genii. Such names as these cunningly repeated with bated breath in the ears of the superstitious colored people were in themselves sufficiently terrible to inspire intense fear, but when to these were added a dragon banner, a mask descending to the breast, a full assortment of deadly weapons, a set of owl hoots and blood-curdling wolf yells, no wonder the colored people were thrown into a state of fright bordering on lunacy.

AN ANGLO-CANADIAN MIRACLE

AN INTERESTING LETTER FROM ACROSS THE ATLANTIC.

James Ingram Relates The Story of His Sufferings And Release—Restored After The Best Doctors Had Failed.

The fame of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is not confined to Canada and the United States, but extends also across the ocean, and from the mother land comes a letter from one who learned the value of this great remedy while in Canada and who now, although thousands of miles away gratefully acknowledges what Pink Pills have done for him after medical aid and all other remedies had failed. His letter cannot fail to bring hope to other sufferers as it assures them that in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills they may look for a cure even in cases pronounced by the most eminent medical specialists as incurable.

Rhiorderon, Monmouthshire, Eng., Nov. 20th, 1891.

To the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Canada.

Gentlemen,—It may surprise you to receive this letter from across the ocean, but I could not be doing my duty did I not write to thank you for the noble medicine called Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and to let you know what they had done for me after four years suffering, and when all other medical aid had failed. My trouble occurred while in Canada, and I was treated by several doctors and in the Montreal general hospital by Drs. Smith, Molson and Macdonell. I first felt the effects of the disease, which the doctors pronounced diabetes, in January, 1889. I used many remedies and tried numerous doctors, with the only result that I grew poorer in both health and pocket. At last in despair I went to the general hospital for treatment, but the result was no better, and on the 30th of April, 1891, I left that institution a poor broken hearted, downcast man, Dr. Macdonell having informed me that they had done all they could for me. I continued on in misery until about the middle of August, when I saw in the Montreal Star an article telling the story of a man who after spending hundreds of dollars, had tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and found a cure. Drowning men, they say, will catch at a straw, and it would be impossible for me to express the gratitude I feel for the hope that man's story gave me. I at once bought a box of Dr Williams' Pink Pills from R. Birks, druggist, on McGill street. Before I had finished it I felt that Pink Pills were helping me, and I procured four more boxes. These almost restored me to health, and through the kindness of Mr. O'Brien, of the harbor works, I was given a light job on the harbor wharf, and was again able to earn my living. I made up my mind, however, to return to the land of my birth, and on the 5th of November sailed for England. The passage was rough, and I caught cold, which set me back somewhat, but I am again regaining strength. I find that I cannot get the Pink Pills here and I want you to send me a supply, as under no circumstances would I be without them, and you may be sure I will gladly recommend them to my friends both here and elsewhere.

Yours gratefully,
JAMES INGRAM.

Dr. William's Pink Pills are a perfect blood builder and nerve restorer, curing such diseases as rheumatism, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, St. Vitus' dance, nervous headache, nervous prostration and the tired feeling therefrom, the after-effects of la grippe, diseases depending on humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. Pink Pills give a healthy glow to pale and sallow complexions, and are a specific for the troubles peculiar to the female system, and in the case of men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, over work or excesses of any nature.

These Pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine company, Brockville, Ont., and Schenectady, N.Y., and are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper, at 50c. a box, or six boxes for $2.50. Bear in mind that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are never sold in bulk, or by the dozen or hundred, and any dealer who offers substitutes in this form is trying to defraud you and should be avoided. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams Medicine Company from either address. The price at which these pills are sold make a course of treatment comparatively inexpensive as compared with other remedies or medical treatment.

Hunting Tigers in India.

The only two methods of tiger-hunting that are practical really here are "netting," and sitting up all night in a tree by a "kill" waiting for the tiger to return for his food. Almost all sportsmen have tried this latter, and generally been disappointed; as I was in another part of India, and have always solemnly vowed that each occasion should be their very last, only to be found at it again on the very next opportunity. Some really like this solitary watching, but it has very many drawbacks to its enjoyment. Several Indian sportsmen, who have killed their forty or fifty tigers, have told me they had been nearly always unsuccessful with it. It is very wearisome work sitting from about four o'clock in the afternoon until daybreak next day, always on the alert to see something that does not come; and with the darkness mosquitoes come in quantities, and perhaps a scorpion will ferret you out, or, worse than all, you may be visited by the red ant. It is very uncertain when a tiger will return to the "kill." He may do so as early as three or four in the afternoon, or just before day break, or not at all, often being frightened away, perhaps by some unforeseen circumstance. The slightest rustle will make him stop, and once his suspicions are aroused, he will not venture near. To shoot him on foot by stalking is an impossibility. The sportsmen will occasionally come upon a tiger when after other game, and may then have a chance of a shot. If there are a few men who keep together, a tiger, even if wounded, will think twice before charging into the middle of them, and will always shirk the last ten or fifteen feet. None but the most foolhardy or utterly ignorant would venture to follow a wounded tiger into long grass or very close cover, where it has every advantage, and the hunter may be seized before he has time to raise his rifle. One of the tiger's greatest aids in his attacks is his voice, the sudden coughing roar of which is paralyzing to the coolest, and of course for a certain shot the nerves must be perfectly steady, with "no flinching."—Harper's Magazine.

THREW AWAY HIS CRUTCHES.

A True Account Of A Remarkable Event—Statement Of Mr. McNee.

For eight years I was troubled with a sore on my leg which resulted from having it broken. The doctors kept me in bed five months trying to heal it up, but all to no purpose. I tried all sorts of salves, liniments, ointments, pills and blood mixtures but with no benefit. In 1883 it became so bad that I had to sit on one chair and keep my foot on another for four months. I could not put my foot on the ground or the blood would rush out in a stream and my leg swelled to twice its natural size. Eleven running sores developed on it, which reduced me to a living skeleton (I lost 70 lbs. in four months.) Friends advised me to go to the Hospital; but I would not, for I knew they would take my leg off. The doctor then wanted to split it open and scrape the bone, but I was too weak to stand the operation. One old lady said it had turned to black erysipelas and could never be cured. I had never heard of Burdock Blood Bitters then, but I read of a minister, Rev. Mr. Stout, who had been cured of a severe abscess on the neck by B.B.B., after medical aid had failed, and I thought I would try it. I washed the leg with the Bitters and took them according to directions. After using one bottle I could walk on crutches, after taking three, I threw away the crutches, took a scythe and went to work in the field. At the end of the sixth bottle my leg was entirely healed up; pieces of loose bone had wor
