ELECTRIC BOOT CLEANING.

The Latest and Most Curious Drop-a-Nickel-in-the-Slot Machine.

Another new invention has made its appearance. This is the work of two young men who, being inspired by the success of the slot machines, have put together a contrivance, which, if fed a 5-cent coin, will turn loose and shine your shoes. The patron inserts the price into a slot, climbs into a chair, and places one shoe against a swiftly-revolving brush, which sweeps off the dirt on the same principle that a street sweeper scrapes the pavement. After the other shoe has been treated in a similar manner the patron turns to the dauber brush, which is deftly painted with blacking, and proceeds to prepare his shoes for the shine. Once thoroughly blackened by the dauber, which revolves at the same speed as the cleaner, the man in the chair turns his shoes to the lathe brush and the polishing begins. The work is done thoroughly and expeditiously. It isn't any patent leather shine, but it will answer all purposes. The brushes are run by electric batteries stored away under the little platform upon which the chair rests. The inventors claim that they will have the machines on the street corners early next spring.

ELECTRIC BOOT CLEANING.

Good Tidings.

The following taken from the Tilsbury Times, of October 14th, is of interest to the people of Kingston, as well as the public generally:—

TILSBURY CENTRE, Oct. 14 h—Word reached this office the other day of such a prompt cure of a case of piles as to justify investigation by the Times. The grateful individual was Peter Lahoute, known here for years past, who willingly testified to the Times reporter that he was employed in Crawford's handle factory here and further said: About a month ago I was taken with a bad case of piles. During the week following the attack I was scarcely able to work. I went to Johnston's drug store for relief and he sold me a bottle of Magic Pile Lotion. I tried it and the three applications completely cured me in one day, and I have not been troubled since, that was three weeks ago. Very little of the contents of the bottle was used, and I gave some to my cousin, which cured her with one application, and most of the contents of the bottle still remain."

RICH FOREIGNERS.

The Multi-millionaires of South Africa, China and Australia.

Much has been said and written about the millionaires of America, but other countries can boast of some of them as well. The richest man in South Africa and the wealthiest diamond miner in the world is B. I. Barnato, of Kimberly. He is worth $30,000,000, all of it made since 1876, in which year he settled in Kimberly. After Barnato the richest man in South Africa is Cecil J. Rhodes, sometimes called the "uncrowned king of South Africa." He possesses great force of character and splendid mental gifts, and is far and away the greatest white man. A large portion of the world has thus far produced. How Qua, a merchant of Canton, is the richest man in China. He is said to be worth $50,000,000. He owns acres of houses in the most crowded portions of Canton, along with extensive rice plantations and tea gardens, and sports diamonds and pearls by the cupful. How Qua's wealth came to him by inheritance, and an American who visited him not long since, found 400 of his poorer relatives living on his bounty. Australia vies with the United States in the number of its newly-made millionaires. The wealthiest of the lot is James Tyson, of Queensland, who made his money in sheep and cattle. He is worth $25,000,000, and is as eccentric as he is rich.

HOW QUA, THE RICHEST MAN IN CHINA.

John Chinaman and His Children.

As a father, John idolises his boys, but feels keenly the disgrace brought by the advent of a daughter. He does not consider her worthy of a name, but calls her No. 1, 2 or 3, as the case may be. He ignores her entirely in telling the number of his children, counting only the boys. He considers her as without mind or soul, and denies her the advantages of education which her brother receives. As she grows up she is a slave in her own and her husband's house; and not till she is old does she receive love and reverence.

If a child is taken sick, both John and his wife think the soul has wandered away, and steps are taken to recall it. The mother calls at the open door, "Soul, come home!" The father goes out to seek it, usually searching about the nearest bridge. At his cry of "Coming, coming!" the mother looks carefully about her floor and secures the first thing of life she sees. This may be flea, or beetle, or other insect, but is supposed to have within it the missing spirit. It is wrapped up and joyfully placed under the pillow of the sick one, who is now expected to recover forthwith. If death comes instead, the child is buried summarily and with scant ceremony. John considers his own coffin one of the most valued and most necessary pieces of furniture for his best room, and his highest ambition is to have an elaborate funeral. He and the older members of his household have this ambition gratified in proportion to their wealth and the number of their descendants.—November St. Nicholas.

Woman and Hawk in a Scrap.

Mrs. James Hinckley, of Walnut Hollow, two miles east of here, had an encounter with a hen hawk, recently that nearly caused her death. Mrs. Hinckley is a widow, and manages a farm with the assistance of her only child, a 15-year-old girl. While she was throwing corn to the fowls on Tuesday an immense hawk swooped down and caught a hen in its talons. Without apprehending the danger to herself, Mrs. Hinckley picked up a stone and threw it at the hawk.

The missile struck the bird fairly and seemed to madden it, for it flew at the woman. Mrs. Hinckley was unable to get hold of anything with which to defend herself. With the idea of attracting some one to her assistance, she screamed at the top of her voice, but her daughter had gone on an errand more than a mile distant, and her cries were unheard.

The hawk's anger was apparently increased by the woman's cries. It aimed to get at the woman's face, which she protected with her hands and arms. From her arms and shoulders her dress was torn to shreds, and the flesh was lacerated so badly that her clothing was saturated with blood. For twenty minutes the bird fought the woman all over the yard until she fell in a fainting condition. She would probably have been killed by the bird had not her daughter arrived just as she fell. The girl is vigorous and fearless.

Taking in the situation promptly, she secured a piece of heavy log chain that hung on the fence. The hawk turned its attention to the girl, but it soon got a blow across the back with the chain that rendered one of its wings useless, and it then became an easy victim for the girl. The hawk was one of the largest ever killed hereabouts. It measured five feet two inches across its wings from tip to tip, and weighed thirteen pounds.—Hartford Post.

A Rare Excuse.

"Brudder Johnsing, I'se powerful 'sprised ter see yo' fishin' on de Sabbath!"

"Dat's all right, parson; yo' see I'se jist settin' here restin' now—I done all the work yesterday, when I dug de bait."

A Refuge.

Mr. Hindlegs (circus manager)—What in thunder are you doing in the lions' cage out of hours?

Senor Manoni (lion tamer)—It's all right, boss. I'm expecting my wife, any minute.

That Depends.

He—Do you believe in long engagements?

She—That depends on which one has the money.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache, for the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. a package—enough for five weeks.

A Remarkable Case.

GENTLEMEN,—About five years ago I noticed on my hands a great number of soft, spongy warts, very painful, and which bled when touched. I never witnessed anything like it, and was quite alarmed. We are never without Hagyard's Yellow Oil, and one evening my little girl applied it to each wart. They did this several nights and in the morning the pain and itching were so bad I had to cool my hands with snow, but finally the warts dropped out and I have never been troubled since.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWN CHLORODYNE

ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE

COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS

IS THE GREAT SPECIFIC FOR DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, CHOLERA.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Dr J Collis Browne (late Army Medical Staff) DISCOVERED A REMEDY, to denote which he coined the word CHLORODYNE. Dr. Browne is the SOLE INVENTOR, and as the composition of Chlorodyne cannot possibly be discovered by analysis (organic substances defying elimination) and since the formula has never been published, it is evident that any statement to the effect that a compound is identical with Dr. Browne's Chlorodyne must be false.

This caution is necessary, as many persons deceive purchasers by false representations.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Vice Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated publicly in Court that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the inventor of CHLORODYNE; the whole story of defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say, it had been sworn to.—See "The Times," July 13, 1864.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is the true palliative in NEURALGIA, GOUT, CANCER, TOOTHACHE, RHEUMATISM.

GENERAL BOARD OF HEALTH, London, reports that 1 acid is a charm, one dose generally sufficient.

DR. GIBBON, Army Medical Staff, Calcutta, states, "Two doses completely cured me of diarrhœa."

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE quickly cuts short all attacks of EPILEPSY, SPASMS, COLIC, PALPITATION, HYSTERIA.

IMPORTANT CAUTION.—The immense sale of this remedy has given rise to many unscrupulous imitations. Be careful to observe Trade Mark. Of all Chemists, 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d. & 4s. 6d. SOLE MANUFACTURER, J. T. DAVENPORT, 33 Grenville Street, London, W.C., England.
