Man can't change the weather, but he can do a lot of growling about it.

Cold or hot, flood or drought—nothing seems to effect the common house fly. This year they seem more plentiful than ever and we are wondering why some smart fellow doesn't invent a way of exterminating them once and for all. We have tried stickiness, poison, sprays and swat, but the fly, like the poor, is always with us.

A man in Pennsylvania got a ride in a car and the driver turned out to be his brother whom he had not seen in 15 years. Thus they were not exactly brought together, but driven together.
