A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. McCartney, Georgetown, when their only daughter, Norma Viola, became the bride of John William Hemphill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. E. Hemphill of Proton. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of royal blue crepe de mon, and was attended by Miss Violet Brooks of Toronto, who wore a dress of henna crepe. D. McCartney, brother of the bride, acted as best man. Rev. W. S. McAlpine of Brampton officiated. An interesting fact is that Mr. McAlpine officiated at the marriage of the bride's parents. County Council Doings

Protests were lodged in Grey County sessions last of the proposed closing of the South Grey Registry Office at Durham and also of the Department of Agriculture office at Markdale. Reeve McDonald of Bentinck stated that the closing of the South Grey Registry Office would be a great inconvenience to the citizens and also of considerable expense to the County, as the North Grey office would have to be enlarged.

The Council was almost unanimous in voting for the retention of the Office of the Department of Agriculture in Markdale.

Dirstein Transport of Chesley, in a letter to the Council, expressed their intention of suing the County of Grey if the Hanover-Chesley County Road was not kept open for traffic this winter. County Superintendent McKnight stated that it would cost about $1,600 to erect sufficient snow fence to keep the road open, and it was not the policy of the Road Committee to keep roads in the County free from snow in the winter time.

Reeve Emerson Brown of Collingwood township presented the report of the County Road Committee on the work that was done this summer and a summary of their inspection trips.

County Road work was carried on this year under the relief scheme and the amount of money which the County will receive from the Provincial Government is not yet known. It is estimated that the County's share of the Provincial Highway work carried on this year will amount to about $148,162, whereas only $26,000 was levied for this purpose. County Treasurer E. D. Bonnell stated that the general account levy might be more than enough for this year, but he "didn't dare make an estimate" in connection with road expenses.

The county road superintendent, R. C. McKnight, presented a very full report of work done on the county roads this year, showing that the total cost up to Oct. 18, 1934, was $75,927.06. Of this amount $34,070.-41 was spent for construction, $8,367.-30 for maintenance, $15,795.36 for resurfacing, $966.13 for general account, $2,507.10 for power graders, $5,054.03 for gravel pits and $30.80 for town-line bridges.

Mr. McKnight pointed out that the original program for this year included very little work other than maintenance, but that the policy of the Provincial Government in giving an extra subsidy of two-thirds of the labor cost, as an unemployment relief measure, has been instrumental in altering the plans of the road committee very materially.

A by-law postponing the county sale of lands for arrears of taxes for this year was given the necessary three readings.

Approximately 18 miles of road was included in the list of additions in the County Road System, to replace the mileage when the Flesherton Durham road was designated a Provincial Highway. Among the new sections taken as county roads in this section are: Commencing at county road No. 11, Osprey township, thence northerly along sideroad 15 and 16 and deviation through Feversham to the point where the deviation once more joins sideroad 15 and 16, approximately 2½ miles; from Highway No. 10, thence westerly along the boundary line between Artemesia and Proton to the west backline, approximately one and a quarter miles.

The county roads committee presented a report recommending that two miles of snow fence be erected on the Hanover-Chesley road, but no attempt be made to keep the roads open for car traffic during the winter.

T. Stewart Cooper, agricultural representative of Markdale presented a report and the Council decided to conduct a bot fly and warble fly campaign to be conducted during the winter and spring.

During the time that the Old Age Pension Act has been in force there has been received by old age pensioners in the county $716,784.20, at a cost to the county of $71,678.42.

Inspector Gave Address

A splendid address was delivered in St. John's United church on Thursday of last week on his trip to Trinidad, British West Indies. He described his trip from the moment of leaving New York until his arrival home and gave some interesting information on the conduct of the schools which are under the supervision of the United Church. As Mr. Pentland was a public school inspector in Canada he had a splendid opportunity of visiting the schools and observing the progress the pupils were making. He observed that the students were just as far advanced in learning as Canadian boys and girls, which is attributed to the splendid teaching staff of the schools. The address was given to the ladies of the Woman's Missionary Society and to quite a number of others who attended.

Live Stock Report

Butchers moved at $4 to $4.25 for choice and at $1.75 to $2.50 for boners and common on the Toronto Live Stock Market on Tuesday. A few heavy steers brought $5. Cows sold slowly at $1.50 to $2.25, with canners mostly at $1. Fed calves went at $5 to $6.c0, with two head making a top of $7. Common to medium stockers closed from $2.25 to $3.

Lambs closed with a 25 cent gain on the majority of sales. Good ewes and wethers sold from $7 to $7.25, while culls, bucks and heavies brought $5.50 to $6.50.

The hog market was unsettled for the greater part of the day, finally settling unchanged on most sales at $7.25 f.o.b. for bacons, $7.60 off truck and $8 off car. A few exchanges were made 10c to 15c higher.

Calves clased steady and 50c higher for the week at $5 to $7 for good and choice vealers. Only a few kosher calves, however, went at the high level. Common grassers brought $2.25 to $2.50. Sheep closed steady at $1 to $3 per cwt.

INDIGESTION

Those who suffer discomfort which apparently arises in the abdomen and which is supposedly associated with the digestion of food describe their complaint as "indigestion" or "dyspepsia". It is interesting to note, in passing, that "indigestion" is a poor term because there is no lack of digestion; what is meant is poor digestion, and the reason why digestion is blamed is because it is making itself felt, so indigestion is consious digestion.

The stomach is commonly blamed for the trouble. Important digestive processes take place in the stomach as they do in the mouth, but the most profound part of digestion occurs in the iintestines. The stomach is blamed because the nausea, eructation and vomiting, which are the common symptoms, seem to arise in the stomach.

The digestive process may be upset because of the condition of one of the digestive organs. Most diseases affect the behavior of the stomach Nausea and vomiting mark the onset of most of the communicable diseases Disease of the heart may be reflected in digestive upsets. The situation is further complicated by many cases which have no organic basis, but which arise out of emotional disturbances of which the patient may or may not be aware.

The various parts of the body are controlled through the nervous system. Some of these functions are under our control so that we can move our body about at will; others are practically automatic, but can be brought under control, such as the act of breathing; others again, and this applies to most of the internal organs, are entirely automatic and so beyond our conscious control. The digestive tract is regulated in this automatic fashon.

An important function of this nervous control is to keep the digestive canal at the proper tension, neither collapsed nor distended. A sudden loss of tension in the stomach gives rise to a feeling of nausea. Emotional upsets, worries or shocks bring this about by their indirect action on the nervous control of the stomach. In a manner which we cannot explain, the emotions may affect the behaviour of the whole digestive tract. The loss of appetite associated with excitment, the nausea which is related to offensive odours, the diarrhoea following a mental shock, are all examples of this. This emotional and nervous mechanism must be appreciated when an attempt is made to understand the indigestions for which there is apparently no organic cause to be found
