FROM THE PRESIDENT OF BAYLOR UNIVERSITY.

"Independence, Texas, Sept. 26, 1882.

Gentlemen:

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Has been used in my household for three reasons:—

1st. To prevent falling out of the hair.
2d. To prevent too rapid change of color.
3d. As a dressing.

It has given entire satisfaction in every instance. Yours respectfully,

WM. CAREY CRANE."

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is entirely free from uncleanly, dangerous, or injurious substances. It prevents the hair from turning gray, restores gray hair to its original color, prevents baldness, promotes the hair and promotes its growth, cures dandruff and all diseases of the hair and scalp, and is, at the same time, a very superior and desirable dressing.

PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists.

CELEBRATED COOK'S FRIEND BAKING POWDER.

Is a Pure Fruit ACID POWDER

It contains neither alum, lime, nor ammonia and may be used by the most delicate constitutions with perfect safety. Its great success arising from its being intrinsically THE BEST VALUE IN THE MARKET, as well as thoroughly adapted to the wants of the kitchen, has excited envious imitations of its name and appearance. Beware of them.

No addition to or variation from the simple name:

SELECT READING.

A CORNER BUSTED—THE PECULIAR DUTCH—AN OFFICAL'S DILEMMA—A WOMAN'S MADNESS.

Another Corner Busted.

The agent for a New York grocery house happened into a small establishment in a village in New Hampshire the other day, and, noticing that the grocer had a thumping big stock of codfish on hand, he asked:

"How did you come to invest so much in codfish?"

"Well, I kinder figgured for a corner, you see."

"How?"

"Why, I bought up every pound of it in town, and the roads are so bad that no more can be got in here for a month."

"And how have you succeeded?"

"Busted all to smash," was the sorrowful reply. "Just as I got the corner fixed the only three families in the town who eat cod-fish went off to Florida to spend the winter!"—Wall Street News.

Dutch Table Customs.

A correspondent of the Springfield Republican finds the Dutch table customs very droll, as Diedrich Knickerbocker did before her. She dined with the family of a Professor at the Hague. As soon as those at the table were helped they cut up all that was on their plates, and then putting their knives down, leaned on the table with their left hands, and with their forks disposed of the food with celerity and without interruption. At supper the hostess ground and cooked the coffee at the table, and the butter was taken with individual knives out of an earthen pot. Cheese was served and secured in a similar manner, and was smeared over thick slices of buttered bread. When the eating was finished, everybody sat still and watched the hostess wash the dishes, which she did at the table, using the snowiest of napkins, without wetting a finger, while the master puffed a cigar.

The Chief Magistrate Worried.

A daring, graceful equestrienne daily attracts considerable attention by her maneuvers in the park south of the President's house, and the Chief Magistrate has noted her particularly. She has no hesitation in attempting feats of horsemanship that would create envy among professionals, and she appears to be in every way capable of managing the handsome bay horse which she rides. It is not an unusual sight to see the animal going at a rate of speed rarely witnessed off a race track, and urged to renewed exertions by a persuasive whip. Since the pleasant weather set in the unknown rider has created considerable gossip as to her identity, both at the Executive Mansion and that portion of the Treasury Department which faces south. A groom on a handsome black horse stands sentinel during the feats of his young mistress, and when she and her animal are tired out with the exercise he gallops after her and escorts her through Executive avenue homeward. Frequent inquiries have been made by the President as to the young lady's history, but thus far no one has been able to enlighten him. The Capital.

Oscar Wilde on America.

A large audience assembled at the Crystal palace yesterday to hear Mr. Oscar Wilde's lecture on his impressions and experiences of America. Mr. Wilde (who has discarded kneebreeches and reassumed the prosaic trouser) said that the Americans are the noisiest people in the world, whose national occupation is catching trains. Pennsylvania, with its rocky gorges and woodland scenery, reminded him of Switzerland; the prairie of a piece of brown blotting-paper. Everything is twice as large as it should be; everywhere is twice as far as it should be. He visited Leadville, the chief characteristic of whose inhabitants is the constant use of the revolver. He lectured to them upon "Benvenuto Cellini, His Life and Works," and was reproved by his hearers for not having brought that artist with him. The explanation that he had been dead for some little time elicited the inquiry, "Who shot him?" Among the more elderly inhabitants of the South he found a melancholy tendency to date every event of importance by the late war. "How beautiful the moon is tonight!" he once remarked to a gentleman who was standing next to him. "Yes," was the reply, "but you should have seen it before the war." So infinitesimal did he find the knowledge and appreciation of art west of the Rocky mountains, that an art patron—one who in his day had been a miner—actually sued the railroad company for damages because the plaster cast of Venus of Milo, which he had imported from Paris, had been delivered minus the arms! And, what is more surprising still, he gained his case and damages.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Turgenieff's Eccentric Mother.

A Russian paper publishes a pen picture of the mother of Turgenieff which is anything but flattering. It appears that this lady was proud and vain to the point of folly, ruling her children as despotically as her slaves. She was as proud of her noble descent as of her riches, and after she became a widow her arrogance knew no bounds, so that this woman, who was anything by nature but foolish, seemed mad. She ordered her household like to a royal one; her serfs bore the titles of office in use at court. Thus, her postboy was called postmaster-general, her steward chief of the gendarmes, and so forth. No one might speak to her unless addressed. Not even her sons might appear in her presence unannounced. And when her eldest son Nicholas married without her consent, she withdrew from him all pecuniary aid and let him suffer the most cruel privations. When, in 1849, the cholera broke out in her district she happened to hear that the infection was spread by means of bacteria that prevaded the air and were breathed in with it. She thereupon ordered her steward of the household to construct for her some contrivance by means of which she could see objects when going out of doors without breathing the pestilential air. She therefore caused a kind of sedan chair to be made with a glass roof, which had the appearance of one of those chests in which in the Greek Church the figures of saints are borne abroad. Thus it came about that going out in her machine a pious person who saw it pass fell on his knees according to custom, crossed himself, and offered the bearers a penny for the good of the church.—London World.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the remedy for Cholera, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery. No person is safe without it.

A VERY GREEN MAN.

He Wouldn't Have Any of the Nonsense in Which Some Writers Now Indulge.

It is almost incredible that so green a person should exist as a man—evidently from Maine—who entered a cheap eating house in this city a few days ago in quest of dinner. He seated himself at a table and suspiciously reviewed the appearance of every man present, after which, evidently convinced that there were no bunko men or other sharpers about, he tilted his hat on the back of his head and awaited developments. The waiters were hurrying about, slamming down dishes and yelling out orders to the kitchen, and presently one of them came up to the stranger. "Roas', beef, roas pork, boil' dinner, ham an' eggs, an' pork an' beans," said the waiter with the speed of lightning and the expression of a phonograph. The Maine man looked at him and grinned. "Oh, go way," he said; "what do you take me for?" The waiter stared and went away accordingly. Presently another one came and went through the same formula. "Git acout!" roared the guest, "an lemme alone, won't yer!" and this serving man also retired. A third and a fourth tried conclusions with him with equal success, and when the last one went away baffled the Maine man was seen to be mad clean through. He arose and marched up to the counter and said to the proprietor at the desk: "Looker here! I come in here to get some dinner, an' I can pay for it too, an' don't you forgit it. But I don't mean to be insulted. If you've got any grub here why don't your waiters trot it out, an' what do they mean by yellin' off a lot of heathen gibberish in a man's ear? Do they think I'm a blamed fool? You may go to thunder with your old hash house; there's places in Boston where a man can come in an' be treated like a gentleman, I guess!" and he strode out and slammed the door after him. And to this time the restaurant keeper and his waiters have not found out what the row was all about.—Boston Journal.

AMUSING INCIDENTS.

Children Whose Relief Hinges Upon Visible Things—Talk to the Boys.

Joe Shillington, the veteran newsdealer of Washington, gives "Carp," of the Cleveland Leader, the following about a duel which was once anticipated between Martin Van Buren and Henry Clay: It was before Van Buren was elected to the Presidency—while both he and Clay were in the Senate. One day he and Mr. Clay had some hot words in debate, and the word went forth among Washington gossips that a duel would be the result. That night the matter was discussed over tea tables and at the hotels, and it was expected that they would fight the next morning. Some even went so far as to give the names of the seconds, the weapons and the place of meeting. When the Senate opened the next day there was a great crowd at the Capitol. All the galleries were filled and every eye was strained watching the door, and the seats of Clay and Van Buren. As the President's gavel fell neither of them were present, and the spectators were sure that the duel was going off. A moment later, however, Mr. Clay came in and took his seat, the chaplain prayed, and still Mr. Van Buren was absent. As the amen was said, Mr. Clay arose, turned slowly around, and walked down the aisle. As he did so, Mr. Van Buren, dressed in his usual white duck suit, entered the door. The galleries held their breath. Mr. Van Buren, reaching out his hand, said: "How do you do, Mr. Clay?" and Mr. Clay, taking it, replied: "Very well, Mr. Van Buren; and you look well, too. wish you were as white inside as you look to be on the outside." The audience at this saw that there was to be no duel, and the galleries were cleared at once. The meeting had been arranged by Clay and Van Buren in order to show the people there was nothing in the rumor.

Holloway's Pills.

Though good health is preferable to high honour, how regardless people often are of the former, how covetous of the latter! Many suffer their strength to drain way ere maturity is reached, though ignorance of the facility afforded by these incomparable Pills of checking the first untoward symptoms of derangement, and reinstating order without interfering in the least with their pleasure or pursuits. To the young especially it is important to maintain the highest digestive efficiency, without which the growth is stunted, the muscles become lax, the frame feeble, and the mind slothful. The removal of indigestion by these Pills is so easy that none save the most thoughtless would permit it to sap the springs of life.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The gnal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your Cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a million bottles were sold the past year. It relieves the Croup and Whooping Cough, at once. Mothers do not be without it. For Lame Back, Side or Chest use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by W. J. Wilson.

The Days of King Mercury

Are numbered. Calomel, the shot and shell, under the old system of treatment, is happily now almost disarded. Vegetable concentrations have proved of greater value in the treatment of diseases, and it is important that the sick should use only such remedies as are entirely free from mineral admixtures. Hamilton's Vegetable Pills of Mandrake and Butternut are entirely vegetable in composition, and we advise a trial of all who find it necessary to use a mild, prompt and effectual purgative medicine. Sold by N. C. Polson & Co.

YOUNG MEN!—READ THIS.

The Voltaic Belt Co., of Marshall, Mich., offer to send their celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and other Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days, to men (young or old) afflicted with nervous debility, loss of vitality and manhood, and all kindred troubles. Also for rheumatism, neuralgia, paralysis and many other diseases. Complete restoration to health, vigor and manhood guaranteed. No risk is incurred, as thirty days trial is allowed. Write them at once for illustrated pamphlet, free.

McGregor's Speedy Cure.

From the many remarkable cures wrought by using McGregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and Affection of the Liver, and from the immense sale of it without any advertising, we have concluded to place it extensively on the market, so that those who suffer may have a perfect cure. Go to Chown's Drug Store and get a trial bottle free, or the regular size at fifty cents and one dollar.

A Search Warrant.

If there is any lurking taint of scrofula in the system, Burdock Blood Bitters are warranted to search it out.

Important.

The Excelsior Rupture Treatment was introduced to the American people several years ago by furnishing the remedy to those afflicted with Hernia in any of its forms and collecting no pay until permanent cure was effected. In this way the treatment gained a world wide reputation on its own merits, never failing to cure any reducible Hernia. The Company has placed the remedy on sale by all druggists in the United States, Canada and England, in this way bringing it within the reach of all classes at a trifling cost. Ask your druggist for a free book or send six cents for one to the Excelsior Rupture Cure Manufacturing Co., Ogdensburg, N.Y.

To increase the weight of the body, invigorate the system, revitalize the exhausted and depressed, is the true object of medical science. The digestive organs must be in a healthy condition if we wish to secure this desirable result, and no remedy yet discovered has proved so effectual in accomplishing this as FLAX-SEED EMULSION COMP. It contains the Phosphorous to build up the nervous system and all the fat producing properties of Flax-seed to enrich the blood and supply the animal economy with the elements for reconstruction. For sale at Wade's and the Pharmacy, W. J. Wilson.
