I LOVED YOU SO.

Love, thou dear, come back to me.
My weary heart cries out for thee.
To me thy soft eyes radiant shine
With their old twilight rare divine.
As I gaze thy lips so tenderly
Speak low and lovingly to me.
My heart is cross with bitter pain
For that will never come again.

The blossoms, beautiful and sweet,
That you so often brought to greet
Me with their beauty and perfumes,
White roses, lilies, orange blossoms,
And passion, with their hearts of gold
The gifts they give to all untold,
Why brought you not to me the while
One lotus of the far off Nile?

That I might eat it and forget
My loss of thee, the toil, the fret,
The cares of life, for I would cast
The memory of the far off past
Away, for naught can bring to me
Thee, with thy voice of melting
O heaven above, alone can know
I loved you so, I loved you so!

A BISHOP'S DEFENCE.

What he Says in Defence of His Preaching in a Presbyterian Church—Plain Words.

The Bishop of Liverpool sends to the Guardian an explanatory statement of his recent conduct in preaching in a Presbyterian Church in Scotland. Dr. Ryle says that he is not a member of the Scotch Episcopal Church, and until the synodical declaration condemning the Gorham judgment, which the Scotch Bishops put forth in 1850 is withdrawn, cancelled, or in some way repudiated, he cannot with a good conscience attend the service of a church which has practically declared thousands of English clergymen unsound in the faith. Dr. Ryle continues: "I am blamed for attending the service of the Established Presbyterian Kirk of Scotland, and some have even dared to call that Church 'schismatical.' I care little for such blame. The Established Church of Scotland is a sound Protestant Church of Christ, and its confession of faith scriptural. It is a Church which the Canons of 1604 enjoin us to pray for. It is the Church whose services the Queen always attends when she visits Scotland. Personally, I infinitely prefer Episcopacy to Presbyterianism, and our own liturgy to extempore prayer. But it is evident that the Presbyterian mode of worship suits Scotch people. And to tell me that there is anything sinful or wrong in attending such worship is an insult to common sense. I am blamed for officiating and conducting service in Presbyterian churches when I have been invited to do so. But why? What is there wrong about it? What law of Church or State do I break? I know of none. So far from doing wrong, I believe I do good and do right. I give public proof of my respect for our ancient Protestant Churches, and of my earnest desire to promote unity and brotherly feeling between it and the Church of England. This very unity, I observe, the Bishop of Dunkeld in his recent charge, is longing and yearning for, and I do not wonder, when I see the religious divisions of Scotchmen. But with all respect to the worthy Bishop, I venture to think that when I accept the invitation of Presbyterian ministers to preach in their pulpits, I practically help forward the cause of unity between Scotch and English Christians quite as much as he does his charge."

A Venerable Scoundrel.

A Mr. Hughes, a Church of England clergyman, very much advanced in years, is in custody at Birmingham, charged with bigamy. The circumstances of his career are so remarkable that his case has excited a great deal of comment. At the age of 75 he was convicted and sentenced for forgery. Previous to this he had been in trouble for seducing a step-daughter of his second wife, and would have probably have suffered for this offence had not the greater charge taken precedence. He did not remain long in custody, however, his venerable appearance and holy calling, together with promises of reform soon procuring him a ticket-of-leave. Shortly after his release, and when he was 80 years of age, he married again, and was appointed to a curacy at Westbourne. His reformation seemed complete. He was attentive to his duties and became a great favorite with the congregation. His eloquence attracted numbers, and the attendance at the church increased so rapidly that seats were at a premium. This prosperity, however, instead of keeping the old gentleman in the straight path seemed to have excited him to further wrong-doing. His next move was to seduce and clandestinely marry a young girl of the town, who was so completely under his influence that she consented to this step, notwithstanding the fact that his wife was alive. His relations to this girl finally caused such an amount of suspicions that Mr. Hughes concluded to leave. When he did leave he completed his record by eloping with the Vicar's cook, leaving both his true wife and the girl whom he had recently married behind. Steps were immediately taken which led to his arrest, and he is now in jail awaiting his trial. Mrs. Hughes on learning the details of her husband's perfidy, went mad, and is at present in confinement and under treatment in a private asylum.

A Disgusted Judge.

Not long ago Chief Justice Sir M. B. Begbie stated in Court that he wished he was a Chinaman, as he had become ashamed of his own countrymen. The other day a jury refused to find a verdict of guilty against Lavin, charged with having killed Robertson with a sand bag, and the learned judge said: "Gentlemen of the jury, mind, that is your verdict, not mine. On your conscience will rest the stigma of returning such a disgraceful verdict, and one at variance with the evidence on which you have sworn to find the guilt or innocence of the prisoner. Many repetitions of such conduct as yours will make trial by jury a horrible farce and the city of Victoria, which you inhabit, a nest of immorality and crime, encouraged by the immunity from the law which criminals will receive from the announcement of such verdicts as yours. Go, I have nothing more to say to you." Mr. T. Davie here asked that the prisoner be discharged. His Lordship, addressing the prisoner, said: "You are discharged; go and sand bag some of those jurymen, they deserve it!"—British Columbian.

The Most frightful scourge of humanity is Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. Commencing with a little pain in the back, it hurries the sufferer to a premature grave. Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure is the only known remedy that prevents a fatal result. Take it in time.

Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters are not an Alcoholic Stimulant, but a purely Vegetable Medicine. Cathartic and Tonic in its action and invaluable in all affections of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

COMING HANGMAN.

He Interviews and Horrifies a London Newspaper Man—New and Wonderful Machine.

(London Standard.)

Five minutes after the arrival of the telegram announcing Marwood's death, a tall, stalwart manjof some fifty to sixty years of age entered a newspaper office in London and asked for the editor. On being interviewed he explained his business as follows: "Some time ago I read an article saying that the recent horrible scene at an execution at Durham should direct public attention to the necessity for adopting more humane methods of execution. Since I read that, sir," he exclaimed, "I could not rest because I have the more humane method here," and he brandished in his right hand a small black bag, ominously resembling the bag in which the late executioner was accustomed to carry the gallows-rope from gaol to gaol. "Here is the invention that is wanted; it is perfectly simple; anybody can hang a man with that. I invented it years ago and it is absolutely certain. I have tried it over and over again, and

NEVER FOUND IT TO FAIL.

When I saw all the papers writing about the cruelty of the long drop I couldn't rest. I am only a working man and I don't want any money for it, but I've travelled 300 miles in order to bring you the invention, so that you may see with your own eyes exactly what is wanted. As he said this he opened his black bag and extracted therefrom a horrible looking arrangement in hemp and brass. "Look at this," he said, as he fondled the gruesome machine: "here is all that is wanted. There is no slipping of the noose with this, no bunghing—everything simple and expeditious." On nearer examination it was found that the rope was the ordinary half-inch white hemp, passed double through a brass clamp, forming a loop, which could be adjusted to the exact thickness of the

NECK OF THE CRIMINAL.

Immediately before the clamp was fitted a brass crescent, measuring nine inches from tip to tip, and projecting three inches from the rope. This brass crescent is so adjusted as to lie on the shoulder of the condemned, while the double rope is looped on one side so as to allow a drop of from two to four feet. The principle of the invention is that the moment the criminal is swung off the crescent presses against the side of the head, while the rope pulls the neck sharply in the opposite direction, snapping the spinal column like a stick of sealing wax and occasioning instant death. "It cannot fail," said the inventor, as he lovingly fitted the hempen loop round the neck of one who was present at the interview, and screwed the clamp tight at the right distance. "It will hang you sideways, back or front, just as you like; it cannot fail; just drop off this table and it will be quite sufficient. No need of a long drop, no pulling men's heads off their shoulders; everything painless; the very

INVENTION THAT IS WANTED.

"The leverage gained by the 3 inch projection of the brass crescent will snap any ones neck." "But might not the rope snap?" he was asked. "No, because it's double; Marwood uses a 5-8 in. rope for a long drop; ½ in. double for a short drop will be more than is necessary. Jack Ketch always used the ½ in. The thinner the rope the surer the job. You can hang a cat with a whipcord, but not with a ½ in. rope." "How did you try your experiments?" "By making lay figures of various weights, fixing a block of wood as a head on a stout pole, surrounded by wire springs to represent the vertebræ of the neck. I have tried it with many weights and many lengths of drop, and never found it to miss. In the cause of humanity and civilization I appeal to you to secure the adoption of this humane invention." The inventor, after disengaging the apparatus, then left for the Home Office, carrying with him his invention for presentation to the Home Secretary. His name was Scholefield, and he is now working at Palmer's shipyard a Jarrow.

AN APPLICANT FOR OFFICE.

The following is stated to be a copy of a memorial which is about to be sent to the Home Secretary by an inhabitant of Trimdon Colliery desirous of filling the vacancy caused by the death of Marwood:

I, Henry Rigby, of Trimdon Colliery, county of Durham, 6 ft. 1 in. in my stocking feet, 14 st. weight, thirty-five years of age, would like the office of public executioner, in place of the late Marwood, deceased. I would hang either brothers or sisters, or any one else related to me, without fear or favour.—Signed, HENRY RIGBY (X) his mark. Witnessed by JOHN HOBBS, September 7, 1883.

A Complete Back-Down.

Mr. Trevelyan Ridout writes to the Toronto papers as follows: In the squib I sent round to the legal profession lately, in reference to the proposed dinner to Lord Coleridge, I applied a strong and offensive epithet to His Lordship, the use of which I deeply regret. The high position and distinguished abilities of the learned Chief Justice of England should have made me treat him with more respect. Anger, however, it has been well said, is a brief madness. I was extremely irritated at what I deemed the gross affront offered to this great loyal and prosperous Dominion by Lord Coleridge and his party deliberately shunning her as if she were plague-stricken. When my rage is aroused I do not stop to pick and choose my language. I resent an insult to Canada as I would resent an indignity to myself. I love my country "as a Roman the City of the Seven Hills, as an Athenian the City of the Violet Crown."

JEWELLER IN TROUBLE.

Alleged Conspiracy to Defraud the Imperial Bank—Excitement in the Prairie Province.

John Weltz, jeweller, Winnipeg, has been arrested, charged with conspiracy to defraud the Imperial Bank of $13,000, the complainant being Inspector Stone of that Bank. Weltz was arraigned before Justice Peebles. The indictment charges Weltz and Norman S. Andrews with intent to defraud the Imperial Bank of Canada on or about July 31st last, and conspiring and finally defrauding the Bank of $13,000. Andrews, who is connected with the Bank in an official capacity, is suspected of having led a fast life and becoming involved in debt with Weltz. The latter, pressed for money, conceived the idea of using Andrews, and the result was that the bank was victimized. Andrews received orders from Toronto that he would be transferred to that city, it was necessary to cover up a large deficiency in cash by advances of Weltz, in acknowledgement of which he held some twenty-three cheques drawn by the parties. It soon became apparent to Andrews that he had been made a victim, and rather than explain his position to the bank and run the chances of arrest and imprisonment, he

WAS SOON ACROSS THE BORDER.

Weltz seemed to be aware of the intention of Andrews to leave the country, and the following day, when the bank officials were wondering why Andrews did not appear at his place, there came a letter from Weltz, which explained the whole matter. Andrews' cash account was examined and found $13,000 short, while twenty-three cheques, on many of which Weltz's name appeared, were found inside. The managers of the bank at once approached Weltz on the subject, who finally acknowledged that he was liable for about $10,000, and Andrews for the balance. Weltz promised to meet some in which his own name appeared. It is said that Weltz gave a chattel mortgage on stock to cover the amount. About a fortnight ago he started on a trip to the Rocky Mountains, but it is now said that his real object was to dispose of as much as possible of his stock, and he took some of the more valuable portions with him.

THE CASE ADJOURNED.

The case against Weltz has been adjourned until Tuesday next. When the bank discovered the defalcation attempts were made to effect a settlement with Weltz, and it was thought this had been accomplished, and the matter was kept out of print. Weltz offered to give a chattel mortgage on his stock and $5,000. He failed to bring in the $5,000, and brought in some notes amounting to about $7,000, which the bank accepted as security. He then said he would get his own cheques paid by the Union Bank, but they would not pay them. Mr. Weltz has been a customer of the Imperial Bank. On the 2nd or 3rd of August the bank accepted a chattel mortgage of $13,000 and notes for $7,000. Weltz at first denied liability for more than $4,000 but afterwards owned to $10,000, and said Andrews had the rest. Weltz is out on bail. He has the finest establishment in Winnipeg, and the case caused a good deal of talk.

What He Was in.

"Mr. White," said a Harrisburg lawyer to a witness in the box, "at the time these papers were executed you were speculating, were you not?"

"Yes, sir."

"You were in oil?"

"I was."

"And what are you in now?"

"Bankruptcy and the poor house!" was the solemn reply.

Know

That SULPHUR AND IRON BITTERS will make the weak strong and gives the feeble, nerve.

Will increase the muscular force and double the staying power.

Will insure a hearty appetite and increased digestion.

Will give sleep, sound and refreshing as due season.

Builds up the constitution and makes the weakest rugged.

Strengthens feeble women and makes puny children strong.

Cures General Debility and gives a new lease of life.

Will infuse with new life the weakest invalid.

The Habits, occupations, vices and unnatural modes of living which seem to follow civilization have the effect of depleting the human system of its necessary supply of iron, and science having discovered this, it was found to be necessary to restore this that supply. It was an important, and difficult task. But it has been accomplished. In the SULPHUR AND IRON BITTERS which have so quickly secured the confidence of medical men as well as invalids, the great vitality of iron in combination with active vitalizing Tonics is found to be a power beyond the skill of the ablest medical men who have examined this preparation, and that it is the best Medicine the world ever invented.
