IN MEMORIAM

LeGARD — A tribute of love and remembrance to our dear mother, Christena LeGard, who departed this life January 12, 1923.

There is no death: our loved one is but keeping
Vigil beyond the day;
In sorrow, God would not have us
weeping
For her who is away,
With faith and trust we'll lift
Our hearts in gladness
To Him who reigns above.
There is no death and life
Can hold no sadness,
For God is light and love.

—Ever remembered by Moda and Allan.

School Questions Answered

(Canadian School Journal for December.)

1. Question—If a trustee entered into a remunerative contract with his school board five years ago and has held office undisputed every year since, can he be disqualified now for his offence then?

Answer—Section 135 (1) of The Public School Act reads as follows:

"A trustee shall not enter into any contract, agreement, engagement or promise, either in his own name or in the name of another, and either alone or jointly with another in which he has any pecuniary interests, profit or promised or expected benefit with the board of which he is a member, or have any pecuniary claim upon or receive compensation from the board for any work, engagement, employment or duty on behalf of the board, and every such contract, agreement, engagement or promise shall be null and void, and a trustee violating the provisions of this section shall ipso facto vacate his seat."

Legal authority only could make decisions as to whether a trustee is legally in office when, at some time in the past in his experience as a trustee he had entered into a contract with the board of trustees. It would seem, however, that if the trustee has been re-elected since teh offence occurred and if no further repetition of the offence has been committed, he might be regarded as holding office at the present time legally.

2.—Question—Can a trustee be disqualified because his wife has taken the contract for the janitor work of the school.

Answer—There is nothing in The Public Schools Act which would debar the wife of a trustee from acting as janitor or caretaker for the school, providing the husband who is a trustee does not enter into the contract at any point.

3. Question—Can a secretary who is also a trustee legally act as a tax collector when taxation is for school purposes only?

Answer—The only services for which a trustee may receive remuneration from the board of trustees are those as secretary-treasurer. While The Public School Act does not state a trustee may or may not be a tax collector, he would not be able to receive any payment for his services from the board of trustees.

It is assumed that this question relates to a school section in an unorganized township. In an organized township, if a trustee were a tax collector the payment for his services would be made by the municipal council, and therefore there would be no contract between the trustee and the board of trustee.

4. Question—When all ratepayers in a section have disqualified themselves for membership on a school board, who takes charge of the school?

Answer—Subsection (3) of section 78 of The Public Schools Act reads as follows:

"Where the inspector reports that no persons duly qualified are available the Minister may appoint as members of the board such persons as he may deem proper, and the persons so appointed shall have all the authority of a board as though they were eligible and duly elected according to the provisions of this Act."

5. Question—If it has been found that at some time during the year a trustee has disqualified himself, are any of the resolutions passed during the year following the disqualification legal?

Answer—Where the business of the school section has been transacted in spite of the fact that one of the trustees is disqualfied, there is no doubt that the resolutions and actions taken by the board of trustees have not full legal authority. The newly elected board of trustees may, however, pass a resolution confirming the action of the previous board in so far as they have been in the best interests of the school.

6. Question—Can a trustee disqualified in 1934 be legally elected in 1935?

Answer—There is nothing in The Public School Act which would prevent a disqualified trustee in 1934 from being elected a trustee by the ratepayers for 1935, providing he holds the necessary qualifications.

7. Question—We have drilled a well and while water is not the best, it tastes good and from all appearances is good, as there is no taste or smell from it. The analysis recommend boiling before using. This is not practical in the school. Should any sickness result from using this water, are the trustee or the section liable?

Answer—Where there is any doubt whatever that the water in a school well is not completely safe for use in the school, the board of trustees should send samples of the water to the Main Laboratories, Department of Health, Parliament Bldgs., Toronto. If any instructions are given by that Department with respect to the water, these instructions should be followed very carefully. A board of trustees cannot be too careful with respect to the sanitary conditions of the school.

8. Question—A public School supporter who has a public school on his lot lives within three miles of a separate school built in September, 1934. Should he pay his taxes to the separate school three miles distant or to the public school 150 feet distant.

Answer—If the person's name is recorded with the municipal clerk as a separate school supporter, the school taxes will go toward the support of the separate school. If the person is not so recorded for the year, his school taxes would go toward the support of the public school.

Under Section 54 of The Separate Schools Act a person who desires to be a separate school supporter is required to give notice in writing to the clerk of the municipality that he is a Roman Catholic and a supporter of a separate school situate in the municipality. Under Section 55 of The Separate Schools Act a person may not be deemed a supporter of a separate school unless he resides within three miles in a direct line of the site of the schoolhouse.

10. Question — If, at the annual meeting, a man who has not his taxes paid, or a man whose wife owns property but whose name is not on the tax roll, is declared duly elected by the returning officer, would the returning officer be liable to a penalty knowing these men are not qualified to be trustees? This question is based on the idea that only the required number of trustees will be nominated at the meeting and the returning officer declares them elected by acclamation.

Answer—The Schools Act does not specify any penalty against the returning officer in this respect. If the election of trustees was in a rural school section and there was any irregularity, a complaint may be made to the Inspector, who is given power under Section 68 (11) of The Public Schools Act to make a decision upon the complaint.

"A person whose taxes for school purposes at the time of election, or at any time during his term of office as trustee, are overdue and unpaid shall not be eligible to be elected as a trustee or to sit or vote as a member of the Board." This amendment was made to Section 135 of The Public Schools Act in 1933.

In Prussia the state will in future do all prospecting for oil and owners of the land will receive no royalties. A good many people who invested in oil stocks will wish the state well.

THE POULTRY BREEDING PEN

In selecting the birds for the breeding pen choose females with good laying records or that possess all the characteristics of heavy layers. The moles should be vigorous and conform to breed type, the sons of heavy laying dams and well-bred sires.

Feed generously without using forcing feeds. The breeding pen should be roomy. Sunlight and exercise are important, and a supply of alfalfa and cod liver oil will give good hatches.

Five gallons of gas,
And a quart of gin,
And all they found
Was a mess of tin.
