SATURDAY EVENING, JULY 12

NO TIME LIKE THE OLD TIME.

There is no time like the old time when you and I were young,
When the buds of April blossomed to the tune of Spring time song;
The gardens brightest glories by Summer sun are nursed,
But, O! the sweet, sweet violets, the flowers that opened first!

There is no place like the old place, where you and I were born,
Where we listed upon my knee the patter of the morn;
From the milk-white breast that warmed us, from the clinging arms that ran,
Where the loved are ever children, or at least we look on them as man.

There is no friend like the old friend who has shared our morning days;
No greeting like his welcome, no homage like his praise!
Fame is there as the flower, with gaudy crown of gold
But friendship is the breathing rose, with sweets in every fold.

There is no love like the old that we courted in our pride,
Though our leaves are falling, falling, and we're fading side by side.
There are blossoms all around us with the colors of the dawn,
And we live in borrowed sunshine when the light of day is gone.

There are no times like the old times—they shall never be forgot;
There is no place like the old place—keep green the dear old spot!
There are no friends like the old friends—may heaven prolong their lives!
There are no loves like the old loves—God bless our loving wives!

A FIELD OF ISANDULA.

A GRAPHIC DESCRIPTION.

Mr Forbes, the [illegible] pondent in South Africa, [illegible] picture of the [illegible] fatal field of Isandula, [illegible] British defeat. [illegible] country is not w[illegible] of the meanest [illegible] and wonders how so small a force could have made so short a resistance to the outnumbering foe. "In a raving dead men lay thick—mere bones, with toughened, discolored skin, like leather, covering them and clinging to them, the flesh all wasted away. Some were almost wholly dismembered, heaps of clammy yellow bones. I forbear to describe the faces, with their blackened features and beards bleached by rain and sun. Every man had been disembowelled, some were scalped, others subjected to yet ghastlier mutilation. The clothes had lasted better than the poor bodies they covered, and helped to keep the skeleton together. All the way up the slope I traced by the ghastly tokens of the dead men the actual line of fight. Most of the men hereabouts were infantry of the 24th. It was like a long string with knots in it, the string formed of single corpses, the knots of clusters of dead, where, as it seemed, little groups might have gathered to make a hopeless, gallant stand and die. I came on a gully with a gun-limber jammed on its edge, and the horse, their hides scored with assagai stabs, hanging in their harness down the steep face of the ravine. A little further on was a broken and battered ambulance wagon with its team of mules mouldering in their harness, and around lay the corpses of soldiers, poor helpless wretches, dragged out of the intercepted vehicle and done to death without a chance for life. I still following the trails of blood through the long, rank grass and among stones I approached the crest. Here the slaughtered ones lay very thick, so that the string became a broad belt. Many hereabouts wore the uniform of the Natal police. On the bare ground, on the crest itself, among the wagons, the dead were less thick, but on the slope beyond, on which from the crest we looked down, the scene was the saddest and more full of weird desolation than any I had yet gazed upon. There was none of the stark, blood curdling horror of a recent battle field, no pool of yet wet blood, or raw, gaping wounds, no torn red flesh that seems yet quivering. Nothing at all that makes the scene of yesterday's battle so rampantly ghastly shocked the senses. A strange dead calm reigned over this solitude of nature. Grass had grown luxuriantly round the wagons, sprouting from the lords, falling in soil fertilized by the life-blood of gallant men. So long in most places had grown the grass that it mercifully shrouded the dead whom four long months to morrow we have left unburied. As one strayed aimlessly about one stumbled in the grass over skeletons that rattled to the touch. Here lay a corpse with a bayonet jammed into its mouth up to the socket, transfixing the head and mouth a foot into the ground. There lay a form that seemed costly curled in calm sleep, turned almost on its face, but seven assagai stabs have pierced the back. Most, however, lay flat on the back, with the arms stretched widely out and hands clutched.

I shall offer few comments on the Isandula position. Had the world been searched for a position offering the easiest facilities for being surprised none could have been well found to surpass it. The position seems to offer a premium on disaster and asks to be attacked. In the war leaguered wagons would have disappointed the defeats, but the camp was more careless than an English village. [illegible] scouting could alone have justified such position. [illegible] this too clearly cannot have been carried out.

A Woman Farmer.

People around Lawrence, Kansas, complain that the best farmer of the neighborhood is a woman—Mrs. Mary Macutchen. Mrs. Mac. is a widow. Ten years ago, when her husband died, she found that he had left her a bit of land and four children. She went to work, followed the plow herself. Soon she added to her property by purchase and improvement. In 1874, when the people were scared out of their wits by the grasshoppers, she contracted for an unimproved farm for $1,800, which she gave to one of her boys. She has since paid for the land from the surplus products of her own farm of 120 acres. Last year she bought the Bob Allen farm of 150 acres at the price of $2,500, one-fourth of which she had already paid, and will pay over another fourth from the crops of this year. She runs her farm with the aid of her two sons and without much hired help. This is a good example of what has been done in the midst of what are called hard times.

—The Secretary of the Ottawa Orange Celebration Committee has received information that 400 Montrealers will participate in the demonstration to take place in that city on the 23rd inst. It is expected how that over 5,000 of the brethren will join in the procession.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

LIBERAL EXPENDITURE—NATIONAL FAIR—PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATIONS—THE APPROPRIATION AND SILVER BILLS.

Congress, whatever its sins may be, has of late years been liberal in its expenditures here—not, perhaps, too much so, however. People of all sections desire a Capital of which they can be proud, and they have or soon will have it here. Among the buildings recently authorized and soon to be commenced is one for a National Museum. It will cover two and one half acres, and will be at once ornamental and substantial.

There are being made great exertions among business men here to organize a National Fair Association, and hold annual fairs which will attract people from far and near.

It is held by everybody now that there will be no difficulty in carrying on the Courts, notwithstanding the failure to provide for the fees of U. S. Marshals. We can, therefore, live in happy security from more extra sessions this summer. Congress will meet at the regular time in December, and commence a new contest over more appropriation bills, and the usual campaign speeches to affect the Presidential nominations and elections, will be delivered. It is also believed that there are votes enough in both Houses to pass the Silver Coinage Bill which slumbers now in the Senate Finance Committee. The friends of the bill say no time will be lost after December 4th in passing it. Then the President, whose hand is well in the veto business, will probably kill the measure.

The last act of Senate before adjournment, was to pass the House Bill removing the duty from quinine. The use of quinine has enormously increased of late, and the demand for its free importation was general. To give time to dispose of the bill, one of the Senate officials turned back the hands of the Senate clock some five minutes. Sufferers from ague all over the country should remember him.

Better than Gold

The grand climax of success is at last achieved. The poor rejoice, the sick arise and walk, the rich bask in the golden sunshine of perfect health. The physical miseries of the human frame need no longer be endured. DR. KING'S CATHOLICON COMPOUND, for Dyspepsia, Constipation, Sick Headache, Coming up of Food, Jaundice, Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Fear of Death, Drowsiness and Low Spirits. This wonderful remedy [illegible] and this where every [illegible] to prove that [illegible] remedy will do all we claim [illegible] a trial bottle [illegible] by which you will readily [illegible] its wonderful curative qualities, and which will show you what a regular one dollar size bottle will do. For sale by J. G. King, successor to E. H. Parker Market Square Kingston.

"German Syrup."

No other medicine in the world was ever given such a test of its curative qualities as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP. In three years two million four hundred thousand small bottles of this medicine were distributed free of charge by druggists in this country to those afflicted with Consumption, Asthma, Croup, Severe Coughs, Pneumonia and other diseases of the throat and lungs, giving the American people undeniable proof that GERMAN SYRUP will cure them. The result has been that druggists in every town and village in the United States are recommending it to their customers. Go to your druggist and ask what they know about it. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Three doses will relieve any case.

NIAGARA IN WINTER. Niagara in Summer is a wonder. Its smoke, its roar, its spray, as it prepares for its leap into the seething cauldron, might image the smile of the light hearted belle, could she venture to look into its seething placidity. A moment more and nothing can resist its force. It rolls and tosses amid its rocky bed while the spray puts on, as the sun shines, the glories of the rainbow. But Summer is tame at Niagara compared to a Winter scene about the Falls. Ice bridges, ice cones, towering ice shoves, [illegible] shoves of ice. Lawrence [illegible] tiny infants, greet the [illegible] on every side. Oh, it is grand to stand and look from the overhanging hotel upon the glories of Winter at Niagara. It costs but little for so grand a sight, and everyone who can afford it should take it in. Take with you DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS, for you know not but you may need them. They cost little and are worth much.

HE SLEEPS WITH A REVOLVER UNDER HIS HEAD, OR A WISE PRECAUTION.—On the borders of civilization it is customary with the men to sleep with a revolver within easy grasp. This precaution is deemed necessary to insure the safety of their personal property. The sagacious housewife, to prepare against a sudden attack of sickness in her family of little ones, takes the wise precaution to arm herself with the most potent remedy known to science for the routing and put to sudden flight, colic, diarrhœa, inflammation of the bowels caused by colds, or what is more often the case, the eating of green apples or other unripe fruit before retiring. The proper is Scott & Bowne's Emulsion of Palatable Castor Oil. Price 25 cents.

Cotterman & McFarland write us as follows:—

WAPAKONETA, O., June, 1877.

Gents.—Having been in the livery business for the past ten years, and having many cases of Colic in horses under our treatment, and having tried many remedies and liniments to cure it, we found that the best, cheapest, and quickest remedy for Colic in Horses is Perry Davis' Pain-Killer, and we honestly affirm that we never failed to cure the worst cases of Colic we ever saw, and we cheerfully recommend it to every body, as the best medicine to cure Colic in Horses.

At this season of the year everyone feels languid and debilitated, brought about by the change that nature dictates preparatory to the return of summer days. We cannot change the laws of nature, but we can assist them. In doing so let us use the remedies that nature provides, namely, Roots, Barks, and Herbs. Baxter's Mandrake Bitters are purely vegetable—the products of the hills and the valleys. They have only to be used to be appreciated. Price, 25 cents.

Merchants, Travellers, Visitors to New York, Don't fail to remember that in order to accommodate and to save your money, to make war on prices, and to fill the largest Hotel in New York, the Mammoth Grand Central, on Broadway, will hereafter be kept on both the American and European plans. The American plan including meals and lodging $2.50 or 3.00, and the European plan $1.00 and upwards per day. An elegant Restaurant, at moderate prices is conducted by the Hotel.

Joseph A. Evans, at Clifton, N. B., thus writes to Mr. Fellows: "I believe, under kind Providence, that Mr. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites has been the means of restoring both my wife and daughter, the latter from Tubercular Consumption, and I hope the afflicted will avail themselves of its use."

EVERY WOMAN HER OWN DYER.—If you want to produce brilliant and durable colors use Mrs. Freeman's new domestic dyes. Samples of colors to be seen at King's Drug Store, Market Square, where the dyes are for sale. Malburn, Bentley & Pearson Proprietors, Toronto.
