IMMORTALITY.

Are they looking down upon us,
Loved ones who have gone before?
In a world of light and glory
Do they love us as of yore?
Are the bright eyes closed in slumber
Opened and gazing from on high,
Beaming with a clearer vision,
Watching over us, yea, for aye?

Do they know our thoughts and feelings?
Know our inmost hearts to read?
Do they mourn when we are tempted?
When we fail to sow good seed?
Are they watching, are they waiting
For the coming of our feet?
Will the same fond hearts receive us?
Will the same sweet voices greet?

Who shall say they are not with us?
Men of science and of lore,
Can you tell us with your wisdom,
As you o'er your volumes pore,
If the heavens are far beyond us—
If those realms are high above?
Or a region all around us—
Where God's messages of love

Are uplifting human creatures,
Helping them each day and hour
Better to sustain their burdens,
Better yet to know His power?
Or is it a world of glory,
All divided from our own,
Where no influence can mingle
With the trials earth hath known.

Oh, for hope that comes to gladden—
Oh, for faith that doth assure
That our loved ones have not left us,
Though immortal now and pure;
They are still beside us walking,
Though unseen by mortal eye,
They are working in His vineyard,
They are with the Father, nigh

A Noble Southern Girl.

Rev. Dr Harris, of Memphis, writes thus to the Appeal of that city: "It has happened more than once in the recent history of our noble city, that the opportunity to do heroic work, and our all it to pass to the martyr grave, has been seized by many an obscure man or an unknown woman of whom there is scarcely record beyond the mere name in the long death list. True in 1873, it became more notably true in 18[illegible] that the names of many of our best and truest are known to few, or it may be to none save God only. Of course they are none the worse for this, but it is the misfortune of the living to be left without knowledge of inspiring examples. It is with this feeling I wish to put on record a little note of one such life and death. When the Tobin family, on Bradford street, were seized with the fever, there was, of course, no provision for hired nurses, since no one looked for the fever so early in the season. Opposite to this family, on the same street, lived a young girl, about 17 years old, named Evelyn Widrick, her father and little brother Freddy being the only other members of the household. Evelyn had not had the fever, but she went to her neighbors in their distress, and remained with them from the beginning to the fatal ending. Immediately after the last of the Tobins was buried, the infection spread to the family of Godsey, living next door to the Widricks. Without having rested, Evelyn began duty there, and nursed these young ladies with a skill far beyond her years. It was there last Sunday morning I first saw this dear child. I sent her relief and begged her to go to rest. Returning in the afternoon, I found the tireless girl still on duty, and sharing the labor with the relief nurse. The same night the fatal fever laid her prostrate. Last night, in her father's room, he begged me tell him how his dear child was. I could say no more than that she is resting, a truer word than he thought I meant, but tonight they both are resting in Elmwood, where, side by side, we laid the two today.

How He 'Livened' It Up.

There was a compositor not only discharged from the San Jose (Cal.) Herald the other day, but also fired down four flights of stairs by the infuriated foreman of that admirable journal. It seems that the typo was requested to "liven up" a certain speech delivered at the Working men's State Convention, held in that town, with the usual marks in parenthesis. The "jour." who was carrying a little more beer than was necessary, just then got hold of the wrong proceedings, causing the eloquent resolution of Mr Van Arman, referring to the death of a member, to read like this:—"Whereas, It pleased Divine Providence to remove from our midst our beloved comrade Azariah McMuck (loud applause) who has been cut off in the flower of his usefulness (laughter) and promise, it is Resolved, That we tender to his bereaved family (cheers) and friends our sincere sympathy in their hour of affliction (cries of 'Put him out' and 'order'), and assure them that while we humbly bow to the will of (a voice, 'Three cheers for Kearney') Heaven, lament our departed brother, (roars of laughter), a fellow citizen of enlightened mind, statesmanlike views (cries of 'Oh! shut up! Let's adjourn!') and broad and generous sympathy for his kind. (Terrific cheers). He is not lost but gone before (derisive cries of 'Oh! cheese it,' and continued laughter)" etc. In fact, the McMuck widow is hunting for that unfortunate printer yet, and cherishes the conviction that he is still hiding in the hill.

The Turkish Commanders.

The famous Turkish generals of the Turco-Russian war are either dead or out of favor. Mehemet Ali, the old Commander-in-Chief, was killed some months ago by an Albanian mob. Suleiman Pasha, the commander of the army that made such persistent efforts to recapture Shipka Pass, was tried before a military court after the war, and was sentenced to banishment for disobeying orders. This sentence was afterward modified, it appearing from the records that Suleiman acted under orders from Constantinople, and the General was sent to the Persian frontier. It is now stated that he died at Bagdad on Saturday. Osman Pasha, the defender of Plevna, was for a long time in the confidence of the Turkish Government, and was placed in command of the army on the Greek frontier. A few weeks ago it was announced that he had been displaced.

A SUSPICIOUS DISCOVERY.—Morrisburg, Ont., 18.—The body of a young man named Fitzgibbons, of Watertown, N. Y., who mysteriously disappeared last Friday morning was found to-day floating in the canal. He was last seen in company with a few young men of that village, among whom his watch, money, coat and hat were afterwards found. As the body bears evidence of rough usage strong suspicions of foul play are entertained.

—If a man were to wear his straw hat smashed down and bent into such a shape as some of the ladies wear theirs, where would the public think he had been the night before?

WASHINGTON LETTER.

COMMERCIAL RELATIONS — TRADE WITH BRAZIL—THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK—THE HEAT OF THE CAMPAIGN.

An incident that occurred in one of commercial cities the other day which points the way to some needful legislation from Congress the coming winter. An agent of a large manufactory in Brazil was inspecting some improved machinery which would be very useful in his work. He was delighted with the Yankee improvements, and at once decided to order the machinery direct. But when it came to forwarding it to Brazil several obstacles were found. Merchants and manufacturers are not in the habit of paying cash in advance for goods, and the Brazil house objected to paying for this machinery until it should be received there, and the manufacturers could not sell their goods without some guarantee of the ability of the purchaser to pay. In short, it was found that through any lack of commercial connections with Brazil, it was next to impossible to deal with the people who sadly need our goods. While England has liberally contributed to establish steamship and postal facilities for her merchants with Brazil, and thus has enabled them to maintain banks and all the necessary adjuncts of trade, the U. S. have held to the penurious policy of letting our merchants help themselves and the result is they are crippled, and have the give the British merchants a profit for selling our own goods. In this instance, the machinery finally had to be purchased through British agents, whereby the profit was largely reduced and American industry suffered to that extent. What is true of Brazil is true of other countries. By a liberal policy, England has got a large trade, and by a mean policy we have failed to control markets where our goods are wanted. Congress will be asked to do something to remedy is evil. Our industrial affairs are mending, and what we want is markets to dispose of our products. We have got to encourage the establishment of close commercial relations with those markets, or we shall lose what foreign trade we have, and our industries will suffer accordingly.

The political skies are getting overcast. One thing is sure, the Greenbackers were beaten so badly in Maine that they will not be very troublesome again, and I notice that the Democrats are not very sorry for it, believing that the new party has been in their way a good deal. Another thing is quite certain, that the "Blaine boom" is somewhat accelerated by that election, the Republicans renewing their enthusiasm for him very emphatically. I believe that a favorite ticket with them now is "Blaine and Winden." As Mr Winden is also mentioned for the first place, this is supposed to be a strong compromise, and one that will be striking in the North west. But beyond these facts the future is dubious. In New York the Republicans take heart from the Democratic division, but they cross too soon unless Mr Tilden has lost his hold upon political management. Tilden never has failed to carry that State when he set out, and if he don't this time it will be a grand tribute to Conkling and Cornell. In Ohio the fight is close and uncertain. In Massachusetts the Democrats have divided on Butler, and thus seem to have given the Republicans an advantage, and the stalwart Republicans have got control for the first time since 1876, reform taking a back seat. We shall be glad when the campaigns are over, and people can once more talk business.

Washington, Sept. 18th, '79.
MARTHA.

Money Rapidly Made.

Small and large investments (from $25 to $10,000), in the combinations of Messrs Lawrence & Co., pay large profits. This new and successful system unites thousands of orders from customers into one immense capital, and is managed with the best skill and experience in the stock market. Profits are shared pro rata by customers every month. Shareholders thus obtain all the advantages of large capitalists. Thousands are rapidly making money, and many have acquired handsome fortunes by this safe and legitimate method, which has been among the most successful of the movements of the Stock Exchange. $25 will make $125, or 5 per cent; $100 will return $500, $500 will net $3,000, etc., according to the state of the market. New explanatory circular, with "unerring rules for success," mailed to all applicants by Messrs. Lawrence & Co., Bankers, 57 Exchange Place, New York City.

Read and Learn for Yourself.

Many valuable discoveries and much useful knowledge is kept from the world, because of the immense expense in making them known to the people. This is not the case with Boschees German Syrup, although but a few years introduced into this country, its sale now reaches in every town and village in the United States and Canada. Its wonderful success in curing Consumption, Severe Coughs, Pneumonia, Asthma, and all other diseases of the throat and lungs, was first made known by distributing every year, for three years, over 400,000 bottles to the afflicted, free of charge, by Druggists. No such a test of merit was ever given before to any other preparation. Could you ask more? Go to your Druggist and get a bottle for 75 cents and try it. Sample bottles 10 cents.

I have been a sufferer from Indigestion and violent Sick Headache for upwards of four years. I have consulted many of the Faculty, but have derived no material benefit from any source, until I tried Perry Davis' Pain-Killer, which, I am happy to state, has done me more good than all I ever tried before. ESTHER BRIGGS, Bolton, England.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best Salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all kinds of Skin Eruptions. This Salve is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction in every case or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by J. G. King, successor to E. H. Parker.

From the easy expectoration, increased respiratory power of the Lungs, and the removal of irritation, manifest from cessation of Cough and other alarming symptoms, after using Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, it is clear that the formation of tuberculous matter is not only stopped, but that already deposited is being carried away.
