CATARRH
Catarrh of the Nasal Cavities, Acute, Chronic, and Ulcerative, Hay Fever, or Rose Catarrh, Catarrh of the Eye and Ear, and Catarrh of the Throat.
SUCCESSFULLY TREATED WITH SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE.
CATARRH is a disease of the mucous membrane. Temperaments and constitutions vary its severity in individual cases. Catarrh may arise from a cold or a succession of colds, from sudden change of atmosphere, wearing wet clothing, or exposure to inclement weather, and becoming thoroughly chilled when the digestive organs are in a morbid or inactive condition, and the strength and vital forces exhausted. The disease may arise from a scrofulous condition of the blood, from Scarlet Fever, Measles, and Diphtheria, in which cases the eye and ear are generally involved and discharge quantities of matter. The discharges from the nose, the distinctive feature in all catarrhal cases from whatever cause they arise, may be thin and watery, and so acid as to cause redness and excoriation of the skin with which they come in contact, or thick and yellowish, emitting a foul odor, or clear and white like the white of an egg. There may be an entire lack of secretion, the surface being dry and feverish, the face, front and upper part of the head feeling uncomfortable, and as if it was encircled by a tight, unyielding band. This latter phase is called Dry Catarrh. The free mattery discharges cause the passages to swell and become thickened, rendering breathing through the nose difficult or impossible, and the sufferer finds it necessary to breathe through the mouth, thereby permitting cold air to pass directly to the bronchial tubes and lungs. The matter passing down the throat creates a constant desire to hawk and expectorate to throw it off; but when the membranes is dry and feverish, instead of passing freely down from the nose and throat, the mucus becomes hard and forms into scabs, incrustations, and hard lumps, which adhere so firmly to the nasal passages and throat as to require very persistent efforts to dislodge them. The eye in sympathy becomes inflamed, red, weak, and watery, or in the morning the lids may be found glued together, and matter is secreted in more or less quantity. The ear also becomes seriously affected, discharging quantities of matter, besides being visited by the most violent neuralgic pains, ending frequently in inflammation, ulceration, and finally deafness. The throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs are in many cases affected by catarrh, and when prostration of the nervous system is superadded, such affections become alarming.
A brief survey of this most serious disease warns all who are afflicted with it to make speedy preparation for its treatment before it becomes chronic. The advantages offered by SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE we confidently believe are to be found in no other remedy. Every step in its preparation, every line in the directions, mark it as a scientific remedy, calculated to meet every phase of the disease. The numerous testimonials from the best people in the United States attest the esteem in which it is held by those who have been freed from the most destructive and dangerous disease with which mankind is to-day afflicted
JUST PUBLISHED.
A carefully revised Treatise on Catarrh, with an accurate description of symptoms and sympathetic diseases, together with minute directions for effecting with SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE a speedy and permanent cure. Also observations on diet and the general health, of vast importance to all afflicted with catarrh. It is wrapped about each bottle of the RADICAL CURE, or will be mailed free on receipt of stamp.
Each package of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE contains Dr. Sanford's Improved Inhaling Tube, with full directions for use in all cases. Price, $1. Sold by all wholesale and retail druggists throughout the United States and Canada. WEEKS & POTTER, General Agents and Wholesale Druggists, Boston, Mass.

THE MONEYLESS MAN.

Is there no place on the face of the earth
Where charity dwelleth, where virtue has birth?
Where bosoms in kindness and mercy will heave,
And the poor and the wretched may ask and receive?
Is there no place on earth where a knock from the poor
Will bring a kind angel to open the door?
Ah! search the wide world wherever you can,
There is no open door for the moneyless man.

Go look in the hall where the chandelier light
Drives off with its splendor the darkness of night;
Where the rich hanging velvet, in shadowy fold,
Sweeps gracefully down, with its trimming of gold,
And mirrors of silver take up and renew
In long lighted vistas the 'wildering view;
Go there in your patches, and find if you can,
A welcoming smile for the moneyless man,

Go look in your church of the cloud-reaching spire,
Which gives back to the sun his same look of fire,
Where the arches and columns are gorgeous within,
And the walls seem as pure as a soul without sin;
Go down the long aisle—see the rich and the great,
In the pomp and the pride of their worldly estate;
Walk down in your patches, and find if you can,
Who opens a pew for the moneyless man.

Then go to your hovel—no raven has fed
The wife who has suffered so long for her bread;
Kneel down by her pallet and kiss the death frost
From the lips of the angel your poverty lost—
And bless while it smites you the chastening rod,
And you'll find at the end of your life's little span
There's a welcome above for the moneyless man.

LORD LORNE ON CANADA.

A DEFENCE OF COLONIAL VIEWS AND WISHES FROM A COLONIAL STANDPOINT.

We take the following extract of the Marquis of Lorne's speech at Inverary from the columns of the Glasgow Herald. After referring to matters concerning his late constituency the Marquis went on to say:—Let me mention another matter which only touches on home discussion, but the treatment of which by many suggests a topic of wider importance. It is the tendency which is often observable to look at all matters concerning any part of our great Empire, or any Colonial question, only from a home point of view. As an instance, I shall bring to your recollection a recent case and speak of it. I beg you will remember that I speak simply and solely as your recent member, who voted according to his convictions, and it is as former M. P. for the county only that I now refer to it. It was proposed lately by the government of India that the title of Empress of India should be given to the Sovereign of India, because in India it would best mark where there are many sovereigns. No change was intended thereby in the Government of India, and of course no change was dreamed of here. The name was proposed as good for India on Indian grounds alone, one of them being that it would recognise a fresh the position of the Indian Princes. It was recommended by a majority of the Indian Government and by the Indian Secretary and Council in Downing-street. It was resisted by a few, simply from a fancied home position. Because a shop-keeper in some cockney bathing place had put up an ignorant inscription, the incredible nightmare was conjured up that the title would be used in England, and then the conclusion was reached that—I don't know how many impossible changes would follow. The idea of English changes taking place in the relations between sovereign and people seems so absurd that it is not worth mentioning, except for this, that it illustrates the tendency of a portion of the British mind to look at matters concerning other portions of the Empire solely from a British point of view. I need not say how dangerous in more important matters this might become, and to what disasters to ourselves and others living beneath the British flag it might lead, were it carried, for example, to any great extent into the sphere of our relations with our great colonies. Judge of

THE POSITION OF OUR SOVEREIGN

THE WISHES OF OUR COLONIES,

not from your own point of view only, but from that of their interests also, and from that of the well-being of the whole Empire, whose glory and power is at once the best result, and the surest guarantee of the freedom which is yours, and which the colonies inherit from you. Many of you know well—because many of your relations are settled there—the great British colonies of North America. The Dominion now stretches from ocean to ocean across the vast continent, embracing lands of every nature, some valuable for corn, some for pasture, for forest, or for the treasures which will in future centuries make the country one of the richest on the earth for coal and other minerals. As your former member is about to join the number of your friends who are already there, you will allow him to say a good word for those provinces of the Dominion the threshold of which civilization has already passed, and whose vacant chambers tempt the settler from the Old World to enter further and to occupy. Some years ago, at a public meeting in Glasgow, I took the opportunity to describe the wonders of the temptations offered by the Canadian Government to men employed in agriculture here to settle in Manitoba, and since that day, as before it, hundreds of happy homesteads have risen, and have been directed towards the construction of railroads, which will make Manitoba considerably more accessible than is Inverary now. Let me again invite attention to the great province and to the vast territories beyond. In Argyleshire we have too few men, and we want more to settle with us. But Canada is a formidable competitor even to this fair country, and in other places in the towns of this land there are plenty of men who would do well if they can hold the plow to follow the gallant example of their countrymen who have done glory to the old land in the forming of another great British nation, and instead of an unhealthy city life take to the life-giving work of a settler in the agricultural regions of Western Canada where they are likely to live longer and to be happier than is the lot of the great majority of mankind. Here is an account fresh from the north-west provinces:—"It would surprise you to see the amount of traffic carried on from Winnipeg (the great wholesale house for the west and north-west) for a thousand miles into the interior; trains after trains of carts passing and repassing down with furs, robes, and pemmican; and up in the interior with provisions and general merchandise for the Mounted Police, Hudson's Bay posts, and the Indians. Besides this, explorers, pleasure-seekers, tourists, Government officials, and mounted police may be seen driving along in light drays, each on his own errand of pleasure or business. While working near where the trail crosses Bird's Tail Creek I counted 55 carts in one train as they started off, leaving many more still camped in the valley. Many people object to this part of the Dominion on account of the great distance from market, want of timber, and destitution of schools, churches, and other luxuries of civilization. These I will answer in turn. That the mercury descends lower at Winnipeg than in the old country is quite true; but it is the unvarying testimony of all with whom I conversed on the subject, that although the weather is colder they do not feel any more inconvenience from it than they did in Ontario, 600 miles further south, and that people when travelling in the North-west will lie out at nights during the coldest weather. I certainly would not advise any one to do that in Argyllshire. I have also been informed that native horses will live out all winter, and be very fat in spring. Now, the question is, are we to believe the experience of the inhabitants or be led away by a mere speculative theory? Again, with respect to markets, Manitoba is as well off as any new portion of country. There will be a good market for many years (at least till a railroad is built) at each farmer's door to immigrants. The outlying settlers will, in particular, have an advantage of this kind at 50 cents per bushel.

THE ENERGIES OF THE DOMINION

INCLEMENCY OF THE WINTER WEATHER

WHEAT GROWING IN MANITOBA

will pay as well as at one dollar in the county of Perth, because twice as much to the acre can be produced; and that with less labour. Besides all this, before a great many years communication will be opened out through Hudson's Bay, thereby bringing Winnipeg within as direct intercourse with Liverpool as Toronto is. To accomplish this a railroad of only 375 miles is required to connect Port Nelson on Hudson's Bay with Lake Winnipeg, and Port Nelson is some 60 miles nearer to Liverpool than New York is. It is an acknowledged fact (except by persons having a contrary interest) that Hudson Straits is open for navigation for about three months in each year, quite long enough to take out all the country can produce. In short, if the theory of never leaving home for fear of getting away from a market had always been acted on, then would the sons of Noah never have left Mount Ararat.

THE QUESTION OF TIMBER

next comes under our notice. From what I have seen of the country, I can safely assert that there is quite sufficient timber for building, fencing, and fuel. A man may settle down where he will have to go from five to ten miles for wood, or he may get land with wood on it. The timber is chiefly poplar, and grows very rapidly. In some parts cottonwood, oak, and spruce are also to be seen in abundance. Along nearly all the streams there are large quantities of timber to be found. After all, in my opinion, the use of timber, to a very great extent, is as much a matter of custom as of necessity. Houses may be built of brick or stone, fences dispensed with by herding cattle, and, as the Mennonites do, use fuel manufactured from straw and vegetable soil for the present, until the coal deposits are opened out. With respect to schools, churches, and the other various conveniences, the people of Manitoba are

FAR IN ADVANCE OF MY EXPECTATIONS.

It is true some things, such as wood roads and fine buildings, will only become general in time; but schools and churches are established all over the country as soon as settlements are formed. At the settlement of Woodlands, a very commodious little school house has been built, and a teacher employed at $35 per month. It is only very recently that a first-class teacher in Ontario could get as high as that. Many persons immigrating to the North-west take with them several thousands in money, and will use the most improved machinery and farming implements the next year. Unless one has heard or seen for himself he can form no idea how fast the country is settling up with people from England, Scotland, Ireland, Iceland, Russia, and the other provinces of the Dominion. A man willing to work need not return with the excuse that he cannot get employment. There are many farmers who would gladly employ a man, and pay him with provisions, seed, grain, the use of oxen, etc., that would serve his purpose quite as well as money, and at the same time be a market for his employer's produce. Contractors on employ industrious men readily at two dollars per day. Their board will cost four dollars per week. Although I have a very high opinion of the North-west, yet that will not satisfy the individual tastes of others; so that I would advise each person to see it for him or herself, and not be in a hurry either locating or returning dissatisfied, for there is a very large extent of country to select from. Land may be had either with or without timber, with or without water, or with or without stone." This is but one letter telling of one district of that great region whose sons have proved themselves worthy descendants of the old conquering British race, for they have mastered the abundant stores of nature, and are turning them to glorious use. And this brings me to my last words to you to-night, and they must be the sad words of farewell. I wish in saying these to let you feel that I know well how deep is the debt of gratitude I owe to you. If I should prove in any manner able to fill the high place allotted to me, and

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY

IF ANY SUCCESS ATTENDS ME

in undertaking its arduous responsibilities—the responsibilities connected with the position of one who is the representative of Constitutional Sovereignty, and as such bound to cherish the loving ties which unite the young with the old Imperial land—if I can in any measure satisfy the wishes of the people, it is because I have had some experience in public as a member of the House of Commons. You elected me to the seat I have had the honour to hold in that House. (Loud cheers.) I shall always rejoice that I have been allowed to serve this fair portion of Scotland which your fathers and mine have served, and with whose interests it was identified in other and more troubled days. (Cheers.) You know how our ancestors in past ages rendered its name illustrious, and let us hope that in our time we may all in our several stations keep its renown unsullied, and that the voice of Argyllshire will always be raised and her vote given for the true welfare of the people of this Empire and the honour of their Sovereign." (Loud cheers.)
