The neighbors of this community are sorry to lose Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holroyd from our midst. They have sold their farm to Mr. James Ottewell. Mr. and Mrs. Holroyd will move shortly to Collingwood, where they have purchased a comfortable home. We join in wishing this elderly couple many more years of health and enjoyment. The neighbors gathered at their home here Saturday evening last and presented them with a small gift and best wishes and an address was read, as follows:

We, your friends and neighbors have gathered at your home this evening to express our regret at your departure from our midst. You have been respected residents of our community for a great number of years and we have learned to appreciate you, finding you upright and honorable in all our dealings with you. We could not let this opportunity pass without expressing, in some manner, our regard for you, and we ask you to accept this small gift with all the good wishes of your old friends and our sincere wish is that you many enjoy many years of health and happiness in your new home.

Signed on behalf of the community.
EDGAR DOBSON,
JOHN POOLE.

THE USEFULNESS OF FARM ACCOUNTS

To the many obvious reasons for keepng farm accounts should be added the following one, at least under present conditions. Farmers seeking credit are being required to furnish an increasing amount of information. A statement of net worth as obtained from a farm account book is the basic credit statement. In addition to borrowers may be required to furnish a buget of expenses and income in order to arrive at a schedule of borrowing and repayments. Without adequate records of his farm business the borrower cannot do himself justice or present his application in the most favourable light.

Furthermore, over a period of several years, farm account books bring out an increasing number of useful facts. The records suggest that different fields need different soil treatment. They give difinite standards of performance in the use of feeds, in the production of butterfat and other livestock products, and do much to change the yearly plans of the farmer from a matter of chance and guesswork into reasoned plans based on demonstrated facts and relationships.

NOT THE REASON

He was climbing out of the stream wiping water out of his hair and eyes, when one of those kind, interested gentlemen happened along.

"How did you come to fall in?" he asked.

"I didn't," the other replied, "I came to fish."

The first straw hat is about due.

EUGENIA

"There is one link death cannot sever,
Love and remembrance last forever."

Sunday, May 19th, brought back memories of a loved one who had gone to rest with Jesus two years ago. This was the late Mrs. Jacob Williams and in remembrance a profusion of beautiful flowers were placed on the altar in the United Church by her brothers und sisters, and her family Immediate relatives of the deceased were present and appropriate hymns were selected, the choir singing "God is Love." Rev. Bushell preached a fine sermon and offered a beautiful prayer, mentioning the departed.

The Woman's Association met on Thursday afternoon, May 16th, in the church, when eight members were present. The roll call was answered by paying of membership fees.
