ANOTHER WOMAN SENATOR

Hon. Cairine Wilson, Canada's sole woman Senator, has been granted a Conservative mate in the Red Chamber, Mrs. Howard T. Fallis, Peterboro, having been selected for the distinction. Mrs. Fallis is a talker of note. Now, what of feminine representation in the new House of Commons? Is our Grey County M. P. to remain, as it were, a pelican in the wilderness? Various ladies are as usual, being nominated, but to get enough votes is the thing. Ungallant men, and even women, are not always to be relied upon.

LEAVING HOUSE OF COMMONS

Among those who are not running for seats in the Parliament of Canada soon to be elected are Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, of Guelph, who is slated for the chairmanship of the Dominion Railway Commission; Hon. R. C. Matthews, who has been Minister of Revenue; Hon. Edgar Rhodes, who takes a Senatorship; Hon. Alfred Duranleau, Minister of Marine, and Hon. Arthur Sauve, Postmaster General, Quebec Ministers, who take refuge in the Senate. Other members of the House of Commons who go to the Senate are: James Arthurs of Parry Sound, F. P. Quinn of Halifax, Thos. Cantley of Pictou and Hon. Geo. P. Jones of New Brunswick. Then Hon. Donald Sutherland of Ingersoll, a former Minister, joins the procession to the Senate, while Hon. T. C. Murphy, Minister of the Interior, gives up the Parliamentary contest and joins him. As other Senators are yet to be selected, there is still a list to take the life job and give up the uncertain competition for permanent.

JUST IN PASSING

It may not have occurred to all, but Flesherton has undoubtedly the best swimming pool between Toronto and the Georgian Bay? Why cannot we make more of it? Hundreds of tourists pass through the village every week with no knowledge of its existence. It would be a boon to many a travelling party on a hot summer day. It is unfortunate that this local asset has not been more widely heralded.

How would the following sign set up at all service stations and entrances to the village do—:

TOURISTS

FLESHERTON HAS THE FINEST SWIMMING POOL IN GREY. WE INVITE YOU TO USE IT. THERE IS NO CHARGE

If the tourist party took time to swim here it is quite probable that they might eat here and buy things here.

Of course it would be necessary to do a little fixing up. The doors would have to be in their proper places in the dressing rooms and not on the floor. Signs distinguishing the rooms would have to be tacked up, and a less dangerous diving arrangement would have to be constructed. This is something for the merchants and service station people to think about. We feel certain that the gentleman who owns the property would be glad to co-operate.

COMING GENERAL ELECTION

Premier Bennett has taken a holiday trip, after partially distributing a portion of the vacant Senatorships and judicial plums, but will, it is reported from Ottawa, return soon and complete the distribution of jobs and then announce the dissolution of Parliament and the date of the General Election. Mayhap the date of the fateful contest has already been selected, but the public is respectfully requested to keep guessing while the Premier disports himself by the sea. For ourselves, we hold to our prognostication of a few weeks since. The General Election may be expected before two months have elapsed, and the date will be between the middle and the end of September. The likelihood, therefore, that the country will be in the heat of the campaign while the crops are being harvested. All will be glad to see it over, and to have normal conditions re-established. With at least four parties looking for support on this occasion, many of the Ministers and members, either entering the Senate, taking refuge in other offices, or retiring to private life, the outlook in not a few constituencies will be uncertain. Never before, since Confederation, have conditions been so complicated. They may, however, clear up before election day. One thing is certain: there will be many new faces in the Parliament which will be selected. It is up to the electors to make the choice. May they decide with wisdom, unmoved by prejudice.

SHOULD BE MADE TO WORK

We notice that in several municipalities there are men who have been on relief who refuse work when it is available for them. Premier Hepburn has stated that those who do not work are to be refused relief when the time to again dispense that boon to the man out of a job. At this time of the year there are hundreds of farmers in need of help for the haying and the harvest who would be pleased to provide employment for many of those who are not working, but many have been unable to secure help in their task. The hunger marchers travelling to Ottawa by foot would be better occupied in looking for honest toil in place of agitating for more relief and forcing the government to pay out larger amounts to aid them in their idleness. There are many men, no doubt, who have ben out of employment for so long that they have no intention of looking for work if the government can be forced to aid them. Relief has made for greater idleness and has taken away from men the initiative to work and help support his family; that it is the duty of the country to keep them while they go around the country boasting of the fact that they are "putting it over" the government. The time has come when they should be shown that this state of affairs can not continue.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Durham Chronicle remarks that a walk around the back streets of the town makes one think that the town council will soon have to commence haying. Flesherton's street hay crop was gathered in by a local citizen for feeding purposes without any cost to the town.

We are pleased to know that the veteran editor of the Chesley Enterprise has so far recovered from his stroke a year or so ago that he has been able to be down town in a wheel chair. We hope he continues to improve and will gain the full use of his limbs.

ABOUT WATCHES

In the year 1797 in England a tax was imposed by Act of Parliament on the possession and use of watches and clocks. The following is an extract of the Act and ordained that: For and upon every clock or timekeeper, by whatever name the same shall be called, which shall be used for the purpose of a clock and placed in or upon any dwelling house, or any office or building, thereunto belonging, or any other building whatever, whether private or public, belonging to any person or persons, or company of persons, or any Body Corporate, or Public or Collegiate, or which shall be kept and used by any person or persons in Great Britain, these shall be charged an annual duty of five shillings and for upon every gold watch or watch enamelled on gold or gold timekeepr used for the purpose of a watch by whatever namt the same shall be called, which shall be kept and worn or used by any person in Great Britain there shall be charged an annual duty of ten shillings. And for and upon every silver or metal watch or of whatever material the same shall be made, which shall be kept and worn or used, by any person there shall be charged an annual duty of two shillings and sixpence. Among other provisions of the act was one that in certain sections of England every watch or clockmaker or dealer in such was also required to pay an annual duty of two shillings and sixpence.

Under these cnnditions the demand for watches and clocks had decreased to such and extent, that in less than a year thousands of persons employed in the various branches of the trade within the kingdom were deprived of employment.

The paralizing effect was such that it had the effect of creating a new kind of timekeeper solely for tavern keepers which were known as "Act of Parliament Clocks."

These clocks had a large dial of wood painted block, and with gilt figures, not covered by glass and had a trunk of sufficient length to allow of a second, pendulum. A few of these clocks may still be seen in the country inns.

The act was repealed in April 1798, the produce being far from reaching the estimated yield.

A series of articles dealing with the history of watches and clocks and other items of interest in connection therewith, also a brief history of hall marking applying to the English hall mark, by which the date the articles was made may be ascertained, will appear in this paper.

IN MEMORIAM

HILLOCK—In loving memory of our dear sister, Grace Hillock who pasesd away, July 23rd 1934.

Not dead; just gone a litle way
Ahead of us who loved you here.
Though your dear face we may not see
Your spirit still can guide and cheer
Because your life was beautiful,
The lessons learned from you in youth
Are guide-posts to a higher way
Of service, loveliness and truth.

Hill--MacMillan

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church Priceville, Ontario, when Catherine Euphemia MacMillan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hector R. McLean became the bride of Wm. Drury Hill, son of the late Thomas A. and Mrs. Hill of Fergus, Ont.

Rev. Norman MacDonald of Priceville performed the wedding ceremony

The bride looked charming in a shell pink triple sheer gown, fashioned on simple lines and wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses and Lily of the Valley.

The maid of honor was Miss Eva Hill sister of the groom and was prettily attired in flowered Chiffon and wore a corsage of sweet peas.

The groomsman was Mr. Murray MacMillan, brother of the bride. After the signing of the register and congratulations, a dainty wedding supper was served to the immediate members of the family at the Park Hotel, Flesherton.

The bride's travelling outfit was a suit of boucle delphinium blue and shrimp with matching accessories. The happy couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes, on a honeymoon trip to Muskoka and other points. The young couple have the best wishes for a long and happy wedded life, from a host of friends.

Previous to her marriage a reception was held at the home of Miss Coleman of Dunnville, where a chicken dinner was served.

A complementary address was read by one of the nurses. The bride who has been in the hospital for four years was presented with a lovely walnut occasional chair from the hospital staff. Miss MacMillan thanked all kindly and invited one and all to visit her in her new home.

ST. JOHN'S W.M.S.

The Woman's Missionary Society met in the school room of St. John's United Church on Wednesday of last week. Mrs. Mitchell's group had charge of the program, but owing to home conditions she was obliged to pass the honor of presiding over to another member. After the opening exercises, Mrs. O. Phillips read the devotional leaflet and Mrs. W. Thurston read a short account of the work in Trinidad which was begun by Rev. John and Mrs. Morton in 1876. The W. M. S. finds the work there as successful as it can be under the circumstances. More workers, which means more money, are needed to do all that should be done. Mrs. W. I. Henry, in the absence of the president took the chair. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. J. Heard, who is acting secretary for Mrs. C. Chapple during her absence. Arrangements were made for the church service on July 28. Roll was called, collection received, a hymn was sung and Mrs. J. J. Thompson dismissed the meeting by prayer and the benediction.

IN MEMORIAM

HILLOCK — In loving memory of my dear sister, Mrs. Ed: Hillock (nee Grace Jamieson), who passed away to be with her Saviour, July 23, 1934.

The place that you hold there shall never depart;
Along through the days, be they many or few,
Shall be filled with remembrance, dear sister, of you.

HEALTH

by Frederick Fleming M.D.

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

ADOLESCENT GIRLS

Practically twice as many girls between their fifteenth and twentieth years die from tuberculosis as do boys of the same age. It is only among the young women of the country that we are not making satisfactory progress in stamping out tuberculosis.

This, in itself, is serious, but it is all the more so if we consder tuberculosis to be an indicator of general health conditions. It points to a prevalent unsatisfactory health status of the adolescent girls and young women of Canada.

There are certain fairly common faults in the living habits of this age group which appear to be responsible, at least in part, for their lack of good health. It must be remembered that the results of faulty habits of living are seldom prompt or spectacular. Rather do these bad habits lead to a gradual undermining of health, to physical inferiority and fatigue, and to inability to recuperate from fatigue or infections.

Too many girls are poor eaters. There is too much attention given to weight, and by far too much dieting among them. At this age, overweight up to a point is desirable, beyond which it should be overcome by exercise and by the elimination of candy and pastry, but never by any dieting except under regular medical supervision.

A good practical method is to state that if these girls will use one pint of milk a day, and once a day, take servings of some green vegetable, a salad and some fresh fruit, after that, they may eat whatever they desire. Milk is essential to supply the mineral, calcium, and the vegetables and fruit will ensure an adequate supply of vitamins.

Quantities of sleep—from ten to eleven hours—taken regularly are required. A noon rest is desirable but unfortunately is not often practical. Many schools make the serious error of having a short noon recess with the idea of closing earlier in the afternoon. This leads to fatigue which shows itself in the twitching, nail-biting and stammering which the school teacher sees only too often.

Poor posture grows out of a lack of sleep and rest, insufficient exercise and improper foods. It may be too that the girl feels overgrown, or, as an adolescent, be too conscious of her maturing figure, and this causes her to slouch her shoulders.

Bad habits of early life are apt to be carried into later life.. Good health habits are needed at all ages.

IN MEMORIAM

HINCKS — In loving memory of Mrs. David Hincks, who departed this life July 22nd, 1926.

Mother dear, how we have missed you
These long years through;
Sometimes we feel so lonely
We scarce know what to do.
She did not fail to do her best,
Her heart was true and tender,
She worked hard for those she loved
Which will always be remembered.
Some day we hope to meet her,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp her hand
In a better land,
Never to part again.

—Sadly missed by husband and family.
