ALTON DESERTED VILLAGE SEES SIGNS OF NEW LIFE

After being on the verge of extinction for some years, the little village of Alton, five miles South of Orangeville is again to be an industrious centre.

A rubber company of Caledon has purchased a large knitting mill from the J. M. Dodds estate and will remove to the new building at once, remodelling it and installing new machinery and employing 100 hands at the outset.

Years ago three knitting mills gave employment to about 300 hands. Many vacant houses and stores, thought doomed, will again be occupied. Another mill has been leased to a firm to manufacture socks, and a twine company is negotating for the third mill. Due to several large dams on the Credit River in the village, all three mills have unlimited water-power at practically no cost.

Flesherton Loses To Owen Sound

Flesherton baseball team played the junior team of Owen Sound on Thursday afternoon of last week and were overwhelmed by the score of 15—2. It was only the second game of the season for the local boys and without practice of any kind and the outcome of the game is not to be wondered at. Reg. Hutton and Bob Dargavel served them up for Flesherton while Ken Betts was on the receiving end of their slants and did a good job of his task, as he has been playing first base for the team in the past. Following is the box score:

FED UP

Bill met his friend, George, and found him wearing one brown and one black shoe.

"Hullo, George, starting a new fashion in footwear?"

"No," said George, furiously, "I'm fed up with my shoemaker. The fool has sent me another pair just like these."

Hold Revival Meetings

An interested and representative crowd of people met in Flesherton Tuesday night and listened to a stirring address on the subject "Are the days of Revivals Past?" by Rev. H. L. Stephens, noted speaker and minister who has held successful evangelistic campaigns all over tre United States, Canada and Great Britain. Rev. A. E. Armstrong of Meaford took charge of the first part of the service. He told of the great united campaign held in Meaford a couple of years ago when the Baptist, United and other churches joined forces under Mr. Stevens' leadership and the gracious results that followed.

After special singing and announcements, Mr. Stephens said "I want to give you the words of a man who, with his people, was about to be carred away into captivity into Babylon. He saw one hope of deliverance and that was that God Almighty would send to their nation a mighty revival. His cry was "Oh Lord, Revive Thy Work," Habakuk 3:2. That prayer was never answered because the people had forgotten God and were living in sin. We have, however, the records of revivals in the Old Testament and New. England was on the verge of a civil war, but the revivals of Wesley and Whitfield saved the situation.

John Knox prayed "O God, give me Scotland or I'll die." and God gave him that bonnie land. Martin Luther never stopped until Germany was mightily stirred with the great truth of Salvation by faith, instead of dead worps, formality and the confessional.

The editor of "The Nation" says: "Men are looking to the church to show the way out of the depression and distress. When they ask for bread, shall we give them beer? When they ask for God and His salvation, shall we substitute fine music, comfortable pews, elegant sermons breathing doubts, extending the elements of uncertainty."

Mr. Stephens continued with the thought that if a bank fails, because the manager has been dishonest, if a merchant fails because because of his crooked ways in business, no reflection is put upon other banks and merhants, but if any one in religious work makes a side step, then the unreasonable, critical and cynical world places all other religious workers in the same category. Our forefathers went through fire and flood, but they led a mighty host to marvelous victory and saved many a nation from desolatoin and despair. "I do not believe," Mr. Stephens continued, "the days of revivals are past, for millions are asking God to revive His work once more."

Special services will be held every night this week at 8 o'clock and on Sunday at 3 and 7.30 p.m., when Mr. Stephens will be speaking on very stirring subjects. There will be special singing at every service and a cordial invitation is extended to all to attend. Delegations will be present from several districts.
