EUGENIA

Rev. Mr. Bushell preached a fine sermon on Sunday, very appropriate for Victoria Day. He talked on Queen Jezebel, the queen who possessed such evil qualities and Queen Esther who had all the qualities of a good queen. He spoke in high reverence of Queen Victoria, whose birthday we commemorate each year and which happened to fall on Sunday this year. He told of how at the age of 12 years she said, "I will be good" and when she became queen at the age of 18 she said "Pray for me." He tried to impress on the minds of the girls, what a good example Queen Victoria was in regards to a Christian character, and any girl taking her as an ideal could not go astray, but become more queenly and good.

The regular meeting of the W. A. was held in the church on Thursday of last week. There was a good attendance, as it was "Grandmother's Day." The W. A. decided to hold a garden party on July 7th, a mixed program to be prepared by an appointed committee. Letters of communication were read. After the business part of the meeting a program followed, which consisted of: A reading by Mrs. C. Turner, a couple of contests, one of which consisted of a number of the grandmother's pictures in their girlhood days. It was quite puzzling to guess some of them. There was a trio with guitar accompaniment by Miss Dinsmore, Hazel Turner and Evelyn Campbell and Ida Benson. Mrs. C. Smith gave a musical selection on the organ. Quite a number who were not grandmothers were attired in grandmother's costumes of years ago. Mrs. G. C. Graham presented the oldest grandmother, Mrs. Adam Smith with a pretty bouquet of tulips. After the program a dainty supper was served in the basement of the church.

There was no Y.P.S. meeting on Wednesday of last week as the citizenship convenor was absent. This was a disappointment as several members were present.

Fallacy of Worn Tires

The fallacy of using weak or worn tires on motor cars was proven by two accidents from this cause recently reported in the same issue of the Flesherton Advance. In one instance a tire blew out when the car was approaching a culvert on the highway and the car crashed into the end of it, injuring the driver and three passengers more or less severely. In the second instance a blowout occurred as two cars were meeting and one car was drawn over into the path of the other, despite the best efforts of the driver to prevent a crash. In this accident no one was seriously injured but the cars were considerably damaged. Had the tires been strong on these cars no accident would have occurred. A motorist owes it to himself, his family and the other fellow to have strong tires and his car in the best mechanical condition prepared to meet emergencies.— Dundalk Herald.

A Georgia mob has lynched another negro. Law and order have queer ways of manifesting themselves across the border at times.
