Business men in the United States are becoming very much concerned over the amount of money taken out of the legitimate channels of trade by commercialized gambling, which a writer in American Business estimates to have a total annual cash turnover of $6,000,000.00 in wagers made. We have no idea what the amount might be in Ontario, but it must be no small figure and would be greatly augmented were all the draws or raffles held for various purposes added in. As an example of how much cash is gathered in by some of the latter, it is stated that a net profit of about $10,000 was made last week at one of these affairs in a western Ontario town of some five thousand people after paying for five automobiles, 25 radios, one thousand others prizes and all expenses.
