Canada A Leader In Telephone Usage

This district was well represented at Montreal, June 25 and 26, when telephone men and women having upwards to twenty-one years' service in that industry attended the 14th annual convention of the Charles Fleetford Sise Chapter, No. 26, of the Association of Telephone Pioneers of America.

Perpetuating the name of the late C. F. Sise Sr. who, fifty-seven years ago, successfully co-ordinated many of the telephone interests in this country and brought into being the Bell telephone organization that now serves Ontario and Quebec, the Chapter is the Eastern Canadian branch of the North American movement among telephone workers of all ranks and systems who have attained their years of majority in the business.

Always well to the fore in telephone matters, Canada continues to lead the world in its per capita usage of telephone service.

World wide telephone statistics compiled as of January 1, 1936, and now made public, show that an annual average of 210.8 telephone conversations were held in Canada for every man, woman and child in this country. The United States, with a comparable figure of 197.0, was in second place, Denmark, with 173.9 per capita calls, and Sweden with 152.2, followed.

Canada's position among the countries of the world in the matter of telephone development in the larger centres continues to be impressive. With 1878 telephones per 100 population in communities of 50,000 and more, this Dominion ranks sixth in the list. The United States is fifth with a figure of 19.32. Sweden is the leader in this regard, followed by Switzerland, Norway, and Dnmark, in that order.

In less peopled areas, Canada ranks in fourth place, this world-wide survey reveals. Canada, it is shown, has 7.28 telephones in operation per 100 population in communities of less than 50,000 persons. Next to the leadership of the United States with 9.87, there follows New Zealand with 9.84 and Sweden with 7.56. Fifth sixth, and seventh positions are taken by Denmark, Switzerland and Australia, respectively.

On the basis of telephone development throughout the whole population, Canada with 10.99 telephones per one hundred people is second only to the United States with a comparable figure of 13.69 telephones. Denmark is third with 10.64; New Zealand fourth with 10.59 and Sweden fifth with 10.28. Of telephones in service per 100 population among large cities of the world, Vancouver is fourth, Toronto eleventh and Montreal eighteenth in the list.

These latest statistics make it clear that Canadians continue, as they have done over a long period, to place a very high value upon their telephone services. This fact is emphasized in their continuing to be the world's leaders in telephone usage.

A DOG STORY

J. P. Johnstones's collie in following the roller last week, mysteriously disappeared after they stopped the machine to toss a stone out of the pathway, and when the procession started up again, it yelped so furiously from its retreat that the horses could hardly be prevented from running away. Between trying to stop the yelping canine and the runaway steeds, J. P. had a real man's job on his hands, and when the chargers finally brought up in a corner of the field the riddle was solved and the rumpus stopped by the purp leaping out of the roller, where, like the musical melody, it went "round and round."— Walkerton Herald-Times.
