GREEN PASTURES

(Elmira Signet)

The newspaperman, or for that matter the majority of business men in the small town long for the metropolitan centres—where they can really show their ability, be a spectator of and participant in the big-time parade.

The newspaperman, or again the average business man in the metropolitan centre long for the peace and security of a small town—where they wouldn't have to spend a couple of hours a day getting to and from work; where they could have a garden, a yard, some trees, some leisure after their working hours. Where they could know folks—where they could have neighbors again.

Each longs for the greener pastures of the other. So it always has been and probably always will be so long as human nature is what it is. Yes, it's funny how far away fields look green until self-satisfied curiosity reveals how good is one's own back yard—a true green pasture.

Don't be too hasty in diagnosing a man's sad look at a picnic as being the sign of a secret sorrow. First find out if there has been any delay in bringing forth the "eats."

While they finished in fourth place they played good ball and next year will do better, no doubt. The battery of Dorothy Welton and Dorothy Patton will come along with more practice, as they are only about fourteen years of age. We wish them better success next year. Durham finished in first place in the League race, Markdale in second, Dundalk third, Flesherton in fourth and Shelburne in last place.
