EASTERN CANADA FARMERS VICTIMS OF EXPLOITATION

The price of eighty cents per bushel for Western wheat was set by the Dominion Government last week, the amount farmers will receive for each bushel of No. 1 Northern taken to the elevators in Western Canada. Lower grades of wheat will bring a lower price. This will no doubt be of great benefit to the farmers in those districts of the West that have good crops this year, but which have suffered from the drought the past few seasons. It will allow them to enjoy better living and perhaps pay some of the indebtedness piled up during the same years. At the same time that the above decision was made public Prime Minister Mackenzie King gave out the statement that the pegged wheat price was applicable to only Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, when representatives were made to have the set price include the provinces of Eastern Canada. Protection has been given Western provinces and why not, at the same time, protect the farmers of Eastern Canada by including these provinces in the agreement? Eastern Canada farmers are therefore forced to remain as a field of exploitation of unscrupulous dealers and take a much lower price for their wheat than would otherwise be the case, and at the same time pay their share to provide the price of eighty cents for Western wheat.

A couple of weeks ago hog prices on the Toronto market reached the highest price paid during the past nine years when they realized over twelve cents per pound. Now the price is nine and a half cents a pound. If hogs were worth twelve cents per pound one week thep were worth the same the following week when they fell one and a half cents. How is this quick change justified by the packers. It look suspicious and many people have an opinion why the drop took place. A few years ago the price spreads commission renderd their report to Parliament, but their advice goes unheeded and incidents like the above continue to take place. Protection is thus accorded to all except the Eastern Canada farmer.

Returned Men's Week

(Durham Chronicle)

The past week has been a great one for the returned men of this country, both in Toronto and in Grey County. They have enjoyed their periodical reunion, and what a time they had. In Toronto they did everything but tear up the pavement, and the citizens and police seemed to like it. At Flesherton on Monday the Grey County veterans had a get-together and it was a wonderful success.

No doubt there will be criticisms of the manner in which some of the boys enjoyed themselves, but this is to be expected. No person who has never been in the army can quite get the slant of the returned man when he meets his former overseas mates at these periodical reunions. We have failed so far to find any place in which close friendships are made comparable to the army. When you soldier with a man three or four years you know him. You know he is genuine, and it is only natural that when you meet him at these get-togethers where everything goes, there is something bound to happen that could not happen anywhere else.

That old saying that "old soldiers never die, they simply fade away" might be revised to include the friendships made in the army, and especially in time of war. There is no friendship quite like that of your "buddy" in the army. He more than likely has stood by you through thick and thin, right or wrong, and it is the most natural thing in the world that when they meet at a reunion the lid is blown off and conventions forgotten.

There is no danger of you being defrauded when you buy from a local tradesman, says the Leamington Post and News. The local merchant's reputation is at stake every time he makes a sale, whether the commodity is a can of sardines or a suit of clothes. Actually he has to live up to the strictest standard of trade practice if he is to continue in business—a first class reason why he deserves every dollar of the trade being transacted by the citizens of the area he serves. Just last week a local man told us of his experiences in shopipng for a good used car. He went to several out-of-town dealers first, but in spite of their plausible arguments he was not satisfied with the cars they offered him. Returning home he visited a local dealer, and got a car at a better price than he had been prepared to pay. It was then that he realized that by buying from a fellow citizen he was certain to get a square deal—for the dealer's place of business is just down the street, and he can't afford to jeopardize his business standing in the community by misrepresenting a used car to his neighbor. The more it is realized that the local tradesman is doing business on the strictest standard of ethics, the greater will be the number of local people who voluntarly turn away from the often questionably conducted out-of-town trading and give their business to the man whose livelihood is rooted in the community. And the sooner this is done, the better, for with the greater flow of local trade through local channels, all local enterprise will be helped.

Objects To Being Shod

"Dolly," forty-one-year-old horse owned by Walter Carruthers near Wingham, still making her daily three-mile trips to that town, has plenty of pep yet. This was proven when her owner decided to have her equipped with rubber shoes for walking on the pavement. It took five men to hold her for the shoeing operations. The horse, acclaimed as the oldest in North America, brings a regular influx of tourists to the Carruthers home. Visitors from all over Canada and the United States have come to have their pictures taken with the aged equine.

Live Stock Report

Although supplies of cattle were somewhat less for Monday's market, the trade opened slow and only cattle of choice quality showed any activity. There were over two thousand stockers on sale and these met with a very poor market, as farmers were busy harvesting and did not show any real interest in securing their requirements just now.

A few choice weighty steers brought from 7.00 to 7.50 with those of fair to good quality from 6.25 to 6.75. In the butcher section choice steers and heifers brought from 6.00 to 6.50; fair to good from 5.50 to 6.00; common to medium 4.50 to 5.25. Choice baby beeves brought from 8.00 to 8.50, others at lower prices accordingly. Best light stockers brought from 4.50 to 5.00, common kind from 4.00 to 4.50. The cow market held steady, choice from 3.75 to 4.25. fair to good from 3.25 to 3.50; common to medium 2.75 to 3.00; canners and cutter 2.00 to 2.65. The bull trade was steady choice from 4.00 to 4.25; bolognas from 3.50 to 4.00.

Choice ewe lambs held steady at 9.50 and best butcher sheep 3.50 to 4.00. Calves were in good demand choice from 8.50 to 8.75; fair to good from 7.00 to 8.00; common to medium 5.00 to 6.00, grass calves 4.00.

The hog market has been very disappointing and although buyers were bidding lower prices for hogs on Monday most of the sales were made on the oasis of 9.50 for truck deliveries. Prices for the balance of the week will depend entirely upon supplies and salesmen are hopeful of recovering some of the decline, shown in the last two weeks, in the near future.

QUITE SAFE

A man astonished the want-ad. clerk of a newspaper recently by placing an ad. offering $50 reward for the return of his wife's pet cat.

"Isn't that a high reward for a cat?" asked the ad. taker.

"Not in this case" said the man "I drowned it."

Isn't it only a natural consequence that a man by the name of Bull get some of the cream from a big milk-producing concern.

Ex-service men feel sad over the dispatch that the man who composed the song "It's a long way to Tipperary" has passed on. In the war days the singing of this favourite song often helped to dissipate the blues.

Dogs For The Blind

Four of the famous "Seeing-Eye" dogs, trained especially in Morristown New Jersey, for use as guides to blind persons, are owned in Canada. Their pictures, accompanied by their masters, are contained in an interesting page in the recently issued annual report of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. One of the dogs is owned by a storekeeper in Toronto. One is the cherished companion of a one-armed blind lady who operates a stand under the auspices of the Institute in Montreal. The third is owned by a salesman who guides his master through the thickest of Toronto's traffic and the fourth is the guide and guardian of R. P. Thompson, who represents the Institute in Calgary. It is the hope of the Institute that, within the near future, arrangements will be made to have a limited number of these dogs trained in Canada.

KEEPS DAD BROKE

"The modern girl makes a good mother" says a clergyman.

Yes, and a poor father.

"What is a fair tax rate?" asked a contemporary. We do not know the answer all we know is there will never be one.

A man from London was in court recently for using 1936 car markers. We can't see where he gained much because the court took fourteen dollars from him.
