SMALL FAIR A NECESSITY

This week the prize lists of the Osprey Agricultural Society Fall Fair are being distributed by the secretary, Mr. George W. Ross, to the members of the Society. There are a large number of generous special prizes to supplement the prizes offered in the general list. Any person who is not a member is urged to secure a list from Mr. Ross. Prepare the exhibits chosen and you will be surprised the added interest you will have in the show. While your success may not be satisfactory the first year, you will learn many of the fine points of preparing the exhibits for showing and another year you may leave for home after the show with your share of the prizes.

No person can truthfully say that the fall fair is not needed in any community, as farming today is becoming more and more a competitive business. The farmer needs good stock to make his efforts pay; poor grade cattle or any other animal lose money for the farmer every day. It does not take as long to prepare a good animal for market as a poor one and the returns are greater. The development of good stock through the years has been by the method of showing at fairs, culling the poorer grades, and even striving to improve the quality of the animal. The small fall fair certainly has its place in the community and the farmer should be the first to appreciate that fact, show his stock and if unsuccessful in winning prizes be determined that he can raise as good stock as his neighbor. The Osprey fall fair has always been regarded as a show place for good stock and its reputation can only be sustained through the farmers of that township continually working to make their fair the best it has ever been.

Sandy McPherson was travelling in Glasgow, and on the way he felt thirsty so he took out a bottle and drew the cork. Just as he was about to take a hooker a fellow passenger in clerical garb addressed him:

"Excuse me, sir, but I am sixty years of age and I have never tasted a drop of whiskey."

"Dinna worry yourself," said Sandy "you're naw goin' tae start noo."

PROTON STATION

Notice the coming events for an announcement of the Proton Station United Church anniversary on September 11th. The choir, under the leadership of Miss Ruth Sherson, is busy practising for the event.

Harvest is pretty well over for 1938 and considerable threshing has been done in this district. It is seldom that grain is all harvested before the end of August.

Mr. R. H. Moore of London is a guest at the home of his sister, Mrs. Acheson, and other friends in the vicinity. Mr. and Mrs. Nichols, Jack and Helen were also callers at the Acheson home as they were returning from their holiday as far north as Kapuskasing.

Our village street is gay with bloom this summer. The gardens and the lawns in spite of the dry weather add much beauty to the appearance of this quiet little burg and a late addition to other improvements we have noticed recently is the new sunroom at the front of the post office and the new roof on Mr. Sims' barn.

Mr. and Mrs. Klitzke and family who have resided for a few months on the Binnie farm held an auction sale last Monday and purpose returning to the West. In spite of all discouragements the lure of the West is still in the blood.

Harvey Archibald is to be congratulated on his success in his final high school examinations. Harvey expects to attend Normal School this year.

Mr. Arnold Hergott of Proton Station has gone to Spanish River with the King Paving Co., and Roy Hergott has gone to British Columbia. Their friends here wish these young men success.

When helping his son at Portlaw, Mr. Joseph Watson of this village had the misfortune to break his wrist.

Mrs. Ernest Lyons was in Toronto for a few days.

Messrs. Kenneth Bates and George Sherson are in Toronto at present attending the exhibition.

Mr. and Mrs. Barneston Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Barneston Jr. of Toronto are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wyville.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Runciman of Toronto visited with Mr. and Mrs. McCannell.

Mrs. Campbell of Lansdowne is the guest of her mother, Mrs. McNalty.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Ludlow of Michigan were callers on friends in the village.

Miss Bertha Hemphill is holidaying at her parental home here.

Master Gerald Patterson of Maple Grove is holidaying at the home of his grandparents.

The C.I.O. has announced that it intends to organize in Canada. There need be no fear. Canadian workmen will not put up very long with the dictatorial tactics of Mr. John L. Lewis. Canadian are Canadians not Hupkies and Central Europeans such as Lewis bulldozes down in the eastern United States mine fields, where the C.I.O. got its start.—Durham Chronicle.

Drove his car with plenty of vim.

But alas now the ground covers him.

SCOTCH TO THE LAST

Dawn found an Englishman, an Irishman and a Scot, three survivors of a shipwreck, drifting helplessly on a raft.

Night came and still no sign of rescue. When things looked hopeless the Irishman knelt in silent prayer. Quickly the Englishman snatched off his hat as a mark of respect and the Scot took a flying leap into the sea.

He thought the Englishman was about to make a collection.

The trouble about being happy is that we do realize we are until we are not.

One worry our ancestors didn't have was that of how many miles they were getting to the gallon.

PRESENTATION PARTY FOR NEWLYWEDS

On Friday, August 12, a presentation party was held for Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Kinsman, recently married, at the home of Mr. Roy McDermid. The weather and moonlight were perfect, as was the Agricultural Society's platform for dancing, which was halted at midnight when Mr. and Mrs. Kinsman were called to the front where the following address was read by Mr. Bob Whittaker:

Dear Elwood and Mamie,

Now that your ship of matrimony has been safely launched, we have gathered to stand by and cheer sail-set. For long it lingered in the shipyard while Elwood drove his giant saw as if it were to be indeed a ship of wood, no doubt hearing it make music to the song in his heart.

The Bohunk Love Song

Beside me on the divan sat
The troubadour from Hungary.
He laid his violin aside
And sang a song of love to me.

You are the dearest thought I think
The perfume on my breeze,
The kick producer in my drink,
The skipper in my cheese.

You are my melody of love,
The rainbow in my sky,
The gold brick in my treasure trove,
The iris of my eye.

You are the moonlight in my night,
The picture on my wall.
You're everything that is all right
You're everything—that's all.

We hope the slabs will sparkle forever on your hearth, remembering that love is like a burning, even as in the blooming of that bright red flower planted by mankind, "The Old Flame."

Why do we like to watch a fire
The reason is not strange,
It's primitive divine desire,
Oh come to me, my sweet.

Miss Carbon, Mr. Oxygen,
Parted by leaves and sun
Forget the past and meet again;
New romance has begun.

They glow. Each other is caressed
With elemental heat.
Snap! Crackle! Pop. Alone at last,
Os come to me, my sweet.

The course of Love, however true,
From anguish may not turn.
And even those immortal two
Do not escape, they burn.

Once more as nebula they fare
Skyward in bliss sublime.
Again united as they were
Before the birth of Time.

We trust that Elwood's labors in Little Michigan's woods will long outlast the spring, and that his pockets with money may jingle and ring, so that Mamie may find many a quarter and cartwheel when she sweeps the sawdust from this couch and carpet with which we take pleasure in presenting you, to show you our esteem.

Signed on behalf of the Mill Gang,
Elmer Harrison,
Sandy Stonehouse.

Mr. Kinsman, in a few appropriate words thanked the friends for these and many other useful and beautiful gifts. Lunch was served and then "On with the dance" far into the night.

Advice knows pretty much all there is to know about deaf ears.

Experiments show that fish shrink when they die. Anglers should try to remember this.

It is difficult sometimes to realize that the fellows whose occupation is photographing bathing girls and beauty contest winners get paid for it.

At a luncheon of newspaper men the following toast was offered: "The ladies! Second only to the press in the dissemination of news!"—Southwest Tourist News.

Probably the reason politicians like to make speeches over the radio is because no one in the audience can fling awkward questions at them that way.

Tell a man he should walk more and use the car less and he will probably say, "Oh yeah," but get him interested in some sort of recreation and he will probably take quite a lot of exercise without realizing it. To find how far a dancer would step a newspaper attached pedometers to the feet of an experimental couple who kept partnership all evening. It was found that during a fast number they stepped one hundred and seventy yards, and seventy yards for a slow dance. The net result of the evening was about nine miles. Ask these people to go for a nine-mile walk after supper and they would probably throw up their hands in horror.—Forest Standard. Still if you could promise them their pick of new partners every seventy yards you might be surprised.—J. Ollier is the Shelburne F. P. and B.
