S. S. Workers To Hold Institute Here

In St. John's United Church in Flesherton Thursday afternoon, September 15, at 2.30 p.m. there will be held a Sunday School Workers' Institute. The institute is planned to give definite practical help to Sunday School teachers in preparing and teaching the lessons; to Superintendents in how best to conduct a Sunday School; to children's workers in how to make it interesting for the little ones who come to our Sunday School, to boys' and girls' work leaders in how to organize and carry on mid-week with Trail Rangers and C.G.I.T. respectively.

Dr. George Little from the Publishing House will be here to introduce and demonstrate how to use the new Sunday School lessons best, which are coming out the first of October. There will be plenty of time for asing questions and general discussion. Dr. C. A. Myers, associate Christian Education secretary, will give a general view of the Sunday School work and lead the discussion in the Sunday School superintendents' group. Rev. Kenneth Beaton from the Missionary Education department will demonstrate missionary materials and methods for Sunday Schools. Mrs. G. E. Neelands, Toronto Conference Girls' Work Counsellor will be here to speak on C.G.I.T. work. Miss E. Fockler children's work counsellor, will also be here to help those interested in children's work. Mr. Harold Annis, a qualified boys' work leader, along with two or three of our own ministers will give leadership in the boys' work section.

This institute is for the following charges: Heathcote, Kimberley, Maxwell, McIntyre, Dundalk, Proton Station Flesherton, Markdale, Holland Centre Priceville, Durham, Hanover and Elmwood. Excellent leaders will be here and it is hoped that every superintendent and teacher in the whole above mentioned area will take practical help. Supper will be served in the church to all delegates for 25c.

The girl who thinks no man is good enough for her may be right, but she is more apt to be left.

It will be just too bad for the women if there aren't many men in heaven. If nothing else they make good listeners.

The Board of Health in a Western Ontario town takes samples of dishwater periodically in public places and tests it. It's a good idea. We have been served this stuff as coffee and it wasn't fit to drink.

When Maw Did Not Get The Last Word

A well-known Wiarton woman went to an auction sale recently to buy a small flower stand. She told her husband before she went that she would like to get this flower stand but did not tell him she was going to the sale. There was a good crowd there and Auctioneer Beacock was going in fine style. How much am I offered for this lovely flower stand, table or whatever you like to call it, said he. "Fifty cents" said our friend at once. "What only fifty cents for this beautiful flower stand that can be used for holding pies, salads or anything you want to put on it?" "Surely fifty cents wouldn't pay for the varnish." Someone on the other side of the crowd bid a dollar. Then the bidding became brisk, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50, $3.00. It was a man who had the last say and his son was standing beside him. He edged through the crowd, then nudged his father. "Say, Dad" he said, "you're bidding against mother." We bet mother had the last word when they got home.—Wiarton Canadian Echo.

LONG MAY THEY WAVE

Two Saskatchewan girls are out to set up a new record for hair-travel. They are waving their way around the world. Wherever they go the girls set up beauty shops. Their stands are temporary but their work is permanent. Some hikers cover the ground by waving the thumb, but these Western lassies prefer the finger wave. They are Lena Ramsey and Ida Isabelle, daughters of ranchers, and they are now in England, having ranged that far already. The girls are expert workers. They always leave behind them a wave of enthusiasm too. The fair tourists plan to visit Berlin where they should do all right if they don't get into Hitler's hair. The girls say they started the trip on an impulse. One day they grew sick and tired of working on the hot range.

Miss Agnes Macphail Speaks at C.N.E.

Miss Agnes Macphail, M.P., was guest of honor and speaker at the luncheon on Women's and Music Day in the balcony of the Women's Building at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto on Thursday.

Mith characteristic humor and frankness, Miss Macphail outlined the position of women today. Development of women in any country follows the general development of that country, she said. Women of the United States where business ideals are paramount, for instance, have taken to business rather than politics—some have international reputations. In Great Britain, "the Mother of Parliaments," women make their mark in the realm of politics and public affairs—but with few exceptions, they are not good business women. In Scandinavia, also Holland, where people have a love of good government, the women are about equally divided—they are good citizens and good business women.

"In Canada we have good business women—especially the younger women, who are smartly dressed, keenly interested in business, and take for granted what women of the older generation had to work hard to get," she said. Canadian women are taking more interest in public affairs—they have done much to improve conditions but there are not enough in politics. It is up to the women of Canada to take an even greater interest in politics and public affairs, she maintained, so as to keep the country democratic. World history had shown that where democracy is functioning, women have had a better place than in those countries where it is not.

Speaking of "Women and Careers," Miss Macphail said, "Up to this point it has been 'either' 'or'—either a woman has a career or a job, or she has a husband and home." "Today every woman wants all of these! The United States has gone a long way in this respect. And if the social taboos were lifted, and a woman could have a home and work part of the time—after her family has grown up—and enjoy the same prestige as a woman who devotes half her time to golf, she would have a much more complete and balanced life," the Parliamentarian said. The work need not be salaried but something to which a woman could devote her time and her interest.

"And let me say that I have never thought the solution of unemployment would be that women should not work," she said.

"The solution of the great problem of unemployment affects both men and women, and can never be solved by some one refusing to do a job," she said, adding that "work is something we do as the expression of something we love."

THINK THIS OVER

Did you ever do sixty miles per hour at night on a good stretch of road? If so, the chances are that you are driving "blind" and don't know it. With good brakes and good road conditions, you need three hundred and thirty feet to stop at sixty miles per hour. So, if your headlights enable you to see only two hundred feet, your stopping point at any moment is almost one hundred and fifty feet beyond the distance you can see.

A truth that's told with bad intent beats all the lies you can invent.

Rebate Given To Local Hydro Users

For the first time in the history of Flesherton hydro users a rebate of ten per cent has been announced by the Ontario Commission to apply on the monthly bill received in September. The rebate applies to all users of domestic commercial, light and power who were customers of the Hydro in 1937, the total amount being some $450. The individual amounts will be taken out of the September bill and if the rebate amounts to more than the bill the user will not receive any notice and will be credited in the October notice. It is particularly requested that all hydro accounts be paid when due as otherwise the monthly rebate for prompt payment cannot be awarded. A rebate of $17.09 has also been given the village on the excess of revenue over expenses in the operation of the street lights.

Eastern Ontario Fruit

With sufficient rainfall growing conditions have been favourable for the development of the apple crop and fruit is sizing particularly well. Where spraying was done thoroughly scab and insect pests are being kept in check, with the exception of the codling worm moth which will cause considerable damage in a few orchards where a heavy infestation has accumulated from previous years. In the Trenton and Iroquois-Morrisburg districts several thousand barrels of apples were severely damaged by hail. Fall and early varieties are taking on considerable color and are up to normal in this respect.

Pears are developing well with size average and fruit clean in most orchards, although some codling moth injury is showing where regular control measures were not carried out. Plums are a light crop but there is every indication that the quality will be good, except on some trees where early sprays were not applied and some curculio is showing.

The only trouble with those "Back to the Soil" campaigns is that the people know the 'S' will be changed to 'T'.

The winner of a beauty contest in Toronto was bitten on the leg by a dog. Of course the dog should not have done such a thing but his power of selection was running pretty high.

Big Revenue From The Fishing Licenses

It has been suggested that the Ontario Government reduce the cost of the non-resident fishing license fee from $5.50 per season to a more reasonable rate. The rate in the state of Michigan is one dollar for ten days and two dollars for the season. Just how many more fishermen Ontario would get by reduction is hard to say. The increase might not be enough to overcome the reduction in the fee. Ontario in 1937 secured the sum of $272,000 in fishing license fees. That is a real healthy sum and shows that many non-residents are anxious to come to Ontario to fish, even at a fee of $5.50.—Parry Sound Star.

Schools Have Opened

The schools in Flesherton opened on Tuesday to commence the autumn term. Fifteen new pupils reported to the public school and a large number have also enrolled at the high school. Mr. C. R. Chapple is again principal of the public school and Mrs. C. J. Bellamy assistant. Mr. Howard Eubank has commenced his second year as principal of the high school and has as assistants Mr. Ernie Hutton, Miss Laura Pallett and Miss Alice Heard.

The Erring Motorist Will Get Little Sympathy

The way of the transgressor is hard, and the way of the reckless driver, if that be his chosen line of transgression, s still harder.

Recent changes in legislation have altered the Highway Traffic Act and the Criminal Code considerably. Reckless driving, failure to reman at the scene of an accident and driving while under the influence of liquor, charges formerly embraced by the Highway Traffic Act, have been removed and placed under the Criminal Code, and the terms of punishment made more severe.

A person guilty of reckless and wanton driving may now find himself facing a $1,000 fine or a term of six months in jail or, in extreme cases, both. Hit-and-run drivers, or one failing to remain at the scene of an accident, may find themselves assessed for a fine of $500 or six months in the cooler, and those driving while drunk will find stiffer sentences handed out.

The change in legislation was brought about in an endeavour to curb the fast-mounting number of highway accidents, and partially rectify the damage done by Ontario's "invisible" license plates. It is, apparently, good legislation, and we hope it has the desired effect.—Grand Valley Star and Vidette.

One way for newlyweds to make the public think they have been married for a long time is for the bride to carry the suitcases.
