PROPHECY

It is well that prophecy fails in many instances.

Two ladies, who had known each other in years gone by, met on the street. One of them, who had been married for some years, was pushing a baby carriage in which were fine triplets, all girls. The other had married only a couple of weeks.

"What beautiful children!" exclaimed the newly married one, with much interest, after the two friends had exchanged greetings.

"Yes," replied the proud mother, "and it was the funniest coincidence. At our wedding supper the boys who played with my husband in the orchestra serenaded him and played 'Three Little Maids,' from the 'Mikado.' Isn't that queer."

The newly married one gasped for breath and then turned pale with horror. "Merciful heavens!" she gasped, "at our wedding supper a couple of weeks ago, Tom's friends serenaded him also and they rendered 'The Sextette from Lucia.'

An Englishman collected more than two million stamps in sixty years and when he died it was found that the collection was worth $2,500,000.

Happy the holiday "for a change and a rest" that doesn't leave you in even greater need of a rest when it is all over.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS
