GEESE CONFUSED BY LIGHTS AT HYDRO PLANT

This being the season when wild geese are winging their way from Northern Canada to the sunny climes of the Southern States, operators at the Hanover hydro plant have again found that the geese are confused by the well-lighted grounds here,a condition made more noticeable this year by the fact that powerful search lights have been installed in order to help guard against sabotage . The other night, a flock of about one hundred geese flying over the town was so confused by the lights that they came down and were flying in and out among the lights and squawking loudly until the guards and operators saw their plight and turned off the lights, whereupon the geese recovered their bearings, went up to a much higher altitude, and continued their migration to the Southern States. This has happened on several occasions this year, as in former years, and there have been many large flocks of wild geese pass over Hanover. Unlike human beings, the geese seem unable to adjust themselves to artificial light, and instead of ignoring them on their flights, they have come down to investigate, and have become confused by the glare.—Hanover Post.

Apparently those I. R. A. members are troublesome even when locked up.

Inventors are busy trying to think of new forms of death-dealing machinery. Surely the present assortment is deadly enough.

DUNDALK DEFEATED LOCALS FOR FIRST TIME THIS YEAR

Flesherton High School rugby team lost their first game in three years on Monday afternoon, when Dundalk gave them a drubbing 15-1. The local boys could not execute their plays to any degree of success. Dundalk had two touchdowns to their credit, one field goal and two single points, one McTavish was only able to boot the ball to the deadline for a single point. Last Thursday at Hanover Flesherton won 8-7 in a close and exciting game. Flesherton won their first four games and are at present sitting at the head of their group. They meet Markdale in the latter town Thursday afternoon and if they win will be winners of the group. There is talk of the Fleshertnm team entering the playdowns of the W.O.S.S.A group for the Ontario six-man rugby championship, if they can overpower the Markdale team, which has not won a game to date.

It is interesting to note that the defeat of Flesherton Monday was the first the rugby team has had to take in three years of play.
