The Toronto At-Home

A meeting of the local branch of the Flesherton Old Boys' & Girls' Association was held in the town hall Monday evening and the meeting was well attended. The main item of discussion was the At-Home to held next Monday night in Toronto. There is no question in anyone's mind but that the association should be supported, as an effort to make this intention material, as well as moral, it was decided to have as many as possible attend the At-Home in Toronto.

Tickets for the event are 50 cents and are available from the committee and others. Anyone intending to go should leave word with F. W. Duncan, if they are taking their own car and have room for more, or for any person not having any means of transportation, which will be arranged.

Come on, folk. Let's all go to Toronto next Monday night and show the Toronto people that we are alive and appreciate their efforts and int-

It is that the Graf Spee was sent out as a raider ten days before the war started, and at that time Sir Neville Henderson, British Ambassador to Berlin, was pressing for a peaceful solution of the difficulties.

Won Art Award

Miss Janet Campbell of Swinton Park, a Grade X pupil in Flesherton High School, has real talent in art and her work has won a prize in the Provincial art contest conducted this winter through the Ontario School Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association. Nine prizes were awarded in the contest for art work done in the classroom by Grade X pupils. Miss Alice Heard is the teacher of art in the high school. Mr. M. A. Campbell, secretary-treasurer of the above Association, wrote Janet as follows:

"Enclosed you will find one dollar as a prize in the Provincial Art Contest.

Your work was very favorably commented on by the judges and I trust that you may continue on in the work of art and that it may prove valuable to you, either as a pastime activity or in a commercial sphere."

Thursday Half Holiday

Flesherton Thursday half holidays commence this year on the first Thursday in May, which is the 2nd. The half holiday will continue until the end of October. In order to serve the farming community the village stores will remain open every Wednesday night throughout the summer, when special attractions will be presented by the merchants, similar to those conducted last year, notice of which will be given in a later issue.

Flesherton merchants value your trade and they stock a variety of merchandise of the highest quality and at prices as low as can be found anywhere else with quality taken into consideration.

St. Columba United Church

The W.A. and W.M.S. met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. C. Harrison for the April meeting, 11 being present. The treasurer was instructed to pay the account of J. Turner for paper hanging at the manse, and a sum was also voted to the church treasurer. Mrs. J. C. Harrison, Anna Shortreed and Mrs. A. R. Muir were named a committee to meet St. Andrew's W.A. for joint catering to the District Women's Institute, which meets here in May. Miss Shortreed gave the study book chapter on the medical work in India, and it was decided to have the W.M.S. quilting on May 7 in the church basement. Silent prayer was offered for the mourners, and the W.M.S. president, Mrs. E. G. Ritchie, referred feelingly to the great loss sustained by the Societies in the recent passing of Mrs. H. B. McLean, paying tribute to her regular and faithful attendance and willingness to help at all times. Sadie Oliver and Mrs. Gary Whyte assisted the hostess with lunch. The May meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Thos. Harrison Jr.

The Y.P.S. was withdrawn Thursday evening.

Services were resumed on Sunday afternoon at Salem church after an interval of four Sundays without church, owing to stormy weather and soft roads, and one Sunday Rev. A. R. Muir was ill.

VOLUNTARY HEALTH SERVICES

(By Saugeen Folk School Committee)

"The present system of medical services in Ontario is worn out. The doctors are tired of it, with the exception of a few high paid specialists." This statement was made by a prominent local doctor recently. The people are equally as tired of it as the doctors and probably moreso. It is quite exident that there will be a change in the set-up before long. Other countries of the world are many years in advance of Canada now.

In the current of changing events, we must now decide if we will permit rural medical practice to drift on and suffer the fate that threatens capitalistic business, to collapse and pass into the hands of government as it has in some countries, such as Germany and Russia. Do we want it to become the play-toy of our political parties? State medicine, even with all its deficiencies, offers advantages over the present, private competitive practice, and there is every evidence that it will continue to expand, unless the people prefer and perfect the voluntary, private, non-political practice of medicine by co-operative organization.

The co-operative method gives service to the consumer at cost. It is entirely democratic, since the people who buy the service have the controlling power. The Co-operative Health Association is formed by a number of families paying a set fee annually in advance, to cover the expense of any medical service which they might require during the year. In this way the people who are well are helping those who are sick and at the same time their risk is being carried by the Association. Such a system is entirely voluntary, non-political and wholly in the field of private business, but business for service and not for profit.

At the present time the doctor's living depends upon the people becoming sick, but under the co-operative method, it would be the duty of the doctor to prevent sickness as much as possible. A certain doctor may be engaged by the Association and put on salary, or the members of the Co-operative Health Association may elect to have free choice of doctor.

In the United States 38% of the population receive no medical treatment when they are incapacitated by disease, and yet an average of $30.00 per person a year is paid for medical services of all kinds. This means an average of $120.00 per family. The Ann Arbour, Michigan, C. H. A., gives medical service to its members for $30 per family per year. This shows what can be accomplished by co-operation. Co-operative organizations should include hospitalization as soon as they are in a position to do so. For example, at Elk City, Oklahoma, the C. H. A. sold stock at $50 a share to raise capital to build a hospital. Medical service is given to members for $25 per year for a family of not more than four. This supplies periodical medical examinations, medical care, surgical operations and dental care. Room, board and nursing in the hospital are supplied at $1.00 per day.

Prepayment of medical service makes budgeting possible. The patient knows just how much his doctor is going to cost a year in advance and is freed from the threat of meeting the expense of an unforseen sickness.

No health co-operative will develop unless some individual or group takes the initiative.

Each for all, and all for each,
It's a way of life worth while,
It gives to all the joys of life
And gives them with a smile.
To every man his brother gives
A loyal helping hand,
That love and thought for fellow man
May glorify our land.

Rivers High For Trout Fishing

Speckled trout fishing for Ontario opens Saturday of this week, April 27. The season usually commences May 1st, but the Department of Game and Fisheries this year decided to give the fishermen an extra week end by advancing the date four days. It is not expected that the rivers will be ready to receive the influx of fishermen as they are very high at the present time from the spring rains and in many places are overflowing the banks. The Hydro lake has been very low this winter, only the river flowing underneath the bridge on the 8th line, where so many large fish have been captured in recent years, and where the the water is about ten feet deep. By this Saturday the water will have risen sufficiently (we hope) to make fishing reasonably successful at that point. There are places, though, where small trout have been placed in recent years that should give up some of their finny beauties.

An Owen Sound firm is again ronducting the fishing competition in Grey and Bruce counties, open to adults and children, and it is hoped that this district will again produce the winning speckled trout, as it has done so many times in the past, but prospects are none too hopeful.

Presentation To Soldier

A very pleasant event was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Porteous, 8th line, Osprey, on Saturday evening, in honor of Cpl. H. G. Bates, formerly of London. Herb spent a couple of seasons assisting Mr. Joe Porteous and was highly regarded by all who knew him. He was presented with a wrist watch by his friends.

Herb joined the 1st Hussars in London on September 5th last, and was transferred to Toronto, where he is now with the Royal Canadian Regiment. He expects to leave Toronto shortly. Following is the address, read by Ben Hanley:

Dear Herb:- We, your friends of the 8th line, Artemesia and Osprey, take this opportunity of your presence with us on your short leave from military duty, to gather here this exening to show you, in a small way, our appreciation of your courageous stand to go and do your duty on the battlefield, to help maintain our freedom of life. May God be with you and may you return, unharmed, to us again and be able to resume natural life.

We beg of you to accept this gift, as a token of remembrance of your many friends here.

Signed on behalf of your sincere friends,

Joe Porteous,
Bill Hanley,
Albert Williams.

Herb was completely taken by surprise and thanked all for the gift. The National Anthem and "God with you 'till we meet again," brought the happy evening to an end.

"Bell" Anniversary

Monday, April 29th next, will be the 60th anniversary of the founding of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada.

Although the original intention of the company's founders was to serve all Canada, the problem of adequate capital in due time made it expedient to limit the Company's field to the two central provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

From an enterprise requiring a total investment of little more than $400,000, serving about 2,100 subscribers, the Company has grown until today its total assets are about $247,000,000, and it serves some 785,000 telephones.

To Bell subscribers the continuous results of scientific research carried on by Bell Telephone Laboratories have been able to avail almost from the begining. One notable result has been that Canadians use the telephone more than the people in any other land. Nowhere else does the user get more in service for what he pays than in Ontario and Quebec.

There are some 3,600,000 miles of wire owned by the Bell Telephone Co. An airplane plying constantly at 100 miles per hour — day and night — would take more than four years to travel this distant.
