8TH LINE OSPREY

Miss Edith Sayers spent last week end with her friend, Miss Lois Williams here.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Saigeon and family spent the week end with the former's father here, who accompanied them back to Hanover, where he will remain. Mr. Saigeon has won the hearts of all with whom he came in contact here, and we are sorry, indeed, to lose such a splendid neighbor.

Our Farm Radio Forum meetings are continuing to be a splendid success. Recently we had two debates: one resolved "that the old method of farming is superior to the new," was taken by Messrs. Kendall Hawkins and Merle Roberts and Mrs. J. Ottewell, who ably upheld the affirmative, but were defeated by Mr. Geo. Lanktree, Mr. D. Stephens and Mrs. J. Crawford. The second debate was resolved "that the municipal doctor system is better than the present system." Mr. Kilbourne Hawkins and Mrs. Geo. Lanktree took the affirmative side and were opposed by Miss Dolly Ottewell and Mr. Lloyd Stephens. In the opinion of the judges, Mrs. Geo. Lawlor, Mrs. H. Fenwick and Mr. Fred Hale. The affirmative won by a very small margin. The attendance at our meetings is steadily increasing and visitors are always welcome.

HOLDFAST U. F. W. O.

Miss Nellie Mcean was hostess to the March meeting of the Holdfast Club, and despite the bad roads and weather there was a very interesting meeting with 10 members present. The meeting opened with the singing "Men of the Soil" and repeating the "Creed" in unison. A letter was read from the Salvation Army thanking the Club for the bale they had sent for overseas. The roll call was answered by "How we make our head save our heels." Mrs. Dan Campbell gave the topic on the importance and value of co-operation. A Scotch contest was put on by Mrs. McWilliam, Mrs. Dan Campbell and Mrs. (Dr.) Campbell being the winners. Everyone enjoyed the geography match led by Mrs. D. Campbell and Mrs. (Dr.) Campbell. The latter's side won. General business was discussed and the war work being done was reviewed Ceylon and Stone's Line made 32 quilts in the past five weeks. The National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bradey Irwin on April 8th.

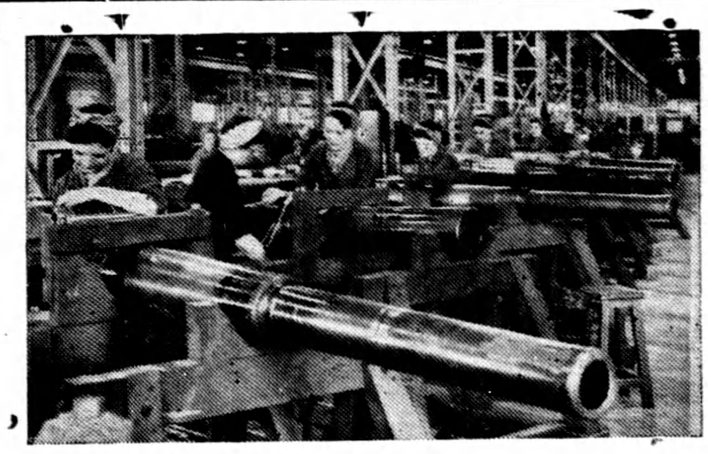
British Merchant Navy Men as Gunners

British merchant seamen, wearing overalls and armlets, are being taught by an instructor from the Royal Navy how to use the American Marlin machine gun. This practical experience on the training ground follows their completion of the course on theory.

British Tanks on Parade for Britain's King

Rows of British tanks, stretching far into the horizon — but only a fraction of the British Army's armored power. They are powerful "Valentine" Mark III. "L" infantry tanks belonging to one armored division of the British Eastern Command, and are photographed drawn up on parade for an inspection by His Majesty King George VI.



British Women Make Guns

A new photograph taken at a British Ordnance factory where women workers contribute much to its ever increasing output. In the final assembly bay at this factory, which is turning out large numbers of guns, overalled girls are seen at work upon gun barrels.
