VANDELEUR

(Intended for aLst Week)

Mrs. Lundy Johnston was hostess to the W. A. for the March meeting on Wednesday afternoon of last week Mrs. Geo. Buchanan, presiding. The roll call was answered by verse with spirit. Mrs. Ethel Hutchinson gave an inspiring paper on "God's will regarding our Duties". A flower contest conducted by Mrs. Will Johnston was won by Mrs. Fitzsimmons.

Luncheon was served by the hostess, Mrs. Lundy Johnston, assisted by Mrs. Fitzimmons and Mrs. Buchanan.

The Easter meeting will be held on April 1st, at the home of Mrs. Ethel Hutchinson.

The Farm Radio Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Harbottle on Monday evening of last week with a good attendance. Following the broadcast there was an exceptionally spirited discussion on the subject for the evening, "Selling Together". An article on the Municipal Doctor System, was read by Miss Dawn and after some discussion the following resolution was passed: "Whereas we understand from an article which has just been read, that the Dept. of Education will defray 30 per cent of the cost of full dental care of all the children in the public schools, be it resolved that we request our local School Board to look into the matter'. The meeting voted in favour of having the meeting each month during the summer. Announcement of the convention in Toronto and several other articles were read by the Secy.,

The convenor for the evening, Miss Dawn put on an interesting contest. This was followed by a half hour of crokinole, ets., during which Howard Graham entertained on the mouth organ. Lunch was served by the hostess. Mrs. Andy Fawcett occupied the chair. The meeting this week is at the home of Mrs. E. Hutchinson.

Mr. Jos. Buchanan is visiting with his son, W. R. Buchanan in Kimberley.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy McMullen have moved from the valley and are occupying the former H. Baker farm on the 12th Line.

Two Red Cross quiltings were held last week under the auspices of the W. I. at the homes ofMrs. E. Hutchinson and Mrs. Howard Graham.

It was with regret that the people of this community learned of the death of Mrs. Gilbert, widow of the late Samuel Gilbert, and for many years a resident of this community, who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Amos Smith in Meaford on Saturday, March 7th. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon. The remains being placed in the vault in Meaford Cemetery to await spring when interment will be made in the family plot in Vandeleur Cemetery.

During her long residence here she took a keen interest in the welfare of the community, specially the Women's Institute of which she was President for a number of years.

The sympathy of the neighbourhood goes out to the two daughters, Mrs. Smith of Meaford and Mrs. Garner of Toronto and the other relatives in their hour of sorrow.

The Late John W. Priestley

The funeral of the late John Wallace Priestley, who died suddenly at his home at Maxwell on Saturday evening, March 17th, was held on Wednesday afternoon of last week, March 11th. Service was conducted in St. Mary's Anglican Church, Rev. E. M. Caldwell of Dundalk officiating. Interment was made in the Maxwell Cemetery.

The pallbearers were: Messrs. G. Morrison, Chas. Brodie, Sam Grummett, Jack Heslip, Elmer Meredith and Jos. Wright.

The many floral tributes showed the high esteem in which the friends and relatives held the deceased, among them being a spray from the Dundalk Creamery, with which he had been employed.

Those from a distance who attended the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Priestley and Julia, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Holdsworth, Mrs. E. Levecque and Lawrence, Miss Reta Hollingsworth, Mrs. E. Hallwell, Miss Margaret Tozer and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Morrison, all of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Cameron and Miss Mae Linley, Owen Sound; Mr. and Mrs. Garfield McLeod, Dundalk; Mr. R. J. Morrison, Walkerton; Miss Tena McLeod, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Dobson and Mr. and Mrs. Angus Dobson, Thornbury; Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Dobson, Kimberley; Mrs. Delany, Mrs. A. Guvette, Mr. Dave Armstrong and Jack McLeod, Meaford; Mrs. Wm. Bristow, Mr. and Mrs. Hastings and Betty, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Bristow, all of Collingwood.

The late Mr. Priestley was highly respected citizen, and highly regarded by a wide circle of friends. He was 43 years of age and had been ailing for the past two years, but of late was much improved in health. He had been a resident of Dundalk for the past 10 years and last fall purchased a farm at Maxwell, where he passed away. His death was due to a heart attack at his home, shortly after returning home from visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Priestley, of Maxwell village.

The late Mr. Priestley was united in marriage 12 years ago to Sadie McLeod, who now survives to mourn his passing. He also leaves, besides his aged parents, three brothers and three sisters, namely: Alan of Fort William, Robert of Toronto, George at Maxwell, Lillian (Mrs. Lou. Kerton) of Maxwell, Pearl (Mrs. Geo. Long) of Maxwell and Anne (Mrs. Chester Cameron) of Owen Sound.

Rugged individualism is fine in the piping days of peace. In war only co-operation wins.

Britain's New Fighter-Bomber Hurricanes

British Huricane fighter aircraft, now specially equipped to carry bombs, swoop to attack airdromes and munition trains from only a few feet above the ground, their low flying level making interception impossible. "Hurri-bombers" are being used successfully against enemy shipping, airdromes, bases and upply trains both in occupied France and Libya, the reduction in weight after dropping their bombs enabling them to cope immediately as fighters with an aerial opposition they may encounter.

Gasoline rationing will come into effect on April 1st and this should, from early indications, mean a definite stimulation to business in the small community. The restrictions in the sale of gasoline and tires will automatically mean that people will not do so much travelling and they will be forced to stay at home. This may be the dawn of a new era for the small-town merchant and he should be preparing for it now. Those who have been accustomed to trading in city stores will probably not be able to obtain the same variety and merchants should see that they have the best merchandise possible to offer in every line. No one cares to do business in a store which is not clean and bright and displays obsolete merchandise. This new situation is a challenge to the small town merchant who, for years during more prosperous times, has been complaining about the loss of business to city shops. If exhorbitant prices are charged, the customer will save sufficient gasoline to make an occasional trip to those city shops which he may have been patronizing for years. We have constantly supported the local merchant, but sometimes we are inclined to think it is due to his own carelessness that his business has slipped away from him. This is his opportunity to recoup much of the trade which has been diverted through other channels. He should plan now to take care of this potential business.

Away back in the days when motor cars were freaks and a train trip was a memorable event, when highways were non-existent and roads were chiefly composed of pitch holes and ruts, the small town had a life unto itself. Villagers traded at their own stores, patronized amateur concerts and took a healthy interest in the natural pleasures of the place and its surroundings.

Then came the automobile, following in rapid succession by new highways, buses and improved rail service. City chain stores, particularly those in the grocery line, took a grip on the small town trade and distances to the city were shortened and smoothed. The village found itself slipping into the background, its people making more and more trips to the city.

Within a year there may be very few cars on the road. Tires will be rationed only to those in the preferred classes. People will be forced to restrict travel to the emergency level. Stores and amusement spots will have to be patronized at home. There won't be any excuse for visiting the city.

The result should be a better era for the small town, but if merchants are wise they will see that their stocks are adequate to take care of the needs of the townsfolk and farmers in the vicinity. The small-town merchant will welcome this business, but he must be prepared to give greatly improved service.

Incidentally, merchants in the cities are not going to surrender this trade without a fight. The city papers will still bring their advertising message into this community and they are going to use every method they can to hold that trade. Preaching the doctrine of "Trade At Home" isn't enough. You've got to show them why trading at home means money in their pockets. This car and tire crisis offers you a new opportunity.—Tweed News.

Wiping rags are in great demand for munitions production. Canada was compelled to import rags to the value of $3,800,000 in 1940, while at the same time thousands of householders all over the country were throwing rags into the garbage or the furnace.
