

Public's views on cell towers sought

Kathy Gastle asked if the town would oppose towers in historical downtown areas, rural clusters and hamlets.

"To me it doesn't make sense to add an ugly cell tower. Can't you just say no," said Gastle.

"We discourage them on historical buildings," said Patzer. "Something with great historical significance the town would not support it."

"You can discourage it, but Industry Canada has the final say," said area resident Harry Brander. "We should be lobbying the government to change that."

Elaine Nikolic said the protocol should include setback limits for towers and added the 120-metre mail circulation distance about a proposed tower in settlement areas should be expanded to the 300 metres applied to rural areas.

"We want a fair process that everyone has a say," said Nikolic. "I don't think 120 metres is going to do the trick."

Additional information on the Telecommunications Protocol Review can be found on the Town's website at www.haltonhills.ca/initiatives/telecommunicationtower.php or by contacting Patzer at 905-873-2601 ext. 2252, email kellyp@haltonhills.ca. Comments can be emailed to Patzer. The deadline for comments is Oct. 31.
