Six Out of Nine Voters Silent

Much has been written about one-third of the people voting for one old party and another third voted for another old party. That is approximately true of the people who voted, but do not forget that about two-thirds of the people did not bother to vote. In reality, one out of nine voted for socialism, and two out of nine voted for the old parties, while six out of nine were silent, not caring or not worrying. Not only is the Ontario Government a minority government, but the whole Ontario Legislature is a minority Legislature, it only represents three out of every nine voters have no representation. It is not a healthy state when six out of every nine people are not sufficiently interested to go to the polls.
