SPINNING KNIVES CUT MAN'S FOOT SEVERELY

Badly cut when he dropped on the sharp knives of a straw cutter while threshing, Howard Riddall, 27, of Hopeville was taken to Lord Dufferin Hospital at Orangeville suffering severe lacerations to his feet and hands. It may be necessary to amputate his right foot, hospital authorities say.

The accident occurred when Riddall jumped from a beam to the table of the machine, which was running at the time. The table broke and dropped him onto the fast-revolving knives. The drive belt was thrown, which undoubtedly saved his life. The machine had to be partially dismantled before he was removed. Riddall had only been married about a year.

NELSON'S SHIP HIT BY HUNS

A gaping hole such as she never knew while flagship of Lord Nelson's fleet is the proud scar of H.M.S. Victory bears as proof that she shared in the war against Hitler as imperturbally as she did in the wars against Napoleon.

The Victory, a museum piece in Portsmouth docks, was bombed one night when German raiders attacked that town. A near-miss blew away a large part of her under-bow and blasted great chunks of debris onto her decks.

But the trim ship scarcely did more than shudder under the impact, and still tsands upright on trestles built to keep her out of the water. The hole remains, and probably will remain after te war, as an addition to her tourist lure.

Few visitors tread the Victory's decks these days, for dockyards are no longer open to the public. But those who can come, get a tour such as no peacetime tourist ever received.

"The Jerries may thing Nelson and his Victory have no part of this war," said a visitor. "I wonder."

A gossip is a person who drifts along with the current—with the current rumor.

He was a strict teetotaller, but unfortunately had a very red nose. One day a customer said to him, "I say, old man, what is wrong with your nose?" "Nothing at all," replied the red-nosed one. "It is simply blushing with pride because it does not stick itself into other people's affairs."
