Mrs. H. C. Radley Passes

Mrs. Harmon C. Radley passed away at her home on the east backline, Artemesia on Friday of last week, March 17, after a lengthy illness. She had been bedfast for the past year and a half. During her long illness of some three years, she was always in the best of spirits.

The late Mrs. Radley was formerly Christina Sullivan and was born almost 70 years ago. She was married to Mr. Harmon C. Radley and resided here for many years, later moving to Toronto and returning to the farm one and a quarter miles east of Flesherton. Mr. Radley predeceased her by ten years. She was an adherent of the Baptist Church and was held in the highest esteem by all who knew her. A guest in her home was always received with graciousness and given a warm welcome by Mrs. Radley. She was a fine neighbor in time of need.

Surviving to mourn are one son and two daughters: Joseph, on the home farm, Ruby (Mrs. S. Stauffer) of Flesherton and Pearl, at home, who nursed her mother with unfailing attentiveness. She also leaves two grandchildren.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Radley was held on Monday afternoon, March 20th, with service at her late residence, conducted by Mr. F. B. Keys, pastor of the Baptist Church in Flesherton. Interment was made Flesherton Cemetery.

The pallbearers were: Messrs. Jos. and Edward Stinson, Mervin Wright, J. O. Dargavel, Lewis Pedlar and Robt. Thompson.

Ontario plans increased subsidy on beets. Sugar for the farmer.

If they really want a new name for this war it should be the Bonus War.

PAPER DID NOT QUIT

That progressive communities want their own hometown newspapers was graphically shown when the 46-year-old Higgins (Texas) News suspended for the duration — or at least the publisher thought it did.

But the townsfolk had another idea and six weeks after the paper folded up the plant was back in operation and the News was again going on its former rounds. This was due to the pressure put on by local businessmen and readers.

Said the eidtor, Ed. W. Coulson: "The early resumption of the News resulted from recognition by the businessmen of Higgins that the hometown paper plays a big part in leading the spirit and enthusiasm that welds the people in a common cause."—Richford Journal.

The Hun always loved his stomach and it may well be that the Achilles heel of the Teuton will prove to be his food shortages.
