SOME RECOMMENDATIONS ON THE CARE OF CUT FLOWERS

1. In garden flowers which are prolific bloomers, constant cutting promotes a constant succession of bloom.
2. The best time to cut flowers in the outdoor garden is in the early morning.
3. Flowers cut in the bud stage, or just before opening, will last the longest.
4. When gathering the flowers use a sharp knife and make a long slanting cut.
5. Remove the leaves which happen to be immersed in the water.
7. Remove the anthers from large flowers, if you do not object to the unnatural appearance.
8. Leave the flowers in a deep container filled with water in a cool room for a few hours before bringing them into the living room.
9. Keep the air of the room in which the flowers are used as decoration as cool and moist as is consistent with comfort.
10. Do not allow bright sunlight to shine upon the flowers.
11. Try to prevent the escape of any illuminating gas or coal gas into the room where the flowers are kept.
12. Do not add any salt to the water in which the flowers are kept.
13. Remove the flowers to a cool place at night.
14. Cut the flowers a little above their ends (preferably under water) every few days or every day and replace the water in the container with a fresh supply.
