Move Being Made To Revive School Fairs

A movement is on foot to revive School Fairs in Grey County after being dormant for the past five years, and teachers, trustee boards and ratepayers are again being asked to get behind the movement after the Easter holidays and carry it back to its former success. It is believed that school fairs give the pupils, especially in the higher grades, an incentive to become interested in the practical side of production of vegetables, flowers or potatoes, as well as the selection of the product for competitive purposes, and the opportunities for comparison of one school's accomplishments in writing, art, manual training and domestic science have been entirely lacking. Also that it is good to encourage singing and public speaking, and it is pointed out that a Grey county entrant in the final public speaking contest in connection with the O.E.-A. was refused because there had been no process of elimination in the townships and county. Seeds are being delivered after the Easter holidays, provided by a grant from the county council. The school boards are to pay the prizes at the township fair. The school fair became quite an important thing in pre-war days, and it is now to be restored to its former position.
