KIMBERLEY

The W. I. met Tuesday afternoon in the School Park, where they entertained the Mill Creek W.I. The Mill Creek ladies provided the program, which consisted of a fine report of the recent branch meeting at Walter's Falls; a fine paper on mental health and also a paper by Mrs. W. Hewgal "Living a balanced life" which would bring about lasting peace to our war-torn world. Two songs given by a little girl were very much enjoyed, as also a guessing contest. We appreciated the splendid program. Kimberley W.I. provided lunch.

We extend our sincere sympathy to the families of Mr. Rufus Wickens, who passed away July 23. Mr. Wickens was 93 on February 25, 1145 and one of the earliest settlers of Beaver Valley and one of its finest. Even in his advanced years he had a remarkable memory. "Electric" Dew Worms

It's really "shocking" the way Wilfred Galbraith, local hardware merchant, gets his bait when he wants to go fishing. He has two metal posts wried to an electric plug. He sticks the posts in the ground about four feet apart and attaches the plug to a light socket. The fish-worms come to the surface as a result of the shock.

The system works day or night, Wilf informs the Herald, and in ten minutes' time he gets sufficient worms for the average fishing trip. — Dundalk Herald.
