VANDELEUR

The Farm Forum met on Monday evening, March 4th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Gilray with about 30 people present and discussed the question "What About Markets?" The Forum agreed that trade is a two-way affair, and the volume of our exports could be increased by "Increasing our imports," "Specializing in production of the goods we can produce most economically," and "Extending credit to foreign buyers."

We can prevent foreign competition from ruining the Canadian farmer by "More efficient methods of production and processing," international trade agreements to maintain world prices and increase consumption of food," and by "Producer and consumer co-operatives." The Forum was opposed to the principals of tariffs.

It was decided to conduct a campaign to have the cattle of the community treated for warble fly and a committee was appointed, composed of Geo. Shaw, Angus Bowles, Billie Johnston, Vernon Fawcett and Earl Morrison.

Geo. Shaw was chairman for the meeting and Mrs. W. Ratcliffe and Dora Boland were group secretaries. The next meeting will be at the home of F. R. Boland.

When fire destroyed the All-People's United Church and parsonage in Sudbury one night last week, two former residents of this place had a narrow escape. The pastor, Rev. W. L. Cullis, was born and raised in this community.

"Beaver Oats," a new variety developed from a cross of Vanard and Erban, and supposed to have rust resistant and other good qualities of both parents, are in keen demand for seed this season. Johnson Bros. were among the fortunate ones to secure a couple of bushels from a grower near Toronto.

Supporting The Farmer

To use a farmer's good figure of speech, an important straw in the wind revealing the full realization by city dwellers of the importance of agriculture in Canada's economy was a small but significent meeting held in Ottawa recently.

It was the weekly do of the YMCA Luncheon Discussion Club and the featured speaker was Dr. E. S. Archibald, Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Dr. Archibald pointed out that problems of production and marketing are being studied and solved in both the Canadian and international field by the Federal Department. Dr. Archibald showed how the federal set-up co-operates with the provincial Department of Agriculture and, more important still, has the whole-hearted co-operation of farmers themselves

Dr. Archibald's information on the real solution of Canada's agricultural problems showed that the professional and political agitators with their phoney solutions and snappy catch phrases are not the real friends of the farmer.

In the discussion which followed, the cross section of Ottawa's outstanding professional men, who attended the meeting, showed they were keenly aware of their dependence on the success and prosperity of the farmer, and showed they had a sharp sense of their responsibility towards him.

A Troubled Peace

Troubled conditions throughout the world continue. Riots and demonstrations, including loss of life, are occurring in India, Egypt, Manchuria and other eastern areas, while France closed the Spanish on Friday of last week and Franco closed the Spanish side of the border the day previous. The investigation at Ottawa into the actions of Canadians accused of supplying information to Russian is proceeding before Justices of the Supreme Court It is expected that there will be an official report of the findings as soon as possible.

FIRE BURNS BROODER HOUSE

Fire early Sunday morning destroyed the brooder house and 520 chickens on Kintail farm, owned by J. K. Crawford. Loss was estimated between four and five hundred dollars. The supposed cause was the leakage of oil from the stove, under which the blaze originated. In the building at the time, Geo. Williams, manager, threw the stove out of the doors, but was burned about the face. Had there been any oil on his clothing he stood slim chance of escape. With the aid of Donald Gillies, a neighbor, snow and water were used to protect the surrounding buildings until Aurora fire brigade arrived.—Aurora Banner.

Card of Thanks

Lost Diamond Found

To miss the diamond from her engagement ring, after having done the family washing and hung out the clothes, and to recover it again, was the unusual good fortune of Mrs. Lloyd Acheson here. Mrs. Acheson never expected to see the diamond again but, searching in the cellar where the washing had been done her eyes were attracted to the gem sparkling on the floor. "I was almost fraid to pick it up for fear it was only a piece of glass," she said, admitting she was "surely lucky".

Flesherton Won Hockey Game Played Friday

(By Kimberley Reporter)

Flesherton came back strong in a hockey game played Friday night, to avenge two previous Kimberley victories, by winning a rather one-sided contest 13-5. Flesherton iced a more powerful team than on either of the other occasions and proved too much for a weakened Kimberley squad. They had a slight edge in the first and third periods, outscoring Kimberley 3-2 and 3-1 respectively. In the second period they had things pretty much their own way, scoring seven goals to Kimberley's two.

Rather ragged defensive play by Kimberley was responsible for several Flesherton goals and the boys will have to tighten up there in the future. Gordon Chard scored all five goals for the losers.

Weather and ice conditions permitting, another game between these two teams will take place in Flesherton this Friday evening.

Flesherton: goal, Banks; defence, Turney, H. Best; forwards, Teeter, R. Best and Henry; alternates, M. Piper, McKillop Dargavel, Thurston, Bannon, McTavish.

Kimberley: goal, Morwood, defence, Hodgkinson, R. Chard; forwards, Lawrence, K. Chard and G. Chard; alternates, Gibson and Ellis.

Referee: W. Best, Flesherton.

Here's An Honest Bank Customer

It happened years ago in a bank in Saskatoon. A customer came in, put his bank book on the counter and said laconically: "Closing account, leaving town." The teller looked at the bank book, $2,000 credit. He checked the amount, it was correct. He counted out the money. The customer rolled it in a piece of brown wrapping paper carried for the purpose, put an elastic band around it and walked out.

That night the teller was out $2,000 in his balance—where was it? He must have paid out in twenties not tens to the man who had closed his account and left town. Nobody saw him go. There was no clue, he had paid his debts and left for parts unknown. The bank sent circulars to other banks in Western Canada.

Two weeks later a man walked into a Winnipeg branch of the same bank laid a roll on the counter and said: "I want to open an account, $2000." The teller looked at the man and asked him where he came from. "Saskatoon," was the reply. He counted the money. "There is," said the teller, "$4000 not $2000." The customer looked at him. "Not mine," was the answer, "you keep it."

The manager now came on the scene. The new customer was invited into the manager's office for a friendly chat. This was a customer worth knowing. "Why did you not count the money when you closed your account?" said the manager. "I do business with your bank nine years—you never cheated me, why you start now to cheat yourself." He was a Chinese.
