THE PROVINCE OF PROMISE...

ONTARIO, in a geographical sense only, may be said to be sharply divided . . . a natural division into north country and south country that emphasises the province's variety of climate—of industry—of character. Northward, Ontario extends to the semi-arctic region of Hudson Bay . . . Southward, to the semi-tropic fruit belt of the Niagara Peninsula . . . "The Garden of Canada" . . . a blossom land overflowing with nature's gifts, where peaches, plums, pears, grapes and cherries come richly in their seasons. Fruit farming is but one of the untold opportunities offered by the four hundred thousand square miles, and more, that are Ontario . . . a veritable empire of resources.

in the Province of Ontario centres in the rich Niagara district which produces 91% of the province's total yield.

When the Ontario fruit belt's two million peach trees, seven million grape vines and hundreds of thousands of other fruit trees bear their abundance, armies of workers are on hand to gather it.
