A SICKLE might do well enough on a very small experimental plot, but for real farming efficiency you want something more adequate to do the job. And when you wire your farm you are definitely on the road to farming efficiency. How much power you will be able to use with economy and satisfaction will depend on how completely your farm is wired. Make your wiring installation adequate from the start for all immediate and future needs. You'll save money that way, and avoid costly and irritating delays.

No matter how little electric equipment you start with—even if it is only lights in the house and barn—you will soon want to add some of the labor-saving, money-saving electric devices for barn, tool house, home, dairy, and almost everywhere else. You will want these things not just because they make living more attractive, but because they really make money for you. Of course you will have to have enough wiring to supply enough power where and when you want it.

The economical time to wire adequately is the first time you wire.

Ask any experienced electrical contractor or your Hydro rural superintendent for advice as to the best way to wire your farm.

Hello Homemakers! We frequently slur over the word 'sparagus when we should say, Aye, it's asparagus. Aspargus heads the list of our fresh vegetables. Its tender stalks shoot up every morning as if to remind us to use them often while the season lasts We should too. Although it's good as a fresh-boiled vegetable, there are variations to make asparagus a treat every day for a month. Cream sauces with different additions each time are the best toppings . . . grated cheese, hardcooked eggs, parsley, nuts, mushrooms, are some suggestions. And the way in which this good food is served makes a difference—soup, casserole, timbales, etc.

CREAM ASPARAGUS SOUP

2 tbsps. baking fat, 3 tbsps. flour, 2 tsps. salt, pepper, 1 tbsp. grated onion, 3 cups milk (half milk and half asparagus liquid) 2 cups asparagus stalks, cooked.

Heat milk in double boiler; mix flour to a smooth paste and stir into hot milk. Stir in fat and seasonings and cook until sauce thickens (about 15 mins). Add 1½ cups of asparagus put through a sieve, fold in remaining ½ cup stalks and heat thoroughly. 6 servings.

ASPARAGUS AND EGG CASSEROLE

2 tbsps. baking fat, 3 tbsps. flour, ½ tsp. salt, pepper, 1½ cups milk, 3 hard-cooked eggs, 2½ cups cooked asparagus, bread crumbs.

Melt fat in saucepan, blend in flour and seasoning. Gradually stir in milk. Place a layer of cooked asparagus in bottom of greased casserole, pour over this part of cream sauce, add a layer of sliced eggs and repeat until casserole is full. Top with bread crumbs. Heat in electric oven of 350 degs. for 20 mins. 5 servings

TIMBALES OF ASPARAGUS

4 cups diced cooked ssparagus, 2 tbsps. butter, 2 tbsps. flour, ½ tsp. salt, ½ tsp. pepper, 1-4 tsp. onion juice, 2 egg whites beaten stiff.

Put asparagus through a sieve and add enough milk to make one pint. Make a sauce of butter, flour, salt, pepper and ½ cup asparagus liquid. Stir in the above puree. Fold in egg white, pour into greased moulds and steam 20 min's. — or oven poach. Serve with egg sauce.

TAKE A TIP

1. Cook a little grated onion with sliced carrots and just before serving add a tablespoon of orange juice.
2. Small cooked carrots may be dipped in beaten eggs, then in crushed cornflakes and browned in small amount of fat. Pieces of cooked parsnips respond well to this treatment too.
3. Salt and pepper are not the only vegetable seasonings. Try a dash of nutmeg with turnips, cloves with beets, a pinch of thyme or savory in a minced vegetable dish, mint with carrots or parsley with peas.
4. Some like to brown the sliced onion before adding it to the stock and it does give a richer flavor and color.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. A. E. S. says: That she uses one-third as much flour as sugar to make a cake frosting and finds the frosting is smoother than one made entirely of sugar.

Mrs. J. Mc. says: That her husband's favorite sandwich filling is made of thickened ieft-over stew put through the grinder. This is a hearty filling as a spread, using medium sliced bread.

RATION COUPON DUE DATES

Coupons now valid are sugar- preserves S1 to S14, butter R1 to R9, meat M29 to M38. The butter ration is now 5½ ounces per week.

There's just as much sense in worrying as there is in advising others not to.

No More Municipal Tax Sales

By a new act, passed by the Ont. Legislature at its last session, municipal tax sales will be a thing of the past. Under the new act the maximum opportunity will be given the owner to redeem his property.

By the new plan, lands on which taxes remain unpaid for three years are registered by the municipality which takes no further action for another year. If the taxpayer then finds himself able to pay up his taxes, or at any time before the town disposes of the land, he can recover it by paying back taxes and interest, plus a fee for changing the title.

Third parties and the expense of a tax sale are eliminated under the and all sales of property by the municipalities must be approved by the Ontario Municipal Board.

The new system has been in use in "supervised" municipalities and it is said to have many advantages—chief of which is to give the owner every reasonable chance of retaining his proporty.

Tax sales have been a feature of municipal life ever since the early days, and many good properties have picked up over the years by alert citizens who kept their eyes on the tax sale list. But the new plan looks like a good one if it will help hard-pressed taxpayers to make a come-back and regain ownership of their [illegible] property.
