Fails To Bite On Old Mexican Prison Game

one Kincardine business man has no intention of being hoaxed in 1946 version of the Spanish prisoner game which is making an attempted comeback. To him by mail came the other day a letter from a bankrupt Mexican banker offering to split $285,000 secret cache, as well as the gratitude of his 18-year-old daughter in exchange for financial assistance in recovering the lost money. The letter bearing the signature "Armando C. Laborde" says he is jailed for bankruptcy, but has $285,000 hidden in an old suitcase, which is now in police hands and can not be reclaimed without $9,000 cash, which the recipient of the letter is invited to bring in either travellers cheques or cash. Continuing, the letter explains that the writer is unable to get the money himself because he is in prison and names a prison guard as go-between for the transaction. — Kincardine News.

Mother (fondly watching her two-year-old): "He's been walking like that for a year."

Bored Visitor: "Amazing! Can't you make him sit down?"

"Sandy, I'm very sorry to see you like that."

"Ah, weel, it's a' for the good o' the cause," replied the delinquent, happily. "Ye see, meenister, it's through these subscriptions. I've been through the parish collectin' funds, and at every house they make me ha'e a wee drappie!"

"Every house? But surely, Sandy, some of my people are teetotallers?"

"Aye, some are, but I wrote to them."

Scandinavians are puzzled by strange, rocket-like objects flying through the air. Maybe some of those Swedish runners have become airborne.

A stout gentleman, determined to lose weight during a stay in the country, hustled to the general store for a pair of overalls. He picked out a pair big enough for energetic exercise. Then a thought struck him. "Wait a minute," he said to the clerk "those fit me now but I expect to lose a lot — maybe I had better buy a smaller pair."

The clerk shook his head, calmly went on wrapping the overalls.

"Mister, if you can shrink as fast as those overalls will, you'll be doing all right.

THE PROVINCE OF PROMISE...

Central ONTARIO'S rich pasture lands have, from the earliest days of settlement, sustained larger herds of dairy cattle than were necessary to the Province's own needs. In these 'earliest' days, which were not much more than a century ago, dairy production was exceedingly primitive, but the 1891 census disclosed the existence of 1,565 cheese factories in the Dominion, of which Ontario had 893. Today, this great showing is paralleled in every branch of Canada's dairying industry . . . Tomorrow, the Province's facilities will be more than equal to the demand for milk and its growing diversity of products.

A CORNER ON CONES

Nearly six billion pounds of milk are consumed or processed annually in Ontario; the yearly value of Ontario dairy products runs around $140,000,000; Ontario butter and cheese production is about 200,000,000 pounds a year. The chief credit for these fat figures, which are about one-third of the totals for the entire Dominion, goes to Ontario's 1,200,000 milk cows — themselves a third of Canada's dairy herds. The Province's 8,000,000 gallons of ice cream, however, amount annually to 50% of the nation's 'sundae-best'—which may explain the noticeable cone-consciousness of young Ontarians.
