"BACK TO THE LAND" MOVEMENT GROWING

(Durham Chronicle)

According to L. E. O'Neill, commissioner of livestock, Ontario Department of Agriculture, there are many people in Ontario who want to go back to the farm, largely because of the pleasures of country life.

Mr. O'Neill goes on to say in an address to the Ontario Aberdeen Angus Breeders' Assoc., that "these people have money but they have not the knowledge of blood lines and breeding technique; money is not their objective. Their objective is the pleasures of country life."

Some farmers may snicker at this, but it's the truth. It's just another of those cases where a fellow looks too much at his own job, seeing it in its poorest light, and reviewing the job of the other fellow through rose-colored eyeglasses.

Despit the alleged loneliness of the average farm life, there's nothing any lonelier than the big city and even the smaller towns, once one's day's work is done. True, there may be dance halls and picture shows, but these pall in time, and outside of these places there is no interesting place to go.

People can talk all they like about life on the farm, but it's no more monotonous than any other place. It is quite true that some people should not be farming; it is also true, as in any other business, that nobody should go into farming without some capital behind him. This is one of these "modern" requirements; 40 years ago one with experience and know-how could go into business on a shoe-string, but not today.

Life on the old farm may not be as pleasant as a lot of these city fellows think it is, but it's not as bad as many farmers think it is. At that it's not the fault of the farm, but the way one looks at it. Nothing looks good to the person who has worried himself dissatisfied and refuses to look on the brighter side. The horses, the cattle, the pigs and the rest of them are not too hard to get along with. Treat them right and they'll respond in kind. Try this same treatment on humans and see how many times they'll respond by trying to "hook" you.

Sex equality — Give me equal rights with men — then, give me special privileges as a woman.

In thinking of world conditions, do not let your historical background be swept away by shallow propaganda.

Hello Homemakers! The true griddlecake lover enjoys eating them in the kitchen — when he can. He sits at a white kitchen table, flanked by a deep-lipped pitcher filled with rich looking syrup and other essentials for a perfect griddlecake meal. Same citrus fruit, spiced sausages and coffee are the only other foods needed apart from the griddlecakes ingredents. There he sits, and as the lace-edged pancakes or patterned waffles are baked and come off the iron, he eats his fill. That is a profile of the true and ardent griddlecake fan.

Barring the priviledges I told you of, let us hope the electric waffle iron is set upon the dining room table. Because "hot off the griddle" is the best quality waffle.

WAFFLES

2 cups sifted cake flour, 2 eggs separated, ¼ tsp. salt, 3 tsps. baking powder, 1¼ cups milk, 6 tbsps. melted shortening.

Using electric mixer, beat whole eggs 1 min. using high speed. Add the milk and beat for 1 min. Add the sifted dry ingredients. Add melted shortening and beat for 15 sec. at high speed or until the mixtere is thoroughly blended. Makes 8 or 10.

GINGERBREAD WAFFLES

½ cup shortening, 1-2 cup of boiling water, ½ cup molasses, ⅓ cup sugar, 1 egg, slightly beaten, 1 cup flour, ¼ tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. soda, ½ tsp. baking powder, 1 tsp. ginger, ½tsp. cinnamon, ¼ tsp. cloves.

Place shortening in a mixing bowl and pour boiling water over it. Add molasses, sugar and egg. Stir in flour, sifted with salt, soda baking powder and spice. Cook mixture in hot waffle iron. Serve with syrup or cottage cheese. Makes 3 or 4.

SOUTHERN PANCAKES

1 cup buttermilk, ½ cup sweet milk, 1 egg, well beaten, 1 tsp. soda, ½ tsp. salt, 1 tbsp. melted fat, 2 tbsps. cornmeal, 2 cups flour.

Mix ingredients in order given. Bake in electric waffle iron or sizzling hot greased griddle pan. When bubbles form, turn and brown on the other side. Serve with sausages — or with fruit for dessert. Makes 10 or 12.

ORANGE PANCAKES

1½ cups prepared pancake flour, 1½ to 2 tbsps. grated orange rind, few gratings nutmeg, 1 tbsp. sugar (optional), 1½ cups milk or water.

To pancake flour, add orange rind, nutmeg and sugar. Add liquid, stir until batter is smooth. Turn into a pitcher. Fry as directed for pancakes. Serve hot with butter and honey. Makes 8.

TAKE A TIP

1. Use a scant measurement of salt with flour for this batter mixture.
2. Use salt-free fat to grease griddles and waffle irons since salt causes mixtures to stick to metal. Melt fat and skim off a small amount from the top to use. Pork fat is better than butter, as the latter burns easily.
3. When electric waffle iron is preheated to make, it is ready to use. Heat griddle pan until it is hot but never smoking before pouring in the batter.
4. Pour batter from a pitcher about ⅓ cup at a time. Do not batter. Allow about 10 to 12 mins on each side to brown — when bubbles begin to form in pancakes it is time to turn and when steam stops coming forth from side of waffle iron it is time to lift out.
5. Stack pancakes and waffles on end to prevent sogginess. Serve hot plates.

BABY CHICKS TAKE TOBOGGAN RIDE AT MEAFORD

(Meafird Express)

Right in the middle if the blockade following Thursday's upheaval by the weatherman two weeks ago, one thousand little balls of fluff of the Light Sussex variety arrived in Meaford for Messrs. Frank and Wilbert Crosskill. This called for quick action. Little chicks must be fed and warmed after their journey from the hatchery. Messrs. Crosskill met the situation by insulating a box big enough to house the brood and placing it on a toboggan for the three mile trek into town. Neighbors joined in to assist in the crisis and eight men formed a small caravan which pushed and pulled the lively load to its new home. Kept cosy and warm by foot-warmers, the chicks were none the forse for the experience and are now in a thriving way to beicming choice early broilers and fryers.

When your nerves are on edge you are usually too blunt for your own good.
