EDITORIAL

One of the most popular subjects discussed nowadays, aside from the weather in the future. One of the most unfortunate tendencies in this connection is the human weakness of spending most of today planning for tomorrow, or, if we happen to be very mature, wishing it was yesterday again. It all boils down to the fact that the more we worry about the future or dream about the past, the less enjoyment we get out of today. Now, I think that is a truism, isn't it? I know that the lad starting out on an afternoon's hookey and the girl who is getting the highest marks in her class for the first time, will tell you that it is, anyway. How about taking a tip from us kids here in old F.H.S. and make the most out of today for a change, eh?

GRADE 10

Are you planning on any more of those Saturday nights in the Pontiac, Erma? Did you have fun, Carman?

We wonder what Gayle does on the week ends when a certain hydro employee is home. We don't see much of you, Gayle.

What's wrong, Turvey? Were the teachers too hard on you?

We should take up a collection to buy Drew some hair oil. How about it?

When Allen has the bike he enjoys waiting for Mable. Watch out, Bruce, or do you really care?

Marybelle has quite a crush on a certain boy called Ken.

Richardson seems to enjoy History class. Tell us why, so that we can enjoys it too!

Johnston is still continuing his holidays in Math. period.

When Keith went to visit Mabel he was greeted with the rolling pin.

Kaye seems to be catching the eye of Holmes.

Ham's really going to extremes How about it Irene?

GRADE 11

Irene was all smiles this week because she spent last week end at Leaside. I wonder why?

The telephone lines from Dundalk to Flesherton have been busy this week because a certain third form student has a great intrest there.

Our fishermen are back after a holiday on Thursday we don't know the first, but we do the stories.

Joan is quite happy now because Pop has a car. You'd better watch Wilma, Joan.

You should see the look in Magee's eyes when Miss. MacDougal is at hand.

We wish Eleanor good luck when she goes to Kitchener. Take care Eleanor not to snap up a guy with red hair black goes better with red hair. Lynn is mad at Uncle Bill because he leaves Flesherton too early; she can't finish her conversation with her fisherman.

Miss. Proctor was absent on Friday, but we guess she was fishing for a certain sucker.

Miss. Johnston can't learn her memory work at night because she is too busy with boys on the bus.

Wanted by Bryce some lipstick to fix Lynn's stocking. Better watch his Jack.

GRADE 12

Bryce specializes in the gal with "Hubba, Hubba" jacket, rolling eyes. short black curly hair, and a turned-up nose. "Sounds good".

Shirley comes to school really fagged out these mornings. After all a nurse's life is hard and strenuous.

Emma prefers riding in a car from school now, I guess it's because of the "cookie-duster" and red hair. After all a car is more comfortable.

Since Betty started to ride around in a big Packard, the homework is being neglected. Better change your ways, Betty.

If everyone would do her homework like Gwen does, we might be a smart class, eh?

Hollywood designers should come to Grade 12 to get ideas of new hair-do's, such as brush cuts and up-sweeps.

Blanche needs a new "Bulova." Late hours don't register on the old Laurie.

If anyone wishes their babies to be sat up apply to Emma Meads. There is an age limit of 21 years after that they are able to sit themselves up.

Shirley has taken to dancing on the lab tables now. I wonder has it anything to do with physiques (physics).

Evelyn nearly lost her mate on Thursday night. Guns are quite dangerous, n, est-a pas?

Marion ought to take up "shorthand." It would be a great help taking History notes, wouldn't it, Marion?

"Absence makes the heart grow fonder", but when you have his picture, it isn't quite as bad is it Barbara?

Dinky reveals her feelings for Bruce by writing in his Physics book:

"Roses are Red
Violets are blue,
Honey is Sweet
And so are you"

Its' getting bad, eh!

Some of the best private libraries are the result of selective borrowing on the part of their owners.
