Lights out for LUTH

The ice storm has dealt another blow, with the organizers of Light Up The Hills (LUTH) deciding to shut down the annual Christmas light display in Dominion Gardens this year.

The display was scheduled to light up the park until Jan. 3

Gerry Kentner, chair of Light Up The Hills, said in a press release issued on Christmas Eve, "We have been battling difficulties with our larger displays and the Guelph St. area all month (weather has been too wet). Now this storm of 2013 has caused extensive damage to our wiring runs. Trees have fallen and broken extension cords and light strings are broken creating a potential hazard to park users," she said.

Kentner said LUTH promises to regroup and have its best show ever in 2014.
