DISTRICT PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS MET AT MARKDALE

Twenty-five teachers from Flesherton, Markdale and Artemesia Public and Separate Schools met in the Markdale Public School recently at five o'clock p.m., when Mr. W. G. Rae, Inspector of Public Schools, delivered a splendid address and also displayed some suitable books for the libraries.

The teachers of the Markdale school had set an attractive table in the principal's room, decorated with fall fruits, and a delicious pot-luck supper was enjoyed each teacher supplying some item.

Mrs. Hans Astrip (Betty Carefoot) of Oslo, Sweden, gave an interesting address on Norway and displayed many things of interest brought from Norway. Another interesting part were the slides shown by Mr. I. B. Lucas from pictures taken during a trip through southern Europe.

The meeting closed at 9:30 p.m. with the organizing of a group to meet again in the spring, with the following officers:

President — Miss Emma Oliver, Flesherton.

Sec.-Treas.—Ethel McGee, Cheeseville.

Assistants — Mrs. Lyons, Miss Aikens, Miss McLoughry, Mrs. Shaw.

The teacher felt that they had benefitted greatly by the eveniag spent together.

Burrows - McMastesr

(By Ceylon Reporter)

A pretty but quiet wedding took place in late September at the Manse, when Rev. Douglas Stewart of Kincardine officiated at the marriage of Janet Marie, second daughter of Mrs. Bertha McMaster, Ceylon, and John Franklin Burrows, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burrows, Kincardine.

The bride looked lovely in a gown of white satin, floor-length, with sweetheart neckline and a shoulder-length veil, and carried a bouquet of pink 'mums and asters tied with sweetheart bow streamers. Miss Ruth Schlosser, Walkerton, as bridesmaid, wore a gown of blue sheer crepe with matching head dress and carried a bouquet of dahlias and asters, tied with pink streamers. Mr. Adon Lockridge was groomsman.

Following the cermony, a dainty lunch was served to the immediate relatives at the home of the groom's parents. The groom's mother wore a gown of lime green with brown accessories, while the bride's mother wore a gown of blue crepe with black accessories.

The bride and groom left later amid a shower of confetti for a honeymoon at Owen Sound and Ceylon. Mr. and Mrs. Burrows will reside at Kincardine.

Ontario's Textile Heritage

At the Canadian National Exhibition the Royal Ontario Museum started something that is already rolling up like a snowball. The Museum's exhibit showed textiles made an used in the early days of Ontario, and it carried to all who saw it a plea to help in the preservation of our textile heritage.

Before the methods of our grandmothers used in spinning and weaving are forgotten and before moths and mildew destroy the beautiful fabrics, let us see that as complete a record as possible is made. The only way that this can be done is with the help of everybody in this province who has knowledge of these matters. Let the Textile Department, Royal Ontario Museum, Toronto, know about early textile tool worshops, factories and fabrics. Even small pieces of cloth are of interest, when it is known when and how they were made.

If each person contributes what they can, a fascinating picture of early life in Ontario, and the slow development from home industry to our great textile factories, will emerge. Let us all help in recording and preserving our textile heritage.

"You brute; you deceived me. Before we were married you told me you were well off."

"I was and didn't know it."

Quality Eggs Will Sell

You can't get high quality eggs from hens that have the run of the place and with eggs gathered infrequently. Eggs deteriorate very rapidly in hot weather and special feeding is required to put quality into the egg itself. The time is past when an egg is an egg. Home consumption soon reacts unfavorably to the odd-colored yolk, the thin white of the egg or of any trace of off-flavor. Hens which pick their living in the yard or have access to the manure pile do not produce eggs of the quality that do the hens under controlled feeding. A farmer with a small flock confined half of the birds to the pen this summer and allowed the other half on range, but both lots were fed the same grain and mash. To his surprise the birds confined to the pen have laid almost double the number of eggs during June, July and August than did the birds on range.

The more British mines that shut down the closer the final blow up.

Lieutenant Knight: "How did you happen to oversleep this morning?"

Private: There were seven of us in the barracks and the alarm clock was set for six."
