Who'll Speak Against Taxation Problem?

The injustice of the crushing tax burden in this country should be driven home in every newspaper and from every broadcasting station. It has become vicious, taking at least dollar out of every three that an average family earns.

Unfortunately, radio is unlikely to take up the cudgels on the taxpayers' behalf. The CBC although it claims to belong to those who pay taxes, is actually operated by the government, which collects them. Further, it is itself dependent on a $2.50 yearly listening tax for its existence.

That leaves the newspapers, which are not dependent [illegible] taxes (only in pa[illegible]) are entirely free [illegible] their minds on the subject. But for how long? Authorities claim that the present system of distributing newsptpers may soon be entirely replaced by a facsimile—the printing of newspapers in the home via radio wave. Such a process will automatically come under jurisdiction of the broadcasting to the public of Canada CBC. which controls all wireless. Unless existing radio laws are changed, it will mean the end of freedom of the press.

And unless something is done about relieving the taxpayers' burden before that happens, there is precious little chance of anything being done after.

A divorce court judge says too many girls love a man just for the time being. Another way of saying just for the present.

Someone was showing a picture of Ghandi in that glorified diaper he wore. "You wouldn't believe it," he said, "but Ghandi was once a lawyer."

Said a man in the group: "He looks more as if he had been a lawyer's client."
