The Farm Forum met on Monday evening, Jan. 31st, at the home of W. B. Johnston and there was a spirited discussion on "Methods of Marketing Agricultural Products." The Forum was unanimously opposed to the open market system and favored organized marketing of some form. One group was all out for "Co-operative marketing," while the other felt there was a place for "Producers' marketing schemes," and government marketing boards, as well as co-operative organizations. With regard to surpluses of farm products it was felt that the producers should receive more information and that there should be an attempt made to regulate production, as well as price fluctuations.

The president, Alex. Gilray, presided, while Billie Johnston and Mrs. A. Bowles were group secretaries. Donnie Johnston read an article on "National Health Week." There was an interesting recreation period and lunch was then served. The next meeting will be held in the hall with Mrs. Angus Bowles as hostess.

After a visit to dancing school, one mother advised her small daughter that she should not just dance silently like a totem pole; talking to her partner was also a part of the social picture . . .

On a later visit the mother saw that, each time the music started, the same little boy tore across the floor, bowed to her daughter, and swept her away to the music.

On the way home, the mother asked why the same lad chose her for every dance.

"Oh him," her small daughter exclaimed. "I'm telling him a continued murder mystery."

THE MIXING BOWL

BY Anne Allan HYDRO HOME ECONOMIST

Hello Homemakers! It is evident according to your letters, that more families are keeping budgets. One woman writes that desserts that cost too much in comparison to the necessary foods such as milk, bread, and vegetables. Perhaps we should consider only desserts that yield the richest food value such as custards, bread puddings and plain fruit cups. Then too, leftovers can be used in attractive ways, and servings can be calculated so that nothing is left on the plate.

Children will enjoy an Apple Custard dessert. It is made by cooking sliced apples in a little water until they are tender. Then sprinkle with ugar and a little lemon rind. Make a plain boiled mustard and pour over the apples. Chill and serve with oatmeal cookies.

If leftover crusts accumulate or tag ends of bread dry, roll fine and mix with brown sugar and orange rind in these proportions: 1½ cups crumbs, ¾ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons grated rind, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon —and 2 tablespoons of butter, if you can spare it. Peel and slice 6 apples and arrange apples and crumbs in layers. Add ½ cup of water and bake in electric oven of 475 degrees for 45 minutes. Serve with foamy sauce or hot milk.

A plain cottage pudding is cheaper than cake with icing on it. Serve with thickened juice from home canned fruit — using corn starch to make the sauce.

Gingerbread makes a delicious dessert and you can use dripping instead of butter or shortening when making it. Serve with marshmallow sauce or just plain squares with a glass of milk.

Baked apples can be a delectable treat when prepared with spiced sugar (brown sugar cinnamon and butter'. Choose flavorsome apples wash thoroughly, core and stuff with sugar. Put them in baking cups with a little water in the bottom. Bake for 40 to 50 minutes in electric oven at 350 degrees.

Cereal pudings, especially those made of pearly barley, whole wheat and rolled oats make some of the best nutritive desserts. Here is a good pudding made of pearly barley.

PEARL BARLEY CASSEROLE

4 tablespoons pearl barley
2½ cups milk
3 tablespoons sugar
1½ cups water
1 egg
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon maple flavouring

Wash barley and soak overnight. Drain off any water and cook with the milk in double boiler. Beat egg, add sugar, salt and flavouring and stir into barley. Pour into greased casserole and bake 15 minutes at 350 degrees. Serves 5.

APPLE CREAM

1¼ cups milk
1 tablespoon sugar
2 egg whites
2 egg yolks
3 cups thick applesauce
1 teaspoon lemon rind

Scald the milk and add gradually to the beaten egg yolks and sugar. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until thick. Beat in the applesauce vigorously. Fold in beaten egg whites and chill. Serves 6. 6.

DESSERT DUMPLINGS

3 cups boiling water
¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind
¾ cup lemon juice
1½ cups pastry flour
1-3 teaspoon salt
¼ cup milk
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons margarine
¼ cup currants
½ teaspoon vanilla

Measure and heat in saucepan the water, sugar, rind and juice. In a bowl sift and measure flour; add baking powler and salt. Cut in margarine and stir in milk and currants. Mix lightly.

Drop mixture by spoonsful into boiling syrup, allowing enough space for dumplings to puff double in size. Cover and simmer 12 minutes — do not lift lid during cooking time. Serve hot at once. Yield: 5 or 6.

"It seems to me, Mary, that you are marrying very hastily. What is the policeman's name?"

"I don't know his name, but I've got his number."
