Letter to The Editor

Broadstairs, Kent,
England

Dear Mr. Thurston:

Will you please convey to the people of Flesherton, through the medium of your valuable paper, our great appreciation of the kind friendliness shown to my wife and myself during our recent stay with my daughter and her husband, Rev. A. J. Fletcher of Cedarside Baptist Church. Our visit terminated rather hurriedly on account of negotiations with the shipping company for an extended visit falling through.

We shall always cherish the memory of the kindly interest in our welfare, shown by so many of the citizens of Flesherton, and hope that this announcement in your paper will be taken as a grateful acknowledgement of the many kindnesses shown to us.

You will see by the address at the head of this letter that we are now back in England, having reached here only yesterday, August 20, after a perfectly lovely trip on the S. S. Acquitania, which we thoroughlyiy enjoyed.

Yours very sincerely,
—ARTHUR BAYFORD.

Marriage On Trial

A present from New Zealand will enable one of Britain's most picturesque ancient customs to be revived this autumn. This is the Dunmow Flitch trial by which a side (or flitch) of bacon is awarded to the married couple who can swear before the townsfolk of Little Dunmow that they have not repented of marriage nor quarrelled for a year and a day. Since the beginning of the war the presentation of this award has not been possible owing to ration restrictions. But part of a prize pig from New Zealand is being set aside especially for this purpose this autumn. The custom is said to have originated in the reign of King Henry III.

Passing through the Panama Canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific, one travels from west to east.

HEALTH IN THE SWIM

Swimming is one of the healthiest sports known to man. It benefits the muscles of practically all parts of the body But swimming in polluted waters is a dangerous business often leading to the contraction of serious diseases. Make sure the waters you swim in have been tested and approved by health authorities.

Osprey Couple Celebrate Anniversary In West

The following letter was received from Mr. C. M. Brownridge of Canora, Sask., relating to the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Inkster, former residents of the 8th line, Osprey.

I had the privilege to enjoy a special event, when I took the train to the little own of Weekes, about 100 miles norh of Canora, to attend the 50th wedding anniversary of a highly respected couple who spent their early days in the Township of Osprey: Alf. Inkster of the 8th line and Mabel Bovair of Heathcote.

After attending school at S.S. No. 5, Alf. learned the blacksmith trade at Dromore and practised in Feversham, shoeing Old Dobbin and bobsleighs, no generators nor spark plugs in those days. He met the highlight (or live wire) of his life soon after, the charming Mabel, and on August 16th, 1899, they took the "I do 'till death does us part" vows. Alf continued with the hammer and tongs until 1926, when he and his wife moved West to Lucky Lake, Sask., where they built up a good good business and made many friends until the depression set in and in 1934 moved north to Weekes, where he has since served the farmers and lumber companies as an outstanding mechanic and citizen, proof and appreciation of which was unmistakably shown by the celebration staged by the citizens of Weekes and the neighboring towns and vicinity for 30 miles around, in the town hall on the evening of August 16th. The hall was attractively decorated and filled with about 200 guests, to whom a very generous lunch was served and entertainment provided, including wedding ceremony, during which the bride nearly lost part of the costume and was forced to seek some privacy for repairs. I doubt that the minister had proper credentials or that the contract will last 50 years, but all is well that ends well.

Mr. and Mrs. Inkster were called to the platform to receive many fine and expensive gifts from various sources, including an elaborate set of silverware and several wedding cakes including one high-topper from B. C., which brought words of sincere appreciation from the recipients. The close relatives present included four generations.

The community spirit of sincere friendship, clean entertainment and good music is deserving of sincere appreciation. I believe that all present will join with me in sincerely wishing them many more years of happy life together. Best wishes to all readers of The Advance.

GALL GAMES ARE TAKEN SERIOUSLY AT NEUSTADT

Trouble flared up after the Ayton Intermediate baseball team defeated the Neustadt outfit by an 8-7 score at the Clifford park on Saturday afternoon. Apparently a few of the fans started to rough things up at the park and then later in the day it is claimed that Neustadt fans visited Ayton with a thirst for revenge. The first attack was beaten off, but was renewed late Saturday night with the aid of reinforcements on both sides. Provincial police eventually arrived to put an end to the fighting. — Mildmay Gazette.

THE THIN EDGE

With all the hollering that is going on in Toronto to make Sunday like any other day of the week, we till feel that Ontario would do well to cling to the idea that Sunday should be different from other days and that it should not be thrown open to all interests, thinking of themselves, that would profit from its exploitation. True, they claim it's not for commercial purposes at present, but it would just be the thin edge of the wedge and eventually it would be pretty hard to tell whether it was Sunday or not.—Brockville Recorder.

Most experts agree that the best way to preserve peace is to be ready to fight for it.

A Farmer's Woodlot Can Be Profitable

The farm woodlot has proved over and over again to be a good investment, and wherever possible, every farmer should have his own reforestation or conservation plan.

Most farmers have an area of rough or strong land that would produce more revenue as a woodlot if properly cared for, than as rough pasture. It is on record that one farmer who followed good woodlot everything removed, found that the land in bush was producing sufficient revenue to pay the rent of the farm.

In the management of a woodlot, it is important to observe one or two things. Cattle should not be allowed to graze in the bush, because the destroy all the young growth which protects the roots of the trees from drying out. When cutting wood for fuel it is advisable to remove all the dead trees, and in order to find them under the snow in winter, it is a good plan to mark their location during the summer. It is also good practise to remove undesirable species of trees, such as ironwood, which do not produce trunks satisfactory for making into lumber. The same applies to crooked and misshapen trees which occupy space that could be utilized for growing straight trees of good lumber varieties.
