Durham Chronicle Sold To Barrie Man

The Durham Chronicle announced last week of the sale of the paper to Mr. George Cadogan of Barrie, the new owner to take possession July 3rd. Mr. Cadogan has been on the staff of The Barrie Examiner for several years.

The Advance editor welcomes the editor to Grey County journalism, but we are sorry to know that the present editor, Frank Irwin, feels it is time to give over to someone else. The Chronicle has been in the Irwin family since 1896, when William Irwin, then teaching school in Flesherton, purchased the paper. Frank went back to Durham in 1909 after a colorful career with the U. S. Army in the Spanish American War, the Phillipines and the Boxer Rebellion in China, then a few years with a circus, and since the death of his father in 1924 succeeded to the editorship of The Chronicle, which he has conducted with distinction since that time.

Again we wish the new owner, Mr. Cadogan every success on his new venture.

Ontario Creameries Support Relief Drive Manitoba Floor Victims

Ontario creamery men have set up a drive for relief funds for the flood sufferers of Manitoba and the fire victims of Rimouski and Cabano in Quebec. Each creamery in Ontario is requested to give at least the equivalent of 50 lbs. of butter or $27.00, and to give it as soon as possible. Speaking in respect to the relief of the Quebec fire victims, R. E. Drope of Harwood president of the Ontario Creamery Association, said "Ontario cream producers owe a debt of gratitude to the people of Quebec. If the Quebec government had not banned the sale of margarine in that province, the situation confronting cream producers would be still worse.

"This is an opportunity," said Mr. Drope, "for Ontario creamerymen tangibly to express appreciation of the support Quebec has given all farmers against the inroads of margarine. That we can do it by helping to relieve human suffering is particularly gratifying."

Speaking of the Manitoba flood sufferers, J. McLean, past president of the Ontario Creamery Association, said, that the flooding of over 6,000 acres of farm land in addition to the cities of Winnipeg and St. Boniface, was a national tragedy. "Many farmers," said Mr. McLean, "will not be able to have a crop this year, and thousands of homes will have to be rebuilt. We are glad that creamery men are doing their little bit to help make things a bit easier out there."

The Flesherton, Markdale and Barrie creameries have already sent their cheques for the Manitoba and Quebec relief.

NOTICE TO OUR PATRONS

The following letter has been sent to Ontario cream producers by the Ontario Cream Producers' Marketing Board:

To All Cream Producers:-

You are familiar with the heavy advertising campaign of the margarine manufacturers. You may not be aware that it has resulted in consumption on a basis of 8.5 lbs. per person per year for Canara, while in the U.S.A., where it has been sold for 75 years, it is less than 6 lbs. per year.

It represents a serious threat to the farm income — and every pound of the cheap butter substitute eaten makes the situation just so much worse.

Farmers across Canada have decided to do something about it. The Dairy Farmers of Canada have undertaken to raise a fund to advertise butter and other dairy products — and do our best to get the gospel of butter to all consumers.

The milk and cream producers in all provinces of Canada have agreed to share in financing this program. This is being done on the truly democratic basis that if EVERYBODY contributes, a large fund can be raised with a very small contribution from any individual producer.

Thus it has been planned to ask all buyers of milk and cream to deduct 1 cent per lb. of butterfat from all purchases in the month of June and forward it to the treasurer of the advertising fund to be used to increase the demand for our product. This, in an indirect way, will help maintain prices at the farm.

We are asking you, as an individual producer, to back us up with the few cents deduction from your cream cheques during June. Of course, this is democratic and voluntary, and we are counting on your full co-operation and support in making the program completely successful. Let's do it together.

Thank you.
