CHRONICLES.

Hear me, oh ye tillers of the soil; open ye your ears and harken into my voice

Put not your trust in men who show unto ye models of strange and wonderful inventions, else ye be bamboozled and deceived.

Look not upon the model of the machine that goeth forth into the field to reap and gather up the sheaves.

Nor upon the pump that requireth not human aid to seduce from its subterranean bed the sparkling waters for the refreshment of lowing kine.

Turn ye away from him who presenteth them; flee from the sound of his velvet embroedered voice.

Else it bit ye like a serpent and sting ye like the prickings of the concience of him who defraudeth the publisher and payeth not his yearly tithes.

From his lips droppeth taffy as droppeth the sap from the sugar trees in the camps of our fathers.

Shun him, oh ye agitators of the clodded field, for he will draw over thine eyes the fleecy substance which is wool; yea, verily, he will hornswoggle ye with words that are pleasant unto the ear.

He will say unto ye: "Sign ye this covenant that ye may act in my stead and supply the toiling masses with my handiwork.

"Serve ye as my agent, for will ye not therefore wax rich; will not the silver and gold flow into thy coffers.

"Sign quickly I beseech ye, that another may not reap the golden harvest in thy stead.

And when ye sign or engrave upon the covenant thy seal, he will go on his way rejoicing, caying unto himself:

"Verily, did I not strike the duffer handsomely; did I not turn the trick in bang-up shape?"

When a fortnight passes the machines have come not; the wonderful mechanism hath failed to meteralize.

Lo! in their sted there cometh unto ye a person clothed in fine raiment and a look of dignity.

And preacheth unto ye your own covenant, saying:

"Pay unto me what thou owest; handle up the ducats, else I bring ye before the judge.

"Hold here thy note of hand for $722.10.

Then ye will wax sore afraid, and your heart will be in your bosom as heavy as the biscuit of the amateur cook!

And ye will go down into your garments for scrip and pay the amount, while the stranger wears an electric smile.

And when the man of fine raiment departeth ye will say unto your wife: "Lo, verily, am not I a confounded fool.

And she will softly reply, "You bet!"

Then you will seize your ledger and write upon the debit side thereof:

To complete dishonesty.....$722.10.

And on the credit sid thereof:

To experience....$10,000,000,000,000.

HORSE WHICH DIDN'T COTCH ON.

Two or three days ago a colored man drove a horse and wagon up to the passenger depot on Woodward avenue and asked how long before a train would pass. He was told that it was only certain minutes to wait, and he explained:

"Look here boss am at animal dat I stand off his mawnin', an' I want to see how he will stan' de railroad."

He had seen about twenty engines and was as thin as sheet-iron. There was a general laugh at the idea of his being afraid of anything. Nevertheless as the Lake Shore train came in sight in the distance, the old horse raised his head, picked up his ears and showed considerably animation. As the train came in sight he began to prance and the driver held a still line. He shouted out:

"Git up! Napoleon! Dat's only de railroad comin' in! Steady, chile, what's de use o' puttin' on airs!"

As the train thundered in, the horse reared up and pawed the air, shook off the man who grabbed the bridle, and wheeled around, he upset the waggon and ditched it and went up the Pontiac road with the forward wheels rolling after. The owner was picked up in a dazed condition, more scared than injured, and when one of the crowd remarked that the horse didn't stand the railroad very well, the man replied.

"Well, I dunno. He 'peared to like de railroad all right; but it was de bellygine an' de kivered kyars which he didn't cotch on to. I 'spects it is the way he acted dat he's been sober free or fo' times."—M. A.

ONTARIO ROUGHLY HANDLED.

OTTAWA TEACHER TAKEN FROM HIS BED AND DUCKED IN A POND.

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.—An Ottawa young man has gone through an unpleasant visit at Murray Bay, where he has been enjoying his summer vacation. It is that a couple of nights ago he was at the hotel where he was staying was unceremoniously visited shortly after midnight by some parties who were disguised, and, despite his strenuous efforts, he was taken out of the place and ducked in an adjacent pond to such an extent that it took him some time to get over the effects of the forced bath. The letter containing the intelligence does not give the particulars of the affair; but from what is written it is quite evident that there was a woman in the case. The young man is said to have been admonished by some of the employes of the hotel, who may have been jealous of the captivating qualities of the young man, whose city occupation is that of a teacher in one of the public schools.

A BLACK WALNUT STORY.

The smartest Texan, and, in fact, the smartest farmer I ever met, is William Graves, who lives on a 100 acre farm west of Waxahatchie, in central Texas. After Mr. Graves had shown me his cattle and cotton he took me over to see his woods.

"Well, what of it?" I asked, as he pointed out a ten acre forest.

"What of it?" Why them's black walnuts, sir. Ten acres of 'em. Planted 'em myself, ten years ago. See, they are ten inches through. Good trees, eh?"

And sure enough there was ten acres of hand-planted walnut trees. They stood about 200 feet apart, 200 to the acre—in all 2,000 trees.

"Well, how did you get your money back?" I asked.

"Black walnuts are worth $2,50 a bushel, ain't they? I'll get 400 bushels this year. That's $1,000. A hundred dollars a year is good rent for land worth $15 an acre, ain't it?"

"Well, what else?" I inquired, growing interested.

"The trees," continued Mr. Graves, "are growing an inch a year. When they are 20 years old they will be nineteen inches through. A black walnut tree nineteen inches through is worth $15. My 2,000 trees ten years from now will be worth $30,000. If I don't want to cut them all I can cut half of them, and then raise a bushle of walnuts to the tree—that is, get $2,500 a year for the crop. Two hundred and fifty dollars an acre is a fair rent for $15 land, ain't it?"—Chicago Tribune.

JULY.

During this month summer complaints commence their ravages. To be forewarned is to be forearmed. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the best known preventative and cure for all forms of bowel complaints and sickness incident to the summer season.

TEN DAYS TOO LATE.

A man who lives in the Saginaw Valley was at the depot to take the train for home. As he was buying his ticket, an old friend who lives here, slapped him on the shoulder and gave him a greeting. After a few salutions, the Detroiter asked:

"Have you married again?"

"No."

"Do you want to?"

"Yes."

"Come with me, I know a widow whom I can recommend."

"Can we get back to the depot in fifty minutes?"

"Yes; easily."

"Very well; lead the way."

That's all there was said about it until they reached the Central Market. The Detroiter walked the Valley man up to the stand of a well known and fair looking widow and said:

"Mrs. Blank, my friend has only a few minutes to spare. You are a widow?"

"Yes."

"Three children?"

"Yes."

"Healthy, good natured, and a member of the Baptist church?"

"Yes."

"Very, well; this is Mr. Blank of Saginaw; he is forty-seven years old, sound as a dollar, owns a good farm, has two children, and is looking for a second wife. Do you like his looks? Will you encourage him? Do you think you could love him? He is in a hurry, and can't fool away time. Yes or no?"

"No," replied the widow, as she arranged her pie plant and radishes; "he's ten days to late; I am engaged to a widower in Toledo."

"That's honest injun?"

"True as I live."

"Nuff sed—good morning, and he has thirty-one minutes left to go to the train."

And the Saginaw widower picked up his grip sack and walked off without a change of countenance.—Detroit Free Press.

NO HOSPITAL NEEDED.—No palatilal hospital needed for Hop Bitter's patients, nor large salaried talented puffers to tell what Hop Bitters will do or cure, as they tell their own story by their certain and absolute cures at home.—New York Independent.

NATURE MAKES NO MISTAKES.

Nature's own remedy for bowel complaints, cholera morbus, cholic, cramps, vomiting, sea sickness, cholera infantum, diarrhœa, dysentery, and all diseases of a like nature belonging to the summer season, is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, which can be obtained of all dealers in medicine.
