At a meeting of the Committee on Conference Boundaries in connection with the Methodist Church in Toronto recently, at which Rev. Dr. Griffin and Mr. W. G. Smith represented the Guelph conference, there were a great many proposed changes, but the proposal which met with most favor was the one reducing the number of Conferences from six to four, as follows:—No. 1 Conference to consist of the present Montreal Conference with the addition of two districts (Tamworth and Madoc) from the Bay of Quinte Conference; No. 2 Conference, the Bay of Quinte (less the two districts) and all of the Toronto Conference east of Yonge street; No. 3 Conference, the present Guelph Conference and all Toronto Conference west of Yonge street, the following Toronto districts to be added to Guelph; Toronto West Brampton, Orangeville, Collingwood, Parry Sound and Algoma; No. 4 Conference, the present Niagara and London Conference to be made one. If this division is carried out it will give about five hundred members to each annual Conference, half ministerial and half lay members. The proposal has to be pronounced on by each of the present Conferences, and if the expression of opinion is favorable, it will facilitate matters when the scheme comes up before the General Conference of 1894 for legislation thereon.

Harvest is over for this year and was exceptionally good.

The last time we met Mr. Robert Buchanan he was smiling all over the face because the advent of a young daughter in his family.

Several of our citizens took in the Toronto Exhibition. One gentleman had the luck to get very excited on his way down for on the arrival of the train at Cardwell Junction he hustled his better half off the train supposing that they had arrived at Parkdale, he going on to the Union Station where he had some business to transact. Imagine his dismay on discovering his mistake.

KIMBERLEY.

The fruit social here last Friday evening in aid of the Sunday School was a grand success, physically, sociably and financially.

The dry, warm weather of the last ten days has enabled the husbandman to finish up his harvest which, I believe, was not above an average. The potato crop was just great, but sad to say has now started to rot generally.

The school here has been ordered to be closed by the Medical Health Officer owing to the prevalence of Scarlatina or Scarlet-fever. The present teacher Mr. Scott has been engaged for another year.

W. Carruthers, merchant and post master at Wodehouse, was visiting in Kimbrley a few nights since. He is one of the most respected young men we have produced and there is some indications that somebody will be wooed to Wodehouse by him, as he seems to be wooing.

Miss Lucy Robinson, of the General P. O. Department at Ottawa, has been up here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Robinson, recently.

A change takes place to-day (Thursday) in which Geo. Bailey, the C. P. R. section foreman of this place, goes to Dundalk, and D. Telford of Shelburne comes back to Holland Centre.

Mr. Albert Privat, formerly of this place, arrived here recently from Manitoba and has been very ill since with dropsy. On Sunday last she succumbed to the disease at her father's home near here.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Friday, 27th ult., a very painful and sad accident occurred by which the 2 year old child of Wm. Ashbury was scalded to death. It was threshing day and as Mrs. Ashbury was busy, she threw a panful of scalding hot water out of the window. The water alighted on the shoulders and body of the child, who was sitting under the window. It died next day while in convulsions.

Walter's Falls.

The whole town is in a boom this week. Everything is lively. It reminds us of the beautiful warm sun in the spring, setting free the insects from their lifeless state into a state of activity and delight. Should the weather continue as at time of writing, there probably will be six or seven thousand people present on the 30th.

Miss Mark and Miss McKenna of Orangeville are the guests of Messrs. Bonnell.

Mr. James Seabrook was joined in wedlock to Miss Emma Hodgins, a fortnight ago. We join in wishing them a long and happy life.

We were not so much surprised to hear of the above wedding as one which took place last week in a little town to the west of us. Let the Fort go for the widower has come and taken the old maid away to live with him whose sighs shall surely have ceased. Are they away on a trip? Why, yes, to be sure. Gone, but not forgotten on their return, when there shall be ringing and tinging and chattering of pans, mold boards, cow-bells, etc. Woman was not made to live alone when winter draws Nigh. Jacks, Slimbo, Jumbo and Rumbo; Johnston, McInnis and Kilver son still boast of their "Good-luck." Beware of imitations.

Miss Cobain of Dunith is the guest of Mrs. John Reid.

Markdale Stove Industry.

In competition with the leading Canadian stove firms at Toronto Exhibition the Pearl line of Stoves manufactured by T. L. Moffat & Sons of this place were conceded to be the best finished and most artistic stoves in their special lines now on the market. It is not often that a comparatively new firm in the stove business have risen to such prominence in so short a time, but the fact is easily explained when we recognize the amount of mechanical skill and ability that is brought to bear upon their work. Their Pearl Stoves are now to be found in nearly every town in Ontario, and many people to whom the name of Markdale was some unknown geographical term, found only on the map, have suddenly found there is a place of that name, and that if it's products in the stove line are any criterion it must be a place of considerable push and activity. The firm in conjunction with several others have been selling their stoves at a lower price brought down upon themselves the whole weight of the famous Stove Combine, now extinct, but the great aim of the ex-members of the Combine is to crush those non-combination firms. But T. L. Moffat & Sons do not appears the stubborn firm do not intend to be crushed out of existence and are doing a larger business than ever before. The people of Ontario just at this present time have no fair in any Combination or Ex-combination of any kind.

Dress Fabrics.

(From the Ladies Bazaar.)

There is but little change to report in regard to materials to be worn during the early fall months. The seasons in this country have changed somewhat during the past few years—warm and cold, wet and dry weather being so intermingled that it is difficult to distinguish where one season ends and another begins—that the same sort of materials are worn perforce from early spring to late autumn. The past summer has been exceptionally variable, warm and cold days alternating with almost unprecendented regularity, so that the woolens have been, few which some woolen costume or wrap has not necessarily taken the place of lighter garments.

And so it has come to be the rule rather than the exception for woolen goods to be seen in the stores, on the street, and even for house wear, during most of the summer months, and the same class of materials will remain in vogue until the heavy winter goods make their appearance. The importations for early fall comprise all the standard and many entirely new shades of cashmere, beige, plaid, and similar materials. To these have been added a new fabric of llama wool, coarse in texture, and exceedingly durable for travelling or every-day wear.

Camel's-hair, Neapolitan, Bedford cord, diagonal and straight stripe, and cheviot, homespun and single figured cloth will be worn after September. The diagonal or serpentine stripe are just now a Parisian fad, and while fine yet striking in effect they are undoubtedly too odd to become general, as the material is made up so as to bring the stripe winding around the wearer, which means bias piecing and a waste of material. Velvet, velveteen, Benglaline, faille, satin, duchesse, brocade and moiretta are the materials to be used in combinations. Just at present fashion is stating whether to have the skirt of the same or a contrasting material. The camel's hair fabrics do not require trimming, but the other must be garnited with fur, braid and passementerie.

Nothing has as yet taken the place of the rough-surfaced silk velvets and checked tweeds brought out last year across the seas, their reputation for durability having been amply proven by experience. For travelling nothing is equal to the latter, one being as desirable as the other, it being merely a matter of taste which is selected.

The blouse waist which sprang into prominence at once into popularity and has universally worn during summer, still retains its hold, especially as an accompaniment to a travelling or outing costume, as it adapts a dress at once to a change of atmosphere, or occasion. Silk, cashmere, serge, washing and all-wool flannels will be utilized for these convenient garments, which will probably continue to be worn during winter.

For early fall wear mousseline de laine, which now comes in such delightfully soft, fine quality, will be a favorite material, and many choice colors and designs are imported. A novel idea is to unite de laine with Benglaline, and a gown was recently seen in which this combination was very effective. The sides of the skirt and portions of the waist were of figured de laine, while the bodice and back of the skirt were of Benglaline, in a color to match the figure of the de laine.

Both capes and jackets made of the dress material are fashionable, especially for travelling costumes made of the soft, hairy spotted stripes and plaid woolens that will be so largely used for this purpose. When the jacket is long it is far more becoming to have it of the dress material, as the division between the short and jacket almost entirely disappears. Capes with collars and revers of bright colored embroidered satin make admirable wraps for cool days.

AFTER MANY DAYS.

Johnston's Mills, Nov. 14, 1890.

W. H. Comstock, Brockville, Ont.

DEAR SIR:—For 12 years my wife was a martyr to that most distressing Dyspepsia. Nothing relieved her. Her physicians were consulted and medicine taken, but without avail. One doctor advised a change of climate, suggesting Manitoba as a desirable place. We acted upon the advice, coming here two years ago. The change in climate brought a change indeed, for the better, as she was soon confined to her bed, and under the care of two doctors who gave her little hope of her living a month longer. A friend hearing of her case came to see her one day who had been cured by your Almanac. She told her of the wonderful benefit she had received from it, of the many testimonials she read in it, of the good it was doing, and of her determination to try a box of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. She did so, was relieved, kept improving, and is now able to do house-work, and attributes the use of Morse's Pills.

Yours gratefully,
GEO. HUNN.
