A PUBLIC DUTY.—Upon the visit of Mr. Laurier and his friends to the town of Durham last Monday, the public building and town generally was bedecked in best holiday attire. This is as it should be, and we trust that Markdale will exhibit a similar spirit in decorating our town upon the arrival of Sir John Thompson and his friends on Oct. 5—not in a partizan spirit but that our visitors may be deeply impressed with the fact that Markdale possesses thrift, business activity, and general prosperity, unsurpassed in western Ontario.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING.—The Harvest Thanksgiving services in Christ Church, Markdale, and St. Matthias church, Berkeley, on Sunday last were well attended and appropriate. The churches were both handsomely adorned with grains, fruits and foliage arranged in artistic design. The music was good, the collections liberal and altogether the day's services were impressive and profitable.

VICTORIOUS AGAIN.—Markdale has one of the best Football Clubs in this part of the country, but they are said to receive very poor support from the townspeople. On Monday last Holland Centre came down with a heavy team to play a match and were defeated by three goals to none. The visiting team came confident of winning and when their hopes began to wane they tried playing rough and as a result some of the home team were very badly used up. Out of about eight matches this fall the boys have not lost a single game, and all the opposing clubs were much heavier. The people will have a chance on Thursday of seeing the boys play again when the long-talked-of Dundalk-Markdale match is to be played. Everybody should come and see this match as it will be the best ever seen in this district. Game called at 4 p. m. —CON.

A FEW weeks ago a Bentinck farmer near Dornoch, named Walsh, had eight head of cattle stolen from off his place but took no steps for their recovery for over a week after, when he came here and interviewed Constable Galbraith in the matter, and he advised Walsh to give the dealers a description of the cattle and also watch the fairs himself. The plan was successful and last week a buyer was offered six head at the Fergus fair which he was sure were some of the stolen cattle. The seller wanted $150 for the six head, but dropped to $100 when the buyer paid a deposit on them and telegraphed to Constable Carson of Durham to bring Walsh with him and come down prepared to take three prisoners, and he also consulted a magistrate and it was deemed advisable to place the men under arrest. Upon his arrival Welsh identified the cattle and the three prisoners went through here last Saturday in charge of Constable Carson on their way to Owen Sound jail to await trial. The thieves are a family named Ball who reside in Normanby and were once well off, and from subsequent information it would appear that they have made a business of stealing cattle, as the other two missing cattle were found in a ten-acre beaver meadow in the heart of a thick bush, the clearing fenced for secreting the stock thus obtained. One of the prisoners is a boy about 18 years of age and the father and elder brother (a married man) should each be sent down for ten years for training the little boy to be a cattle thief.—Chatsworth News.

THEY have discovered a curiosity in Chicago that rivals anything in the Midway Plaisance—at least Chicago editors seem to think so. Says one of their number:—There is a hotel just outside the fair grounds, where the force of dining-room girls is like unto none in this city. In the first place the manager of the hotel is a Canadian evangelist, and the girls are mostly recruited from the Sunday school ranks. After their duties they hold prayer meetings in their own rooms and are not above carrying tracts in their apron pockets. Added to this one of the waitresses is a New York school teacher, who is doing the fair on an economical plan—sightseeing and earning a little at the same time. Another is a cultured Boston girl, who came here for a change of air and found that she could do this light work without injury and thus spare her lean pocket-book. But the most of them are quiet, well-mannered Canadian girls, who sing hymns lustily in the model Sunday school adjoining the hotel and do their work with a pleasant smile and with Christian patience. One of the girls is a beauty in a golden haired, violet-eyed way. The young men at that hotel are said never to grumble at their meals, and a swear word is a thing unknown." Just think of it! Sunday school girls who sing hymns, working in a Chicago hotel! Of all the attractions either inside or outside the white city this surely beats them all. Nor are we at all sorry that this particular curiosity in "the wickedist city" on the continent should come from Canada.

We have a large stock of Spectacles which we are selling off at greatly reduced prices.
