A. O. U. W. GRAND LODGE.—The net increase of members in Ontario Jurisdiction A. O. U. W. for 1893 was 1,497. The proposition to secede from the Supreme Grand Lodge was defeated, the motion getting a three year hoist. A proposition to issue $1,000 as well as $2,000 certificates was adopted, members holding such to pay fifty cents per assessment.

P. P. P.—There's new societies and associations organized quite frequently some of which serve a good purpose while others appear to be launched for the purpose of gulling the public. P. P. P. stands for Pastry, Puddings and Pie. In some cases they are nourishing as well as pleasant to take but in many instances result injuriously to the digestive machinery, but Wade's Excellent bread is always safe as well as palatable and if regularly eaten cannot fail to build up the system.

ON Sunday last Mr. Hinde announced to his congregation here that he had accepted a call to St. Thomas. A vestry meeting was held in the basement of Christ church on Monday evening. The resignation of the Rev. W. Hinde was, with many expressions of regret of his removal accepted. A committee consisting of Mr. W. Turner, Mr. Thos. Brady and Mr. R. D. Egger was appointed to secure a successor. The vestry adjourned to meet in two weeks to receive report.

BANJO SOCIETY.—On Wednesday night of last week Sara Lord Bailey made her second "show" to a Markdale audience. Her appearance bespeaks a feeling of confidence and pleasure, and being graceful in her movements and vigorous in physique and expression can sway the audience at will. Her rendition of "The Chariot" was specially good. The following taken from a full and appreciative assignment: Fred. Field cornet solo; The Bach Family made a popular hit; the band had last but not least, our popular comic, W. J. Benson. Dr. Sproule, M.P., did honor to the position of chairman. The concert was under the auspices of the Citizens' Band under whose management it went off smoothly and order prevailed throughout.

A TOUGH WINTER'S BREAKFAST.—What must have been a genuine lay marriage at least on the part of the male principal, was happily celebrated near the romantic scenery of the wilds of Muskoka. In the days when love is strongest and love burns brightest in the human breast wood but lost a fair English maid. In the hope that distance would quench the flame he removed to America, married and became the happy father of six. His early love also married, and became the proud mother also of six. In time both departed and the flame burst forth again fierce than ever. The denouement was that Mr. Hogley met the widow and her six children in Toronto, took them out to his Muskoka home, introduced them to the six little Hogleys and married the mother. After that who would give up in despair?

FIRE! FIRE!!—On Friday night last a brilliant light was seen in a southerly direction from Markdale. Citizens congregated at favorable points for a good view and varied were the speculations as to whose buildings were being reduced to ashes. Some located the fire at Geo. Little's which is 1½ miles distant, while others thought it was John Hamilton's barn and still more claimed that it was a much greater distance off. The flames continued to leap and illuminate the sky for nearly an hour and all sympathize with the unfortunate family whoever they might be, on getting burned out on such a cold night. The next morning it was learned that Armstrong's had set fire to a pea straw stack in their field which was the cause of all the excitement. Notwithstanding the elaborate bon fire the mercury crept down to 26 below zero before daylight.

Wedding Bells in Euphrasia.

One of those delightful events in which people of all ages invariably evince more than a passing interest, occurred at the residence of Mr. Wm. Thatcher, Temple Hill, Euphrasia, on Wednesday evening 21st ults. when his eldest daughter, Miss Eliza A., was united in marriage with Mr. John J. Johnston of Euphrasia. The interesting ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. McLaren, B.D., pastor Temple Hill Presbyterian church, and was witnessed by a large number of the relatives and friends of the contracting parties, among whom were: Mr. H. Johnston and Mrs. Johnston, Mr. Johnston, Miss Jessie Johnston, Mr. Wm. Johnston, Mr. Samuel Johnston and Mrs. Johnston, Mr. Alex. McMillan and Mrs. McMillan, Mr. Robert C. Johnston, Mr. Jas. Johnston, Mr. Thos. Johnston, Mr. Robert Erskine, Mr. Henry Erskine, Mr. Albert Erskine, Miss Erskine, Mr. Hope Turney, Mr. Robert Johnston and Miss Susan Johnston, Cousins of the bride, Mr. Geo. Breckner, Miss Breckner, Brooklyn, Mich., Mr. Samuel Hogle, Miss Pearson, Miss Clegg, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Richardson, Mr. John Fallis, Jr., Mr. Thos. Reed, Mr. W. H. Thatcher, Mr. Thos. Mr. Fred Thatcher, Mr. Wm. Vea[illegible], Mr. [illegible], Mr. Robt. McIntosh, Mr. Jas. McIntosh, Mr. [illegible] and Mr. Isaac Gibson. The bride was supported by her cousin, Mr. John W. Irwin of Heathcote, and the bride's sister, Miss Maggie, gracefully discharged the duties of bridesmaid. The bride was becomingly attired in fawn colored velvet, trimmed with silk, and the bridesmaid's dress was of grey tweed, with velvet trimmings.

Immediately after the ceremony supper was served. The table were tastefully and temptingly laden, the variety of food seemed to be endless, and the quality was such as would satisfy the most exacting epicure. Supper over, the guests were soon in full possession of Mr. Thatcher's spacious residence. Mr. and Mrs. Bleasdale and the Misses Breckner were on the alert to see that all enjoyed themselves, and on every hand there were manifestations of the generous hospitality for which the Irish family is proverbial. Dancing continued uninterruptedly until the night was far spent, and amusements of various other kinds were participated. Sociability, friendly feeling, merriment ruled the hour, and everybody seemed pervaded by the spirit of the occassion.

The presents were very numerous, and there was a pleasing absence of duplication. The collection was really a splendid one, comprising many unique and costly articles, and the happy couple may justly be proud of these substantial tokens of good will.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston will occupy the old homestead, 7th line, Euphrasia. They begin life's journey with the brightest prospects, and their many friends wish them abundant happiness and prosperity.
